Barnes Park gets makeover

by Dillon Hamilton

More than 100 neighborhood residents and members of the community gathered for the ribbon cutting and dedication of the newly renovated Barnes Park, at 6th and E Street in Marion, on Sunday afternoon, October 22.

The renovation was the result of Hands of Hope and Family Service Society, Inc. working with the Delta Focus Grant program with a mission of ensuring safe and nurturing relationships and environments in the commu-

Marion HS student aces ACT

Marion High School senior Elizabeth Wuertley has earned a perfect score on the ACT test. The ACT test is the nation's most popular college entrance exam. According to the ACT organization, only 1 of every 1,000 test takers earns a perfect score.

The exam consists of tests in English, mathematics, reading and science, each scored on a scale of 1 to 36. A student's composite score is the average of the four test scores. Elizabeth earned a composite score of 36, the highest possible.

In a letter recognizing the achievement, ACT Chief Executive Officer Marten Roorda called the perfect score "significant and

Haines inaugurated as 31st president of Taylor

Paul Lowell Haines, EdD, JD, was installed as Taylor University's 31st president during inauguration ceremonies Friday morning, October 20, in the Kesler Student Activities Center.

The installation was one of numerous events surrounding Haines' inauguration. Additional activities included a pair of public concerts and an academic colloquium as well as a number of private, invitation-only events. Haines is a 1975 Taylor alumnus and former member of Taylor's Board of Trustees, and succeeded Dr. Eugene B. Habecker, now Taylor's president emeritus, on June 1, 2016.

Three former Taylor presidents,--Jay Kesler, David Gyertson, and Habecker--as well as longtime Taylor administrator and once acting president Daryl Yost, had roles in the inauguration.

"The inauguration of a president on any college campus is an event of significance that reaches well beyond the person who is vested with the office of president," said Haines. "From the time my wife, Sherry, and I solemnly accepted the call to serve as Taylor's president and first lady, we have looked forward to this celebration with a deep sense of purpose, humility, gratitude, and awe, and certainly, an urgent reliance on God."

In addition to his degree from Taylor, Haines holds a doctor of education degree from the University of Pennsylvania, a doctor of jurisprudence from the Maurer School of Law at Indiana University, and a master of arts from Ball State University.

Haines served the first 10 years of his professional career at Taylor. He left Taylor in 1987 to attend law school.

Haines' wife Sherry, also a Taylor graduate, spent 35 years as an art teacher in public and private schools, most recently at Cathedral High School in Indianapolis. The Haineses are parents to one daughter, Hannah, who is also a Taylor University alumna and a registered nurse with IU Health.

Surrounding Haines are his wife Sherry Haines and former Taylor presidents Jay Kesler, David Gyertson and Eugene Habecker.

The company produced $3,000 of work a month for RCA by making specialty filters. Specialty filters were sewn on a home Kenmore machine with a tiny needle and shipped out by Krumel's late wife, Caroline Krumel. mel, Clarence and Marie Hall owned and operated the company for 52 years. They moved the business in 1930 to the corner of Factory and Western Avenues.

Dating back even further, Charles P. and Alice Lancaster operated Marion Tent and Awning in 1916 at 312 E. Third St. The business was also associated with George C. Harwood's Indiana Truck Company in the late 1800s. according to research collected from Louis Ebert's file at the Marion Public Library and Museum.

Marion Tent served the community from several locations around the center of the city including Fifth St., currently Holt Muffler Shop, and on Second St. behind Foreman's Marathon, now the City of Marion parking lot with the dancing lady statue.

Today, Krumel, age 69, has his sights on retirement. He has to turn down work due to time and energy constraints. While Krumel will not be able to see Marion Tent and Awning through the next century, he is ready to teach the next owner the trade.

Thinking of Doris this month

Appreciation like to personally say to all pastors, we salute you today for your dedication, commitment, and nonstop service to our Savior, Jesus Christ. I Timothy 3 tells us that any man that seeks the position of pastor seeks a good thing. There is never a dull moment, nor a day off, for the truly Godcalled man of God. Why would you want to do anything else if God has called you to the pastorate?

As the senior pastor at Grace Community Church I feel that every day of the year is Pastor Appreciation Day. I have been blessed with the most wonderful people you could ask for in any congregation. The last 24 years have been an experience I have thoroughly enjoyed.

There is always a reason for the articles that I write. I am always looking for blessings as I experience every day the Lord gives me. Oh what a blessing I received recently because of Doris. DEATH NOTICES What will Amazon do after locating HQ2? Ed knows chat a little today about the madness sweeping cities, villages, towns and hamlets across America right now in the wake of the deadline to apply for the grandest of all brass rings, the anointing for the site for what is known as "Amazon HQ2," the new world headquarters for Amazon.com, well on its way to becoming the largest supplier of goods the world has ever seen.

We were going to talk about the requirements set out by Amazon, the things that would have to be addressed in proposals that were due at 2121 Seventh Avenue, Seattle, WA, by the end of the day last Thursday.

Those things included being 45 minutes from a major international airport; 500,000 square feet of space, with room for 8 million square feet; 33 buildings; 24 restaurants within the campus; annual accommodations for 233,000 nights of hotel guests by clients and customers, and upwards of 50,000 jobs, most paying at least $100,000 a year. In short, conditions for which economic developers would sell their mothers, wives and most of the children.

We were going to talk about how cities large and small—including Indianapolis, in cooperation with Fishers—have spent oodles of time, talent, energy and money putting together their proposals.

Even The Region is in on the act. Gary Mayor Karen Freeman-Wilson said their effort "is real" and they have some "secret, unique elements in our application. We think we have a win-win here with the Indiana business climate and the Chicagoarea amenities," said Freeman-Wilson, who, you may recall, was once Indiana attorney general.

We were going to mention some of the oddities around the country, like Stonecrest, GA, which has set aside 345 acres at the edge of town and named it Amazon because, as they say in their proposal, "How could you not want your 21st-century headOr the Tucson, AZ, group that dug up a 21-foottall Saguaro cactus and shipped it to Seattle to call attention to the beauty of the desert city. "We wanted to make sure that Mr. Bezos and his team notice us," the Arizonans said. Amazon respectfully declined the gift, saying such addendums were ometimes I surprise myself with all of ne interesting things get to do and the places I get to go. So to answer the question that is posed by this column's title:

During October I've been to the states of Kansas and Kentucky as destinations, while passing through Ohio, Illinois, and Missouri. I've attended events in Indianapolis, Kokomo, Muncie, and Winona Lake here in Indiana. And I've had occasion to visit Upland twice, gave what to whom? I tagged along with Karen Jonesboro, and the Oak Hill area here in Grant County.

Having 12 precious grandchildren gives Karen and me plenty of opportunities to attend events. We have been to Grandparents Lunch and the obligatory book fair with our Kindergarten granddaughter Kara at Westview School in Jonesboro, as well as Grandparents Day at Indiana Wesleyan University for grandchildren Kevin (a senior) and Mikela (a sophomore). Granddaughter Mallory provided us a chance to see her play softball on her U14 team, the Topeka Mudhens, the weekend we went to Kansas. And grandson Kyle invited us to Senior Night for his Asbury University Eagles soccer team in Wilmore, Kentucky; and we saw them beat Ohio Christian University, 2 -0. The youngest grandchildren, those nine-month-old twin boys in Kansas, keep me busy watching videos that their parents send us. I visited the Kokomo City Hall on behalf of Grant County to pick up a ceremonial check for highway funds from Indiana Governor Eric Holcomb. I posed politely for pictures there as the governor's press team created photo op s for each county, city, and small town in the region; but I inwardly grimaced while thinking about being "given" highway dollars that the state had taken in taxes. Indianapolis is a big city that seems to function efficiently, and it made me proud to be a Karen and I went to Upland for the Grant County GOP fall picnic, hosted by the new, energetic GOP County Chairman Darren Reese, where I caught up with Congresswoman Susan Brooks, State Senator Andy Zay, and State Representative Tony Cook. We went back to Upland for the impressive inauguration of Taylor University's 31st president, Lowell Haines. It was a grand affair, befitting a university whose founding predates the Civil War.

I played golf at Meshingomesia, Arbor Trace, and Walnut Creek golf courses, carding some of the best nine-hole scores of the year. And a dinner at the Boathouse restaurant on the shores of Winona Lake with Karen's family was a nice event that we were able to enjoy.

My service on the Grant County Council had me attending the regular monthly meeting, a special meeting, and some information sessions. I also had an opportunity to visit with the county commissioners and hear their plans for the much-needed renovation of our county jail. I was recently chosen to serve on the board of our Home Owners' Association of Country Lake Estates

Friday to see the Marion Giants football team start their IHSAA tournament journey by beating Delta, 35 -21. They are having a great year, sporting a 7-3 record, and heading to the big showdown this Friday in Gas City with the Mississinewa Indians. I also went to Oak Hill to watch the boys soccer sectional there, and saw Eastbrook win their first game in overtime, and then witnessed Marion's loss in a shootout to finish their fine season. I attended a couple o f IWU men's soccer games, and IWU Volleyball's Pink Out night to support breast cancer awareness. Those events are in my neighborhood, so don't really count

Rounding out the month and yet to come are my annual visit to my doctor and my 70th birthday. Karen and my family have organized a celebration of that event this Saturday at Buffalo Wild Wings from 2-5 p.m. and you are invited. Please, no gifts, but just stop by and say hello.

I feel very blessed to be able to travel and attend so many interesting and exciting events this month. God has been and continues to be so good to me. May God bless you also, and I hope you have a really good week.

students come to the neighborhood to do a comprehensive walkthrough and survey.

A few years later, in the fall of 2016, a group of Indiana Wesleyan University design students created a conceptual plan to improve the park which included a barrier for the park, and new playground equipment.

Wilk reached out to Belinda Hussong, Marion Parks director, to see if the students could present their plan to the Parks board. The board saw them on February 6, 2017, which opened a dialogue between Wilk and the Parks department over the Barnes Park renovation, and things begun to fall into place.

In the spring, the Parks Department removed a dangerous merry-go-round from the park. A group from a local alternative school took a half day, and repainted the existing playground equipment. Hussong knew about a large piece of playground equipment located at the old Go Kart Track on SR18. She offered it to Wilk's group, if they could find a way to relocate it.

Volunteers from the neighborhood began to disassemble the equipment in July, removing the tornado slide, ladders, and monkey bars, and leaving just the core of the structure.

Wilk reached out to Mayor Jess Alumbaugh for help, and within 24 hours the building commissioner and street department director of Marion were at the go-kart track planning how to transfer the equipment. The equipment was moved by crane from the go-kart track to Barnes Park; Wilk hopes to have it installed by winter.

"This is what a better community is going to look like, people coming together to make a change," Mayor Alambaugh said at the ribbon cutting on Sunday, "That's what the future of Marion is going to look like, people coming together to make things happen."

A homeowner next to the park allowed his fence to be painted and it will border the area for the new playground equipment. Local lawn care company Comfort Landscapes provided trees, wildflowers and other shrubs for the barrier of the park. Volunteers repainted the benches and spring loaded toys.

During the unveiling of the spruced up Park, children played on all the repaired and re-painted equipment, folks gathered at the new picnic tables for refreshments, and youngsters grabbed donated books from a mini-library that Wilk's daughter built for the 4-H Fair and dedicated to the park. Smiles, laughter, and conversations were present in abundance.

"This is beyond words This is so exciting," Linda Wilks said, "to see more and more people, and kids coming out and they're all playing. They're enjoying themselves. This is what you want in a neighborhood."

The Eastbrook Panthers began their quest for a second straight state final appearance with another big win, as Andrew Barajas and the defense were key factors in a 56-7 rout of the Eastern Comets. As has been the case in many of Eastbrook's games this season, the Panthers scored early and often to put a stranglehold on the Comets early in the contest.

"We were able to get off a real fast start," Head Coach Jeff Adamson said. "We had a three-and-out on Eastern's We got another three-andout and score on our first offensive possession, which gave us a cushion right at the beginning to allow us to be really aggressive."

Barajas was the star of the show once again, punishing the Comets on the ground as well as on special teams Barajas finished with two punt return touchdowns in

"Having [Barajas] is huge, not just from an offensive standpoint, but also for the return game," Adamson said. "Having him back there re-

M-G's season ends in Regional semifinal loss to Alexandria

"I'm not really sure what

October 25, 2017

The first set could not have been worse for Madison-Grant, as the Tigers scored 17 of the set's first 20 points to take control early. The Argylls struggled with both hitting and serving errors, which helped the Tigers build their big lead.

It wasn't much better in the second set, as the Tigers scored the first nine points on their way to a 25-14 win. As was the case in the first set, the Argylls made multiple speedy wide receiver Isaiah Hamilton for a 60-yard touchdown pass on their next possession.

Johnson added his second rushing touchdown of the night right before halftime, taking it 31 yards to give the Giants a 21-7 lead after two quarters.

The Giants ran into some trouble early in the second half. On the opening kickoff of the third quarter, the Eagles recovered a JK Thomas fumble and scored five plays later to cut the lead to 21-14. On the Giants' next possession, Johnson fumbled the ball in the red zone to give Delta an opportunity to tie the game.

However, the defense forced a turnover on downs to thwart the comeback attempt.

The Giants scored two more touchdowns--a Johnson 22-yard touchdown run and a 37-yard touchdown reception by Anthony Reynolds--to secure the victory and advance to the Sectional semifinal.

"It was a good game [tonight,]" Johnson said after the win. "The offense put up 35 points and the defense came to play, and that's what we want. Everybody showed up this week. The offense scored and the defense [made big stops.]"

Marion won't have to travel very far for their next game, as they will head to nearby Gas City to take on Mississinewa running back Cade Campbell turns the corner against Frankfort last Friday night in the Indians' 65-20 win.

the Mississinewa Indians, who defeated Frankfort 65-20 in their first Sectional

With a tough test next Friday night, Chambers knows that his team must be at their top of their game all week long if they hope to come out with another win. "We need to continue to do what we do defensively and keeping improving offensively," Chambers said. "We just need to play good football."

Mississinewa

The Mississinewa Indians continued to roll, scoring 60+ plus in their fifth straight game in a 65-20 win over the Frankfort Hot Dogs on Friday night. As has been the case over the last five weeks, the Indians' offense and defense played at a very high level for most of the contest.

"Defensively, Frankfort got us on our first possession," Coach Curt Funk said. "We had some miscues on our lineup, but after that, we got it fixed. Luckily for us, our offense struck right away and our defense pulled together. It was a good win for us, and now [we move on] to play a very tough Marion team."

Ever since their 42-21 defeat to the Eastbrook Panthers, the team, rather than letting the setback affect them, has bonded together.

"The Eastbrook loss woke us up," Funk said. "I have seen more focus out of our kids since that loss. Their goal is on this Sectional, and they have [been] working hard to be in this moment. Now, we have a great opportunity on Friday night to show what we do."

The Indians face a tough test next Friday night in the form of the Marion Giants and their star quarterback, Justin "Juice" Johnson. A threat with his legs, as well as his arm, Funk knows that his team is going to have a tough job ahead of them.

"We just have to do a good job of containing him," Funk said. "They've got a lot of tremendous athletes and a lot of speed on both the offensive and defensive side of the ball. For us, we just have to play good assignment football and get 11 hats on the football every play. Our effort is going to have to be tremendous on Friday night."

Oak Hill

The Oak Hill Golden Eagles' season came to an end on Friday night, as squandered chances once again doomed them in a 35-7 loss to the Delphi Community Oracles.

"We had opportunities, but we [didn't capitalize]," Coach Bud Ozmun said. "We took ourselves out of those opportunities. Delphi is a good team, but we obviously didn't perform very well like we needed too to compete with them."

Jon Holz finished with 61 yards on 17 carries, while freshman Mason McKinney finished with 23 yards receiving in the loss.

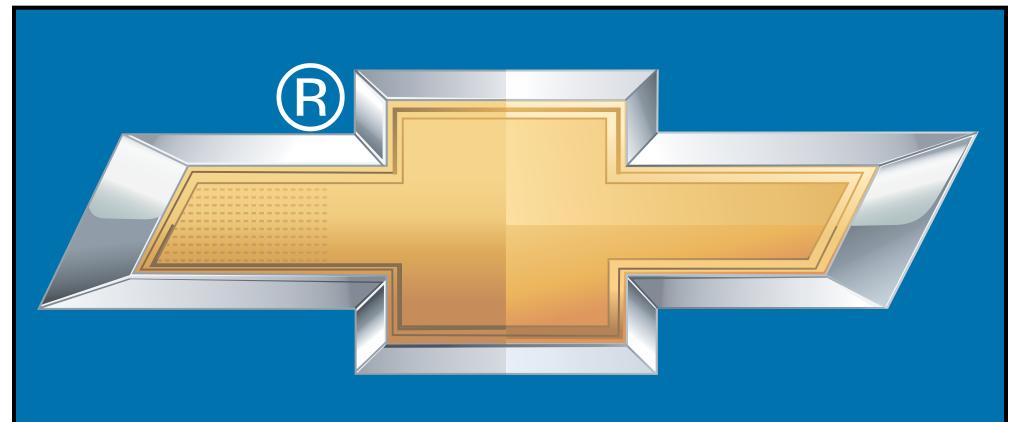

Oak Hill finished the season with a 2-8 record.

Madison-Grant

On Friday night, the Madison-Grant Argylls' season came to an end in a 67-8 defeat to CIC foe Frankton.

The Eagles ran all over the Argylls' defense, racking up 379 yards and seven touchdowns on just 31 carries.

With the loss, the Argylls finished with a record of 0-10.
