County celebrates veterans with parade, more

by Loretta Tappan

United States Armed Forces veterans from World War II to the Korean War to Vietnam stood with residents of Grant County along Fourth Street from First to Adams Streets, downtown Marion, on Veterans Day in appreciation of all veterans and their families.

The 2017 Veterans Parade started at 1 pm in Ballard Field on Third and Branson Streets following Branson to Sixth St., circling back towards the Grant County Courthouse on Adams St. and coming to an end at the Grant County Family YMCA, where the Marion Fire Department waved the American flag from their extended firetruck ladder.

Guest speaker Colonel Marcus H. Thomas, deputy chief of staff for logistics of the Indiana Army Allen Coates, Marion, salutes at the presentation of colors during the parade on Saturday. Coates served in Vietnam in 1968-69.

National Guard, oversees the procedures used by over 10,000 sustainment plans, policies, and Guardsmen.

Asked about the importance of the Veterans Parade and Military Appreciation Week, Thomas said: "It's helping the community stay connected with our Armed Forces and those who serve, both those who serve and their families. It's a connection point and a way to build that connection because it takes a community."

Also in attendance Grant County Commissioner Mike Burton watched the parade at the main stage with Mayor Jess Alumbaugh. U.S. Senator Joe Donnelly walked in circles alongside his bus in the line of floats, thanking veterans and greeting guests.

Finding healing in the reading of the names at the Wall

Lori Goss-Reaves' father, Larry Jo Goss, was killed in Vietnam when she was just a toddler. This past weekend she traveled to Washington, DC, to visit the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial and take part in a ceremony there. She agreed to share about the experience with TNH's readers.—Ed.

by Lori Goss-Reaves

In 2012, I was required to go to Arlington, VA, as a part of my doctoral studies. Late one Friday evening I checked Google to see if there was anything happening that weekend at the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial. I found that every five years volunteers read aloud all of the names that appear on "The Wall." The event—which takes four days—had already begun, but I knew I had to go.

I arrived at the Wall around 11 pm. As I sat and listened, the name "Larry" was read several times. With each one my heart felt as though it skipped a beat. I didn't know that my dad's name had been read prior to my arrival, but afterwards I vowed that the next time the readings took place that I would be present, and, if it were possible, I would read.

April 7, 2017

I received an e-mail from the president of the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial Fund stating that the registration to read the names was open.

September 1, 2017

I received an e-mail saying that I was scheduled to read the names of 30 Vietnam veterans on Wednesday,

John Brane: A half century of music leadership

Behind the Scenes features personal stories from people who work in important but often unrecognized roles in our community.—Ed.

Co-founder and director of the Mississinewa Valley Band, John Brane's life centers around music including 44 years of managing musical contests, directing bands for nearly 54 years, and teaching others about music for more than 48 years.

Brane started his career as the junior band director at Oak Hill High School. From there, he moved to Kendall Elementary School, where he remained for two years, followed by Hartford City High School for seven years. He then served a three-year stint at Taylor University as their band director before settling in at Eastbrook Junior High School for 22 years.

Brane retired from teaching in the traditional sense in 1996, but he is still educating others about music through his work as a music director. After retiring as the band director for Eastbrook Junior High School, he became the director of the Wabash Community Band and later the Manchester Community Band.

Shortly after, a friend, Darrell Eastus, urged Brane to create the nonprofit Mississinewa Valley Band in 2000 with the purpose of providing quality entertainment that is accessible to all generations of the public.

Brane said, "To me, it's a process of providing an outlet for the members that play in the Band, and it's a tremendous opportunity for the City of Marion and Grant County and surrounding areas to come and listen to a live performance."

To get the Band started, the founders typed up a card and mailed the invitations out to every musician that came to mind. The first rehearsal had an attendance of 64 musicians, and the community band still averages 55-60 volunteer musicians, representing 11 counties in the state of Indiana.

Their first concert, held in partnership with the Indiana Wesleyan University Jazz Band, drew around 1,000 people. Today, the band presents three concerts each year at the Phillippe Performing Arts Center, Marion, playing for a similar audience size. The band also presents several summer performances at the Honeywell Center in Wabash, concerts in the parks of Gas City and Marion, and surrounding communities.

"We average 900 people at our shows. We go over and play in the Honeywell Center, the Ford Theatre, and it's the same thing. We've just been very blessed by having large audiences at our concerts," said Brane.

The Mississinewa Valley Band consists of volunteer musicians. In addition to their show schedule, the group practices every Tuesday at Marion High School in the orchestra room. The Mississinewa Valley Groups includes the Band, a Swing Band, the Choir, Brass 6, and the Windsong Flute Ensemble.

"Everyone enjoys it, or they wouldn't be here," Brane said, "It's a real good time for me as a director to provide the kind of entertainment for the audience and the kind of enjoyment for my band members. There's a cohesiveness about our band you can't explain, and you don't have to, it just is."

Brane graduated high school in LaFontaine, and says he knew since the ninth grade he'd like to be a band director. After high school he attended Jordan College of Music at Butler University of Indianapolis and earned a bachelor's degree.

He plays baritone and the tuba from time to time but prefers directing musical groups. While his devotion to music is evident, Brane did try driving a charter bus for eight years after his retirement in education. He also drove a semi truck for a good while.

Additionally, Brane founded the Van Buren Do-It organization to pull together volunteers in his home town to care for flowers and upkeep sidewalks in their business district. Indiana Wesleyan University awarded Brane with the Tony Maidenber Award in 2016 for years of community service.

Brane is also involved in the Indiana State School Music Association, where he has served as president of the Northern Music Association and as the first president of the State School Music Association. Since 1981, he has served as a judge with the association for contests of marching bands, solo ensembles, bands, show choirs, jazz bands, and regional contests.

Brane celebrated 46 years of marriage with his late wife, Martha Brane before she passed away in September 2013. Together, they had three daughters and seven grandchildren. Brane said his family treats him very well, picking him up for spur of the moment trips to Ivanhoes.

Witnessing two coach-conductors at the top of their games

I have recently enjoyed witnessing a variety of athletic and musical performances by many talented students at Indiana Wesleyan University. I have realized anew what a great privilege it is to be associated with IWU for the last 48 years.

Coach Greg Tonagel's mens basketball team has started its season with seven wins, including an upset of preseason #1 Cornerstone in the season opener. Over his 13 years as coach, the team continuously produces outstanding performances and maintains a high quality. Through the process of recruiting, teaching, disciplining, and graduating young men the constant has been his ability to keep the team functioning efficiently and winning.

His unassuming manner, his genuine humility, and his commitment to Christ are exemplary for his players, their parents, his fellow coaches, and all of us who observe him. He is a treasure, and a legend in the making before our very eyes. Whether you venture to Luckey Arena on cold winter nights, watch on IWU-TV51, or listen to Jim Brunner on WBAT, you are treated to his handiwork. They played four home games in six days recently and I enjoyed them all.

Speaking of legends in the making, Coach Tonagel has a number of years to go to match what Dr. Todd Guy has been doing in the music department for 30 years. Last weekend I got to see his work in two different venues, but each left me inspired and proud to be a part of IWU.

Saturday night he conducted the University Chorale in a fabulous performance labeled "Broadway comes to IWU." It featured excerpts from standout Broadway shows like "My Fair Lady," "Wicked," "The Wiz," "Shrek," "Les Miserables," and others. There were many solo performances from a wide array of extremely talented students that made the evening very enjoyable. It was produced with a live orchestra, and featured singing and dancing that had the audience involved. Todd Guy emceed it, introducing each number with quips, and even doing some singing himself. I've known Todd since his college student days, a student singing and leading in the Marion College choir; as a member of the college baseball team; to his return as a music faculty member; as minister of music and choir director at Lakeview Church, where I sang in his choir; as conductor of the IWU Chorale, the premier campus vocal group; and now as interim dean of the School of Fine Arts and Humanities. He has enthusiasm, demands excellence, and teaches his students to use their talents to the glory of God.

As I left IWU's Phillippe e Performing Arts Center on Saturday night, I was already anticipating that 12 hours later I would be listening to the same talented students and their inspiring conductor at my church. The IWU Chorale does concerts in a lot of places around the Midwest, on both coasts, and in Florida, and it takes an international trip every three years. Occasionally they also sing in a Marion church, and on Sunday they were at both Lakeview Wesleyan and Brookhaven Wesleyan churches, in the morning and evening, respectively.

To hear this outstanding group sing is a wonderful experience. Their performance usually starts with "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," followed by a variety of familiar and new music done in a number of musical styles that include the choir moving out among the congregation. The closing usually involves inviting former Chorale members to join in the familiar benediction, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." In between you can expect to hear brass instruments, drums, and always something new and fresh.

Sunday at Lakeview followed that pattern exactly. Dr. Guy led the Chorale in a style that would have left a gymnast exhausted. He walked briskly up and down the center aisle, whirled 360 degrees frequently, waved his arms furiously, and sweated profusely. He gave it his all, and his charges did the same. I enjoyed watching him, hearing the choir, and worshipping the Lord as the Chorale led.

The takeaway I have from all this is that whether it is Greg Tonagel's incredible continuous excellence coaching the IWU men's basketball team, or Todd Guy's leading "Broadway Comes to Marion," or Todd Guy's leading in a Sunday morning church worship service, all were being done solis deo gloria. That is a Latin term meaning "Glory to God alone," and, according to Wikipedia, "As a doctrine, it means that everything that is done is for God's glory to the exclusion of mankind's self-glorification and pride."

Tonagel presents it as an "I am Third" philosophy and features that motto on T-shirts and speeches that all his players hear every day. Simply stated, it is God first, others second, and myself third. Todd Guy tells his singers in his pre-concert speech, "You are not performers; they are not an audience. We are all participants in this worship experience." Both men exude confidence with humility that produces servant leaders in those that they coach and conduct.

That is rightly stated because they both coach and conduct. If you have a chance to witness them in action please notice the similarities. Watch Tonagel as he makes a substitution, or calls a timeout, or gently speaks to one of his players to complement or correct. He is a virtuoso.

Watch Guy as he attacks a concert like it's a 40-minute ballgame, pacing himself and his choir until he finishes it fully satisfied that they have given a winning presentation.

It is indeed a great privilege to be present at IWU at a time when such legends in the making as Greg Tonagel and Todd Guy are plying their trade. If you get the chance to witness one of them, you will be blessed. I consider it a big blessing to be associated with both of them and to observe them up close.

That's where I've been in recent days. Next week is Thanksgiving and while it won't involve out-of-state travel for Karen and me, we do have a number of family coming our way from Florida, New Jersey, New York, Utah, Kansas, and Texas. I will be making a couple of trips to the Indianapolis airport, but that's about it. I hope you have a wonderful time and find an opportunity to thank God for your many blessings. God bless you.

erans Treatment Court and member of the Grant County Veterans Stand Down Committee, recognized approximately 60 businesses and organizations that participated in the commemorative ceremony, including several vendors on Adams St.

At the parade's end, 200 motorcyclists from groups such as Guardians of the Children roared down Adams Street to the Y parking lot.

The festivities honoring our veterans did not end here. In Grant County, the celebration of our veterans is a week-long celebration known as Military Appreciation Week (MAW), which was founded four years ago by a former Grant County Veterans Service Officer, Bob Kelly. MAW includes discounts, meals, and services from shops, restaurants, and veterans organizations throughout Grant County for veterans, active military members, and their immediate family.

Before the parade, on Friday, November 10, Mississinewa and Marion High Schools and Summitville and Swayzee Elementary Schools each held ceremonies honoring veterans during school hours.

On Sunday, November 12, Tree of Life Ministries, of Marion, hosted a Salute to Valor Veterans Ceremony with a free dinner for veterans and their families. A briefing on VA benefits and a free lunch was held on Tuesday, November 14, at the Marion Public Library and Museum and on Wednesday, November 15, a Military Family Night and free dinner was organized at the Marion Armory.

Throughout the MAW, the Grant County Veterans Service Office, located in the Grant County Complex at 401 S. Adams St., Marion, hosted an open house. The AMVETS, Marion, hosted a Closing Ceremony for MAW with the JROTC.

"We have over 5,000 veterans in Grant County, and only a tenth of them have been seen by our Grant County Veterans Office because the education is just not out there. They don't know what's available to them," said Brad Hodson, the new Grant County veterans service officer. Hodson started his new position last month and said his primary goal is to serve the veterans in Grant County and make sure they know their resources.

"I cannot be where I am and do what I do without the veterans that came before me, so for all the veterans that are here across all of our service components, from me to you, from my family to yours, thank you for what you do, for what you've done for me and others like me to have served our great state and Nation in ways that are very much needed," said Thomas.

Veterans Day was established out of Armistice Day, the day of the cease-fire for World War I, which took place nearly a century ago during the eleventh hour of November 11, 1918, when the battlefield of Europe fell silent after more than four years of fierce and intense fighting.

The 10 most important things in my life: finishing the list

- Over the course of the last three or four months I have been chipping away at my Top Ten List. I realize that my list is not your list, and mine could change! I have been very surprised how my own value system has changed over the years. Some things that are important now had no significance at all when I was a young man. Let's review the previous nine subjects:

  - The Bible (Psalm 119:11)
  - Stewardship (Psalm 24:1-5)
  - Your Calling (Acts 9:1-6)
  - Proper Training (1 Timothy 4:11-16)
  - You Are the Servant (Mark 10:35-45)
  - Keep First things First—The People (Mark 12:35-40)
  - The Value of Time (James 4:13-17)
  - Availability (Mark 1:9-11)
  - Visibility (Matthew 9:36-38)
  - Family Support (Ephesians 5:22-33)

As I looked over this list in the last six months since I compiled it, not much has changed. I might organize them differently, but these are the things that make a difference.

My final item, family

support, is a must for anyone who is in ministry. I have been blessed with a wonderful wife who has been there with me through the bleakest and loneliest days of my life.

God created mankind to freely worship and serve Him. Our number one focus is our Heavenly Father. Our number two focus is the family. As the family goes, so goes the church.

Ephesians 5 demonstrates the married life of spirit-filled believers (Ephesians 5:18). This passage gives instruction to husbands and wives. It tells the wife to submit to her husband as unto the Lord (verse 22). It tells us that the man is the head (verse 23), the spiritual leader. It goes on to tell the husband "love your wife" (verse 25). He is to go to any length to provide for and protect her. He actually tells the husband three times (verses 25, 28, 33) to love your wife. He never tells the wife to love her husband—we aren't very lovable!

The ministry has greatly changed over the years, becoming more demanding. The family support that I have received is a continual blessing. I believe there are three (3) things that are a must:

- Commitment—I have been told the only reason people enter the ministry is because of the money. It does not matter how much you make, if you are not committed to your calling, you will never make it.

- Respect—This is something no one owes you. If you want respect, you must earn it. I can say that Diane and I have great respect for each other. If you are who you say you are, the respect will be there.

- Support—Years ago, when God called me into the ministry, I accepted that I was in it for the long haul. It is a family commitment, with everyone lending their support. It is a support factor that affects every day, every hour, and every minute. Everyone has always accepted that when the phone rings, the plans may change immediately. I can't say enough about the sacrifices my family has made. I could not have succeeded without them.

GRANT COUNTY LIFE

PHOTOS FROM THE WEEK—GLEN DEVITT

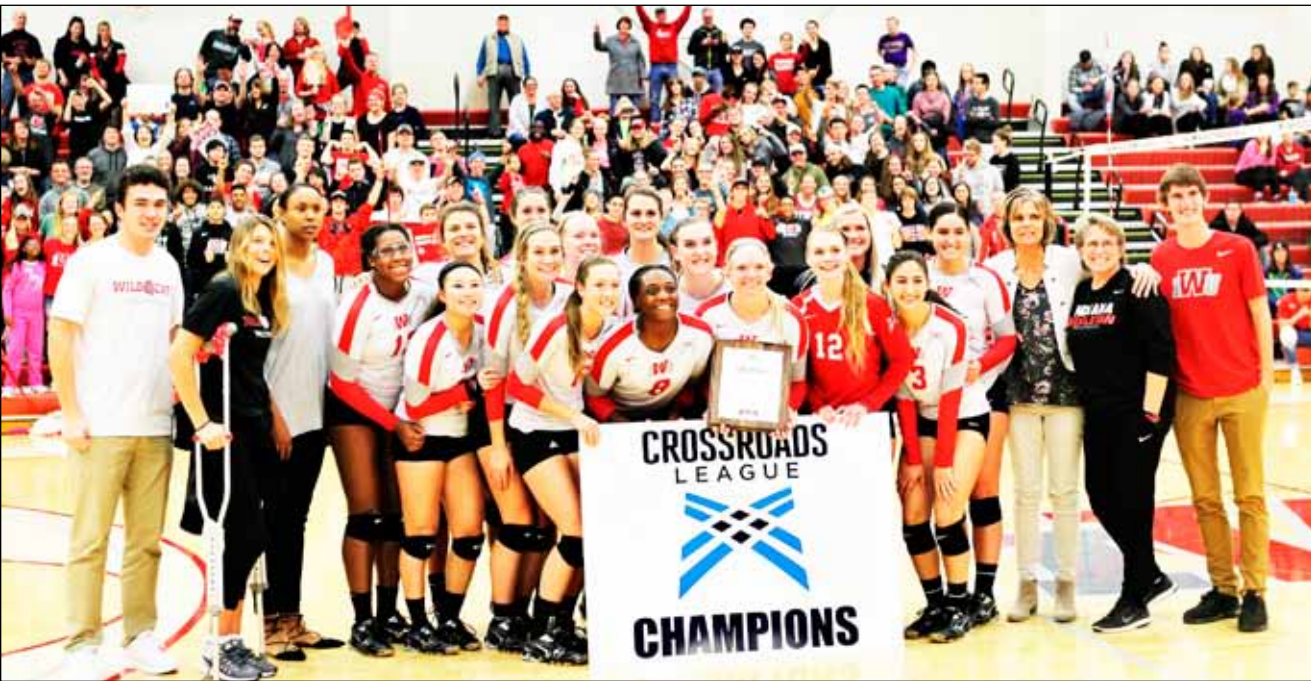

Alice in Wonderland and a few miles of travel dominated this week (top two photos at left). Dance rehearsals at the performing arts center at Marion High School started and ended my week. Lots of preshow rehearsal pictures, the school performance on Thursday for nearly 1,300 area third and fourth graders, and performances at the end of the week, make for a great photography experience.

I visited Oak Hill to see the girls kick-off their basketball season with wins against Marion High School (top two photos at right).

The IWU Men continued with their fine basketball program (bottom, left and middle right) and I saw the Lady Wildcats win the Crossroads League Volleyball Championship for 2017 (bottom, right).

I made two trips down toward Indy this week. The Regional game against Greenwood brought Missisnewa's fine season to an end with a tough 34-27 loss on a cold Friday night of football (see sports pages).

Let's not torch the house and burn the innocent

There's something going on out there that has me nervous. What's happening is a sort of catharsis, which is probably healthy, probably necessary, but happening in a way that we just aren't supposed to do things here in America.

It's running like a brush fire through the lowlands of entertainment and politics, uncontrolled, unanticipated, unpredictable and, in some ways, unprecedented.

Talking about this purging of the sex deviates from public life. I suppose it began with Cosby and then moved on to Weinstein and the comedian with no last name and now to Richard Dreyfus and a lot of other actors. Most notable among them is Kevin Spacey. Throw in Roy Moore, the wacko candidate for the U.S. Senate from Alabama who, before he embraced the Ten Commandments, was apparently embracing teeny-bopper girls.

Now let me be very clear about one thing: I am not defending sleaze here. No way. The old Hollywood casting couch business has gone on for far too long. Same thing in politics, although I guess we are so accustomed to grime in government that we are less offended by that than by people whom we have come to know and love on stage, screen and TV.

It is time—way past time—that Harvey Weinstein and his ilk got the bums' rush out the door.

What has me worried—not exactly panicky, but more than a little on edge—is the witch hunt mindset that seems to have taken over.

Think maybe he's a witch? Well, so-and-so said so. There are pictures. We'll look at the evidence later. Just get rid of him. We don't want him around our children—boys or girls—or our women.

In a few words, accusation becomes conviction without benefit of evidence or trial, and execution is immediate and without appeal.

Take Kevin Spacey for example. A fine actor by all standards, at dawn he was accused of improper conduct 40 years ago. He mumbled a wholly ill-conceived explanation and before sunset he was toast. Career in a shambles. "House of Cards," a Netflix blockbuster for six seasons, gone. He was dispatched to the gulag with a bunch of other miscreants.

I have no interest in defending Mr. Spacey's conduct, or Mr. Weinstein's or Mr. Dreyfus's or any others in the this passing parade of jerks, dorks and deviates.

I do have a great interest in preserving and protecting the old idea that we—all of us—are presumed innocent until proven guilty: A fair trial and proper hanging, if you will.

We've done this before here in the land of the free. The Salem witchcraft trials, for example. Twenty people—mostly women—died in that hysteria in 1692.

Then there was Sen. Joe McCarthy's Commie witch hunts in the 1950s. "I have in my hand the names of known Communists in the State Department," he bel-lowed and the howling for their heads began. Whit-taker Chambers, G. David Shine, Dalton Trumbo, Leonard Bernstein, even Lucy—Lucille Ball, for god's sake—were hauled before the kangaroo court.

I will repeat one more time: I have no interest in protecting people who prey on the vulnerability of others—14-year-old girls, 14-year-old boys, women in search of careers and better lives—but I have to go back to kindly old Joseph Welch, the lawyer in the Army-McCarthy hearings of 60 years ago. Exhausted by the relentless browbeating of his client by the witch-hunting Sen. McCarthy, the tired old lawyer looked across the table at the tyrant and asked "Have you no sense of decency, sir? At long last, have you left no sense of decency?"

I have no quarrel with ridding ourselves of predators, but let's be cautious that we don't torch the house and burn the innocents.

Ed Breen, co-host of "Good Morning Grant County" on WBAT radio, has been reporting on life in Indiana for more than 50 years. In 2016 he was inducted into the Indiana Journalism Hall of Fame.

Wall,

November 8, at 10:22 pm. My dad's name, Larry Jo Goss, was the eighth one on the list. I immediately knew that I needed to call Jerry Behrens and ask him to read with me. Today, Jerry is a retired orthopedic surgeon who lives in Casper, WY, but 50 years ago he was my father's battalion surgeon. He and his wife graciously agreed to meet us in DC and we made plans to meet in Washington, DC.

November 8, 2017, Marion, IN, 4 am

My alarm went off early enough for me to prepare something to leave at my dad's panel at The Wall. I had no real plan, just photocopies of two articles written by Navar Watson for The Chronicle-Tribune and a photo of my dad. As I cut and carefully taped each one into a frame, I knew the family photo of my mom, my dad, and I needed placement over my dad's heart, exactly where Dr. Behrens had found it when he identified my dad's remains.

6:30 am

Immediately upon entering the Indianapolis International Airport, my thoughts turned to my dad. This happens every time I ride up the escalator and proceed to the check-in point. This December 14 will be the 51st anniversary of the day my dad left Grant County and traveled to the Indy airport to say goodbye (forever, as it turned out) to those he loved the most. His Grandma Bradford, his cousin Donna, my mom and I stayed with him as long as we possibly could. I cannot imagine the difficult goodbye he and my mother had. Thankfully, they did not know it would be their last embrace.

10:15 am

Sitting on the runway I could not help but wonder what my dad's thoughts were the last time he left Indiana on a plane. Did he think about the possibility of his return flight being in a casket, draped with the United States flag? I have heard many times about my dad's cheerful disposition and the smile that was always on his face. I envision him that day thinking about his welcome home party at the airport, after his completed tour. The embrace of his beautiful wife and his 17-month-old baby girl. I also imagine a tear trickling down his face as the plane left the ground, knowing that Marty, Lori, and a piece of his heart were left behind.

Washington, DC—2 pm

After landing and making our way on the Metro, we arrived at our hotel. Dr. Behrens walked from his hotel to meet us. He was eager to share the information he had researched about every man whose name we would read. Jerry knew it was important for us to know the story behind every name. He printed the information and a picture to share with me. My heart was touched because I had desired to do the same thing, but could not find the time. Jerry did not know of my desire yet he took care of my need. My deep respect for him increased as I listened to him share. It was evident that he carried in his heart a

We visited the panels of my dad and the other men whose names are forever etched on Jerry's heart. Having each other's support made those moments easier, as did having my husband Eric beside us every step of the way. After listening to the readings, we started to leave for coffee—it was cold and we still had four hours before our scheduled time, but Jerry's body language told me that he wanted to stay, so we went back to our seats. As we listened, we heard the name of a young dentist Jerry knew, a story he shared with us over lunch.

10:05 pm

We took our place in line. Jerry's wife, Mary had joined us. She and Eric were going to read names as well, filling in for someone who was unable to attend.

10:10 pm

Senator John Barrasso and his wife arrived to support Jerry. We smiled and waved hello. I rehearsed in my head what I was going to say when I got to my father's name. Did I address him as "Daddy" or

"Dad?" Tears welled up in my eyes. I do not remember having a Daddy, although we shared five wonderful months together. I knew I was going to acknowledge my mother. She lost so much when he died.

Jerry offered me his arm when we walked up to the podium. His presence helped me be strong.

"...DENNIS K FLEMING, EDWARD LEE FRAZIER, LAWRENCE EDWARD GIBSON, JOHN GODFREY JR, My dad and Marty's loving husband, LARRY JO GOSS ...

The names are listed by the date of their death, and were in alphabetical order for each day. I read the first 15 names and Jerry read the last: "...ROBERT JOSEPH PASTORE, ALBERT EARL PATRICK"

I held onto his arm once again as we walked off the stage. I thanked God for that moment, for Jerry, and for my dad.

Panthers cruise to Regional title over Lapel; Indians fallter at end

by Sean Douglas

They were playing their third playoff game on the road in this playoff run. It didn't matter.

It was bitterly cold all evening long, hovering below 30 degrees from kickoff to the final horn.

It didn't matter.

They were going against a quarterback in Levi Frazier who had thrown for more than 2,000 yards this season.

And, once again, it didn't matter.

The Eastbrook Panthers had Andrew Barajas, and that made all the difference.

Barajas finished with 231 yards on just 14 carries, while fellow running back Davon Wallace rushed for 124 yards as the Panthers defeated the Lapel Bulldogs 56-26 on Friday night.

With the win, the Panthers advanced to the Class 2A Semi-State championship for the second year in a row.

Though the Panthers ended up winning by 30 points, the game started on an ominous note.

The Bulldogs began the game with an onside kick, which was mishandled by the Panthers and recovered by Lapel on the Eastbrook 40 yard line. Four plays later, Lapel senior running back Josiah Hudson took it to the house from 30 yards out to give the Bulldogs an early 7-0 lead.

That turned out to be the only lead the Bulldogs would have in the entire game.

Eastbrook answered back on their next possession, as they embarked on a nine-play, 57-yard drive which was capped off by a Wallace two-yard plunge.

After that, the rout was on.

The Bulldogs turned the ball over on their next possession, and the Panthers quickly capitalized, as Barajas scored from 60 yards out to give Eastbrook a 14-7 lead.

The Bulldogs turned the ball over again on their following possession, as East-Mississinewa quarterback Cade McCain (#13 above) was six of eight for 113 yards Friday, but it wasn't enough as the Indians fell, 34-27 in the Regional game against Greenwood.

Mississinewa quarterback Cade McCain (#13 above) was six of eight for 113 yards Friday, but it wasn't enough as the Indians fell, 34-27 in the Regional game against Greenwood.

brook's junior cornerback Luke Boren intercepted Frazier's pass and returned it to the Eastbrook 40 yard line.

Nine plays later, Barajas scored his second touchdown of the night from 14 yards out to give the Panthers a two-touchdown lead.

Frazier threw his second interception in as many possessions just four plays after the Barajas touchdown, and the Panthers once again capitalized. Junior quarterback Mason Hale, who finished the game six-for-seven for 120 yards, hit Christian Bratcher for a 30-yard scoring strike to make it a 28-7 ball game.

Wallace scored his second touchdown of the half on the Panthers' next possession to give Eastbrook a commanding 35-7 lead.

In all, the Panthers scored 35 unanswered points, 21 of them off of Lapel giveaways.

Lapel showed signs of life at the end of the first half, as Frazier found wide receiver Charlie Prough from 32 yards out to cut the deficit to 35-14 heading into halftime.

The Bulldogs made it a two-score game on their first possession of the second half, as Frazier threw his second touchdown pass of the night to wide receiver Justin Engle to cut the deficit to 35-20.

But, once again, the Panthers countered with Barajas.

On the Panthers' fourth play of their ensuing possession, Barajas reached the second level and turned on the afterburners, leaving a trail of defenders in his wake as he scampered for a 50-yard touchdown, his third of the night.

Lapel scored again on their next possession, but Wallace and Barajas each scored once more in the second half to put the game away and secure the Panthers' victory.

As a whole, the Panthers rushed for a blistering 480 yards on just 62 carries. "I thought our offensive line was outstanding," Head Coach Jeff Adamson said after the win. "They had a little bit of rough performance last week, but they bounced back really well [tonight.]"

"I'm just really thankful for my line," Barajas added. "They are tough up front. They give me the creases I need to make plays. They are really good at making blocks down the field, so I'm just thankful for them."

After suffering an ankle injury last year and not being able to contribute much to the Panthers' state title run, Barajas is glad to be able to help his team in any way he can. "I'm just happy to come out here, 100 percent, and be able to help my teammates on both sides of the ball," Barajas said.

"He just makes a [huge] difference," Adamson added. "He's such an explosive runner and somebody that [opponents] have to worry about all the time. He makes everyone else more effective because [opponents focus on] him. He opened up the passing game [as well] tonight, and he [contributed in] a lot of ways."

Now, after playing three of their first four playoff games on the road, the Panthers will return home to face Woodland in the Semi-State championship for a chance to return to the state finals and potentially find retribution.

Adamson and Barajas couldn't be more excited.

"It's going to be nice," Adamson said. "We have played a lot on the road and we have had to travel a lot, so being home is going to be nice for a big game like this."

"We're pumped," Barajas added. "It's good to come home and get to play in front of our home crowd. Hopefully, it will be big and we will be able to put on a show for them."

Mississinewa

Despite a tough effort, the Mississinewa Indians' historic season came to an end, as they were defeated by the Greenwood Woodmen 34-27 on Friday night in the regional playoff. The game was close throughout, but the Woodmen scored right before halftime to take a lead they would not relinquish.

Heisman Skeens led the Indians' rushing attack with 177 yards on eight carries, while Cade Campbell finished with 81 yards on 17 carries. As a team, the Indians rushed for 262 yards on the ground.

Cade McCain was effective throwing the football, completing six of his eight passes for 113 yards.

The Indians finished the season with a 10-3 record, which included their first-ever win over Marion and their first Sectional title since 1988.

Girls basketball

Oak Hill goes to 3-0; Eastbrook, M-G split

Eastbrook

The Eastbrook Panther began their season with a 1-1 record, dropping a 49-40 decision to the Eastern Comets
on Thursday before defeating Southern Wells 40-30 on Saturday.

Coach Jeff Liddick could not be reached for comment,
and stats were not readily
made available.

Madison-Grant

On Tuesday night, the Madison-Grant Argyls, with a combination of unselfish team play and aggressive defense, began their season 1-0
with a 61-28 drubbing of the Wes-Del Warriors.

“We played really well as a team [tonight],” Head Coach Elizabeth Garrasi said. “We were looking for each other,
and we came out with a lot of intensity.”

Along with that, the Argylls’ defense clamped down on Wes-Del’s offense throughout the evening, not allowing them to get into any kind of rhythm. “We work on defense a lot in practice, and we went in with a defensive plan, and the girls stuck to it,” Garrasi said.

Danyelle Hutson led the Argylls in scoring with 27 points, while McKenna Luger
finished with 14 in the victory.

The Argyls weren’t able to replicate that same success
on Saturday night, as an error-filled fourth quarter doomed
Madison-Grant in a 60-37
loss to the Tipton Blue Devils. Madison-Grant had a five-point lead after the first quarter, but the Blue Devils battled back and played much better
over the next two stanzas.

“Tipton is a good team,” Garrasi said. “We came out really strong in the first quarter, and were leading 15-10 [heading] into the second quarter. We got into some foul trouble, [forcing us to use] some different personnel, and the Blue Devils were able to come back in the second quarter and led us by eight at halftime. We played them even in the third quarter, but unfortunately, we didn’t go on a run
like we wanted too.”

In the fourth quarter, it all came unhinged for the Argylls, as the Blue Devils outscored Madison-Grant 18-5
to take control of the contest.
“We have a young team, and they kind of panicked a little bit [in the fourth quarter],” Garrasi said. “They forced shots that weren’t there and had a few turnovers.”

Hutson led the Aryrglls
once again in scoring with 12 points, while Kayla Comer finished with eight points and nine rebounds in the loss.

Marion

Coming off a hard-fought
loss to Oak Hill on Tuesday (see story in box), the Marion Giants responded in major way, blowing out the Muncie Central Bearcats 73-31
on Friday night at Bill Green Arena.

Marion was locked in from the start, scoring 21 first-quarter points to take an early lead they would not relinquish, as the Giants easily cruised to victory.

“The goal was to play a 32-minute game against Muncie Central,” Coach Lawrence Jordan said. “With us having two great days of practice after the Oak Hill loss, I felt we were competitive against [the Bearcats.]”

The Giants followed that up with another big win on Saturday, going on the road and defeating the Wabash Apaches 58-30 to improve their record to 4-1 on the season. The Giants had another excellent first quarter, outscoring the Apaches 13-2 on their way to another easy victory.

“They are very well coached, and we knew that they liked to shift defenses, so I made sure all the girls were in their proper place,” Jordan said. “I wanted to make sure that the girls did not sit back and let [Wabash] attack us
with their pressure..We ended up spreading them out against the press, and our man-toman defense caused a lot of problems.”

Ellie Vermilion was on fire, pacing the Giants in the opening quarter to help them build their big lead, while the defense kept Wabash from getting anything going offensively.

After winning just five games last season, the Giants have four wins in their first five games.

And they are only going to continue to improve.
“We are getting better and better,” Jordan said. “If teams can’t handle our pressure, it’s going to difficult for them [to compete with us].”

Mississinewa

From the start, it seemed like the Mississinewa Indians didn’t come out ready to play against the Wabash Apaches. Bad passes, poor shot selection, and a slew of turnovers proved costly down
the stretch, as the Apaches used aggressive defense in the second half to turn a 12-point halftime deficit into a 58-48
victory.

The Indians took an early 14-4 lead in the first quarter, but Wabash took advantage of multiple Indian miscues to cut the deficit to 14-11 heading into the second quarter.
Mississinewa’s play remained sloppy in the second stanza,
but the Indians still managed to outscore the Apaches 15-6
halftime deficit into a 58-48
victory.

“We had practiced [hard]
over the last couple of days
since [the] Wabash [loss],” Tandy said. “We were not
happy with the way we played. The girls were very disappointed with themselves,
and understood the way they
played and the mistakes that
they made, so they were eager
to get back on the floor and
prove that this is a different
team than the one that played
against Wabash.”

Against Maconaquah, the Indians looked like a completely different team.
“They were very intense
and ready to play,” Tandy
said. “They were energized.
They concentrated on taking care of the basketball and
came out to make a statement.
I thought that they did today.”

While the Indians’ offense

player, forced to the bench
due to foul trouble, Higdon answered the call and made big plays in crucial moments.

“Carmen came on for us a lot at the end of last year,” Wabash Head Coach Matt Stone said. “In fact, in the Sectional [last year] where we took Oak Hill down to the wire, she may have been our best player. Tonight she took over with Bailey on the bench. She took over the game [tonight.]”

On the other side, Mississ-inewa was just never able to match Wabash’s intensity in the second half, as the Apaches outscored them 24-11 in the third quarter and 17-8
in the fourth quarter to take control of the game and hand Mississinewa their first loss of the season.

“I think, mentally, we weren’t tough enough,” Mis-
sissinewa Head Coach Omega Tandy said. “Wabash started playing a little bit harder, and instead of embracing that, I think we took a step back. Our team is an aggressive basketball team. If we aren’t playing in that style, then we aren’t playing to our strength.”

In a game full of negatives, the play of Tyler Bartell was a huge positive for Mississinewa. Bartell co-led the team in scoring with 16 points, and hit some timely threes in the second half to help give the Indians a chance to battle back.

“Tyler did a great job tonight,” Tandy said. “I thought Tyler played composed the entire game. She took her time to hit her shots, [and] she also passed the ball very well.
She is a glue to our team. She plays very hard all the time.
We know what we are going to get from her, and we got that today.”

Foy recorded her second double-double of the season, scoring 16 points and bringing down 13 boards in the loss.

The Indians responded in a huge way on Saturday night,
as they dominated on both sides of the ball from start to finish in a 93-26 rout of the Maconaquah Braves.

Instead of letting their tough loss to Wabash get to them, the Indians responded in a much more positive way
— going to work and fixing their mistakes.

“We had practiced [hard]
over the last couple of days
since [the] Wabash [loss],” Tandy said. “We were not
happy with the way we
played. The girls were very
disappointed with themselves,
and understood the way they
played and the mistakes that
to get back on the floor and
prove that this is a different
team than the one that played
against Wabash.”

Against Maconaquah, the Indians looked like a completely different team.

“They were very intense
and ready to play,” Tandy
said. “They were energized.
They concentrated on taking care of the basketball and
came out to make a statement.
I thought that they did today.”

While the Indians’ offense

was scoring points in bunches, their defense was locked in and focused from the start.
The Indians did not allow the Braves to score more than eight points in any of the four quarters.

“That was our goal,” Tandy said. “We want to hold teams to 10 or 11 points a quarter,
and we lost that against Wabash. We didn’t focus on that.
We are a defensive team—we do want to play fast-paced offensively—but we are a defensive-minded team. We lost our identity [against Wabash,] so the girls focused on their defense and made sure we [completed] our goal. They did a great job adjusting to that.”

Foy had another big game
for the Indians, finishing with 25 points and nine rebounds, but the Indians got plenty of secondary scoring. Bartell had another strong game with 12 points, while Ally Hewitt finished with 11 points. Webb had seven off the bench. Riley McKee was four-for-seven from the field.

All in all, the Indians are a deep squad, and Tandy is looking to use that to her advantage as the season progresses. “We play 11 players, and we kept all 11 because we see all of them playing significant minutes,” Tandy said. “We have talent [up and down the roster.] That’s want we want, and that is who we are. I think our girls are starting to adjust and step up to the challenge.”

Oak Hill

Despite a lackadaisical
fourth quarter, the Oak Hill Golden Eagles improved to 3-0 on the young season with a 48-40 victory over the Northfield Norsemen. For the first three quarters, the Golden Eagles played excellent defense, holding the Norsemen to just 15 points, including none in the first quarter.

However, in the final stanza, the Golden Eagles let the foot off the gas, allowing the Norsemen to score 25 points.

“We played extremely well defensively the first three quarters,” Head Coach Todd Law said. “We had a 16-point lead going into the fourth quarter, and quite frankly, our kids got on the bus mentally and went home..I was frustrated with the way we finished the game.”

Knight on Wooden: Sour grapes?

Bob Knight is at it again. This past week in a televised interview he said he never liked John Wooden, who won 10 NCAA titles, because the “Wizard of Westwood” allowed booster Sam Gilbert to conduct recruiting practices that were against NCAA rules.

It is interesting that the NCAA never even investigated Wooden, and that UCLA—during Wooden’s time there—was never even on probation.

Sour grapes? Well, here is what others are saying about Wooden: Judy Olian, the dean of the UCLA School of Management: “Though we call John Wooden ‘Coach,’ he is a teacher at heart, a teacher whose classroom is life with a court.”

Former President Barack Obama: “Wooden was an incredible coach, and an even better man.”

Bob Costas, nationally known broadcaster: “What an amazing life he had. One hundred years from now they will still be talking about his accomplishments and his approach.”

Bill Walsh, Super Bowl-winning coach of the San Francisco 49ers: “John Wooden is a philosopher-coach, a man whose beliefs, teachings, and wisdom go far beyond sports.”
