WBAT changes format from all-talk

Marion's first radio station, WBAT 1400 AM, has acquired a new sound and brought more music to the air with changes launched on January 1.

WBAT, which has broadcast in Marion since 1947, has modified its more recent "all-talk" format to include a mix of "pop, soul and rock-and-roll from the late '60s, '70s and early to mid-'80s," according to management of the station owned by Hoosier AM-FM.

Aimed at the 35 to 64-year-old age group, the programming will retain elements that are staples of the station. Among them is "Good Morning Grant County," the 6-9 am, Monday-Friday program that provides local news, weather, interviews, sports, information and commentary.

"We will still air Chicago Cubs baseball, Marion and Grant County basketball, IU basketball, IWU basketball, as well as Indi-

IWU, Taylor celebrate MLK Day with chapels, concerts

Indiana Wesleyan University hosted its fifth annual MLK Celebration honoring the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. on Friday, Jan. 12 in the Phillippe Performing Arts Center. The special community-wide event honored King's legacy with scripture and song throughout the day.

To start the celebration, IWU held a chapel service featuring the Blind Boys of Alabama, who also headlined the 7 pm MLK Celebration Concert called Living the Dream. The Blind Boys have a 70-year recording career marked by five Grammy Awards (plus one for Lifetime Achievement), collaborations with greats such as Stevie Wonder, Prince, Lou Reed and Peter Gabriel, as well as television appearances and performances on some of the world's most renowned stages.

"Spreading a message of hope and reconciliation is a daily goal for our community," said Diane McDaniel, vice president for Multicultural Enrichment and Employee Development at IWU. "This special event allows us to foster that message as we come together as one and celebrate a diverse Christian community."

Taylor University's annual celebration of the life and work of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. took place on Monday, January 15. In addition to special speakers and musical guests, the event included service projects in Marion.

The theme of for this year's observation was Keep Moving Forward, which comes from the quote by Martin Luther King, "If you can't fly, then run. If you can't run, WE'RE HAPPY FOR...The Community School of the Arts (CSA), which has been awarded a $10,000 Partnering Arts, Communities, and Education grant from the Indiana Arts Commission. The CSA will use the grant for a program at John W. Kendall Elementary School in Marion. The program will provide teacher development as well as weekly sessions with second grade students using song, rhythm exercises, chants, rhymes, and movement to explore music and its benefits in developing early literacy skills.

STUDENTS HELPING...members of the community is what the Marion Regional Career Center's Information Technology Academy's partnership with the Marion Public Library aims for. The MRCC Technical Assistance Center (TAC) opened last Thursday, making student technology specialists available inside the library on Thursdays and Fridays during the school year, from 9-11:15 am and 12:30-2:45 p.m. The students will provide instruction on using equipment and many software titles, including Microsoft Office. The TAC also hopes to provide equipment repair and hardware services in the near future.

Doing Good

Each week, The News Herald prepares news of the good being done by individuals and organizations in Grant County for broadcast on WBAT. Here is an adaptation of the transcript of that broadcast.—Ed.

It's always good when someone who has worked gets to retire. Recently two good law enforcement employees reached that milestone and were recognized by their peers. I want to mention them because Marion policeman Bill Freet and sheriff's deputy Steve Clouse are two good guys with good careers. We salute and recognize these two and wish them well in their well-deserved retirement.

GRAMMAR COURT...is in session, Grumpy McRoorbach presiding, to hear the most egregious examples of misuse of the English language. We enter into evidence today the full-page, four-color advertisement on the back cover of a recent issue of a national sports magazine for the "banking app" (and

The Battle of the Books is a good reading incentive program for local fourth grade students. On Saturday, January 27, teams of students from Kendall, Allen, Riverview, Slolum, Northview, Oak Hill, Lakeview Christian, St. Paul, and a homeschool team will gather to demonstrate their abilities and test their knowledge of five books that they have read ahead of time. This is a good program to encourage fourth graders to read and learn and we applaud this effort.

Taylor University and Indiana Wesleyan University did a good job this year in hosting celebrations of Dr. Martin Luther King. It's good for all of us to pause annually to recognize and rededicate our efforts to the cause of equality for us all. Thank you to the universities and their leaders who plan and host these events for us in Grant County. It's just one more example of something that makes this a good community.

Please do not forget that it is Girl Scout cookie time! Find a local Girl Scout and support her efforts to sell cookies. Even if you do it for yourself, those trefoils and chocolate mint cookies are good enough to be worth the effort.

The final good word comes from the Good Book, the Holy Bible, Psalm 13, where David writes, "I will sing to the LORD, Because He has dealt bountifully with me."

singular and "them" was plural.

The text should, of course, read "him or her," not "them." Or it could read just "him" or just "her." Admittedly, any of them could be problematic. One wouldn't want to specify either gender and the "him or her" construction is rather clunky.

The fix, though, is so easy, which is part of the reason that this bothers me so much. All Zelle needed to do was add an "s" to the word "friend," and the number disagreement would go away. "Friends" would agree with "them"--problem solved.

The final thing that makes me want to rob their

If you have a young man or woman you believe should be recognized for his or her leadership qualities, please email david@news herald.org and leave us a name and the reasons why you think this person should be included among those who will be recognized. The most common question we receive is what is our definition of "young?" The answer is: we're leaving that up to you. If you think a person is young, then go ahead and send in that nomination

BY THE WAY...you can submit those nominations on the GNV1 (that's The News Herald's parent company) web site, news-herald.org. If you haven't visited there lately, you should. We rebuilt it this summer and it is easier to navigate than ever. There's a lot of new content every day, too. Sports Editor Sean Douglas updates the scores and schedules each day, and provides capsule stories on the games that took place each day. Worth reading—check it out.

NOTICE OF RIGHT OF REDEMPTION FROM TAX SALE

Pursuant to the provisions of Indiana Code 6-1.1-25-4.5, as the owner of the real property described below or the person with a substantial property interest of public record in the real property described below, you are hereby notified of the following:

The following described tracts or real property in Grant County, Indiana, were sold by the Treasurer of Grant County, Indiana, for delinquent taxes and/or special assessments on September 21, 2017, to Glenn & Michele Maddox, hereinafter referred to as Purchaser, subject to the right of redemption:

Street Address or Common Description: 220 E. Christy St., Marion, IN 46953
Key Number or Property ID#: 27-02-31-104-010.000-033
Brief Legal Description: 14-01-97 LOT 214 G D & CO'S 2ND ADD.

The tracts or items of real property have not been redeemed. Any person may redeem the tracts or item of real property. The period of redemption expires on September 21, 2018. The purchaser, or the purchaser's successors or assignees, is entitled to reimbursement for any additional taxes or special assessments on the tract or item of real property that were paid by the purchaser, or the purchaser's successors or assignees, subsequent to the tax sale, lien acquisition, or purchase of the certificate of sale, and before redemption, plus interest. The purchaser or the purchaser's assignee is entitled to reimbursement for costs described in Indiana Code 6-1.1-25-2(e).

The total amount of money required for the redemption of the tract or real property is provided in Indiana Code 6-1.1-25-2. The components of the amount required to redeem the property are: one hundred ten percent (110%) of the minimum bid for which the tract or real property was offered at the time of sale, as required by IC 6-1.1-24-5, if the tract or item of real property is redeemed not more than six (6) months after the date of sale, or one hundred fifteen percent (115%) of the minimum bid for which the tract or real property was offered at the time of sale, as required by IC 6-1.1-24-5, if the tract or item of real property is redeemed more than six (6) months but not more than one (1) year after the date of sale; the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the minimum bid on the real property plus five percent (5%) per annum on the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the minimum bid on the property; all taxes and special assessments upon the property paid by the purchaser after the sale plus five percent (5%) per annum on those taxes and special assessments; the following costs, if certified before redemption to the county auditor on a form prescribed by the state board of accounts, that were incurred and paid by the purchaser, including the attorney's fees and costs of giving notice under Indiana Code 6-1.1-25-4.5 and the costs of a title search or of examining and updating the abstract of title for the tract or item of real property; all taxes, special assessments, interest, penalties, and fees on the property that accrued and are delinquent after the sale; and the amount held in the tax sale surplus fund. You may contact the Grant County Auditor for the exact amount required for redemption or for further information regarding this sale.

A petition for a tax deed will be filed on or after September 21, 2018. Purchaser intends to petition for a tax deed to be issued on or after September 21, 2018. The purchaser or purchaser's assignee is entitled to receive a deed for the tracts or items of real property if it is not redeemed before the expiration of the period of redemption. If these parcels are not redeemed and the tax deed is issued, the owner of record at the time the tax deed is issued may have a right to the tax sale surplus, if any.

The components of the amount required to redeem the property are: one hundred ten percent (110%) of the minimum bid for which the tract or real property was offered at the time of sale, as required by IC 6-1.1-24-5, if the tract or item of real property is redeemed not more than six (6) months after the date of sale, or one hundred fifteen percent (115%) of the minimum bid for which the tract or real property was offered at the time of sale, as required by IC 6-1.1-24-5, if the tract or item of real property is redeemed more than six (6) months but not more than one (1) year after the date of sale; the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the minimum bid on the real property plus five percent (5%) per annum on the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the minimum bid on the property; all taxes and special assessments upon the property paid by the purchaser after the sale plus five percent (5%) per annum on those taxes and special assessments; the following costs, if certified before redemption to the county auditor on a form prescribed by the state board of accounts, that were incurred and paid by the purchaser, including the attorney's fees and costs of giving notice under Indiana Code 6-1.1-25-4.5 and the costs of a title search or of examining and updating the abstract of title for the tract or item of real property; all taxes, special assessments, interest, penalties, and fees on the property that accrued and are delinquent after the sale; and the amount held in the tax sale surplus fund. You may contact the Grant County Auditor for the exact amount required for redemption or for further information regarding this sale.

A petition for a tax deed will be filed on or after September 21, 2018. Purchaser intends to petition for a tax deed to be issued on or after September 21, 2018. The purchaser or purchaser's assignee is entitled to receive a deed for the tracts or items of real property if it is not redeemed before the expiration of the period of redemption. If these parcels are not redeemed and the tax deed is issued, the owner of record at the time the tax deed is issued may have a right to the tax sale surplus, if any.

Observing things around us

Sometimes as we go through life, we become complacent because we don't see the things around us. I am one of those people that is always looking for the unusual, and the humorous. I am never disappointed by the things I see and hear. Life is truly interesting, if we only observe. You may ask, "What have you observed recently?" This article will not have any continuity, but it will have several observations.

1. The cold weather

On January 2 it was -17, with a wind-chill of -32. People do unusual things when it is cold. Have you ever noticed that people move at a much faster pace when it is cold? Men usually zip up their coats while women sometimes have a tendency to hold their wraps together. As I went from place to place, I noticed how cold my truck was when I would get in to move on. I even stopped to put fuel in. I always wait until the worst times to buy gas. I never thought the pump would reach $50, but it did, and I was very cold! I thought about that day.

When you believe you have seen it all, someone will always step forward. Later the same day I drove by the Circle K on Bradford, and a guy in a Jeep Cherokee pulled in for fuel.

JUST A THOUGHT

Rev. Tom Mansbarger

It wasn't just any ordinary vehicle, it didn't have front doors on it! He was wearing a snowsuit, and I am sure he needed it. As I drove by laughing I was reminded of my younger days and the things I did.

2. Wild turkeys

I have been fascinated by the number of wild turkeys we have in this area of the state. I recently saw approximately 30 gathered together in a field. If you never ride through the country to see the various wildlife, you should. God's creation is amazing.

3. Christmas lights

I have always been a big fan of Christmas lights. I like colored bulbs the best.

Recently, while going to see our grandson play basketball in Elwood, we took a drive downtown to see their lights. What an awesome sight! Every building was decorated with its own unique color of lights running from top to bottom. It was truly a sight to see because I have a real interest in downtown areas and their buildings. The people of Elwood have exhibited a spirit of unity to promote their small town.

I have always said that it doesn't take much to entertain me. There are lots of things to see all around us if we would only take the time to observe them. Nature always provides much beauty. The white snow makes everything clean and bright. The Scripture says, "Though your sin is as scarlet, I will wash them whiter than snow." (Isaiah 1:18) What an encouraging thought. Not only nature, but people are always fun to watch. I don't feel bad about laughing at you because I laugh at myself.

Take time to look around. You never know what you are missing. It is the simple things in life that make a difference. If you are traveling through life at breakneck speed, you are probably missing all of the good stuff. Slow down just a little and begin to enjoy life. I will be watching for you! Tom ana Sports Talk," said Joel Pyle, general manager of the Marion radio group. WBAT is one of four Marion stations operated by Hoosier AM-FM. The others are Star 106.9 F.M., 860 ESPN and WCJC, 99.3 F.M.

The radio station will also retain its longstanding affiliation with CBS News and will have regular hourly news updates on the morning program, although long-time commentator Charles Osgood will no longer be a part of the mix.

Among the "all-talk" programs eliminated from the daily broadcast lineup are Laura Ingraham, Chris Plante, Clark Howard, Lars Larson, Jim Bohannon, and Red Eye Radio.

The new music format is provided by Westwood One, a major national programmer of local music radio and will include a lineup of regular on-air disc jockeys and personalities.

"Local news and local weather will continue to run hourly through the day and early evening," a spokesman for the station said.

Local news, weather and sports from newsmen Ed Thurman and Sports Director Jim Brunner will continue to be a part of the long-time anchor of the WBAT morning hours, "Good Morning Grant County." The show will continue to be co-hosted by veteran broadcaster Tim George and local journalist Ed Breen.

then walk. If you can't walk, then crawl, but whatever you do you have to keep moving forward."

For the past 25 years, Taylor has suspended regularly-scheduled classes for the day and invited students, faculty and staff, as well as the surrounding community to the daylong celebration and study of the late civil rights leader's legacy and work.

The day's events began at 10 am, with chapel in the Rediger Chapel/Auditorium featuring Tali Hairston, director of the John Perkins Center for Reconciliation, Leadership Training, and Community Development at Seattle Pacific University, as the keynote speaker.

Hairston is a student of the life and legacy of American civil rights pioneer John M. Perkins. In his role at the Perkins Center, Hairston oversees co-curricular programs in global and urban service learning programs, intergroup dialogue, and experiential education opportunities in justice, poverty, ethnic identity, and cultural capacity. An author and speaker, Hairston has written a number of articles on issues of reconciliation and community development.

He also co-teaches and guest lectures in a host of courses, and leads the "interpreting the city" program with Asbury Seminary.

Rev. Shonda Gladden, pastor of the St. Paul AME Church in Indianapolis, was the musical guest. She was previously pastor of the Allen Temple AME Church in Marion.

From 2-4 pm, Taylor students performed community service projects in Marion, Ind., in connection with the Martin Luther King, Jr. National Day of Service. At 7:30 p.m., in the Rediger Chapel/Auditorium, the Indianapolis Jazz Orchestra performed.

Recalling a rainy day in February of '68

Recollections of a February day in 1968 begin with rain, a winter rain on the 35-mile drive up Ind. 13 from Marion to North Manchester and across town to the Manchester College campus. It's soon 50 years, a half-century, since that first day of February in a year never to be forgotten.

On the campus, the rain persisted as students queued up to go through what now seems a terribly primitive security check outside what was then the college auditorium and gymnasium.

We—reporters and students—were all there that dreary day because the lighting rod of the Civil Rights movement in America, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was coming to the campus, was going to make a speech to the young, overwhelmingly white student population, mainly because the college's president, Dr. A. Blair Helman, wanted that to happen.

The college—now university—was and is a center of progressive thought; to this day it maintains a "peace studies" program. It is a Church of the Brethren institution and the college's president that day in '68, then a third of the way into his three decades of running Manchester, wanted his students to understand the world around them. So much so that he had scheduled Dr. King to be followed on campus a couple of weeks later by the highest profile conservative in America, former presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

On that February morning, no American, no human being, could have foreseen the chaos of that year: Vietnam at its worst; killing of both this day's speaker and Bobby Kennedy, brother of the dead president; the March riots after Dr. King's assassination; the August riots in Chicago at the Democrats convention. On and on, relentlessly.

But none of that had yet happened. And Martin Luther King, Jr. was not the sainted figure he has become in death. He had originally been scheduled to speak at Manchester a year earlier, back in '67. An event cancelled, we were told, by bad weather at the small Wabash County airport where he was to land. What we did not know then was the threat of violence if Dr. King were to come to Manchester.

We did not know of the letter to the college about how "we over this way feel outraged that your school would allow this unpatriotic and communistic" man on your campus. It had come from someone in Macy in Miami County. We did not know that the Helman family, including his children, got no sleep the night before the visit.

Those insights have come only recently in the adult recollections of Patty Helman Magaro, the Helman's daughter, who was then a Manchester High School student. It was she who fielded one of the death threats delivered in late night phone calls.

But come Dr. King did. President Helman drove his personal car to Fort Wayne—to what was then Baer Field—to pick up the controversial Nobel Prize winner and drive him back to Manchester. King was accompanied by Andrew Young, a youthful assistant who went on to become, among other things, mayor of Atlanta and the United States ambassador to the United Nations. His interest that day was his young wife, Jean Childs, had been one of the very few African Americans to graduate from Manchester College, Class of '54.

Among those with signs and banners lining the sidewalk to the auditorium was a man with a hand-lettered sign that read: "God save the King." Six weeks later King was shot and killed in Memphis, setting in motion consequences still unresolved today.

But on that day, Dr. King came to Manchester College, strode across campus with Blair Helman to his left and Andrew Young to his right. The rain persisted and they walked without umbrellas.

Inside the auditorium, the student body was there. Few, if any, were absent.

The man who was delivering to America's black population their Constitutional rights spoke that day about "the future of integration in America." He spoke forcefully but without rancor, was applauded by the audience, dined in the cafeteria with students and then departed from North Manchester and Indiana for the final time.

Three days later, at his home Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, he spoke with foreboding of his own mortality: "I'd like somebody to mention on that day that Martin Luther King, Jr. tried to give his life serving others."

Ed Breen, co-host of "Good Morning Grant County" on WBAT radio, has been reporting on life in Indiana for more than 50 years. In 2016 he was inducted into the Indiana Journalism Hall of Fame.

A MOMENT

Ed Breen

Two weeks ago in this column Ed Breen wrote, quoting two Marion city councilmen, that the City of Marion no longer receives a "franchise fee" from the Marion cable television provider.

That is incorrect. City Controller Julie Flores said that Spectrum paid Marion $145,953 for its franchise in 2017, and that the cable provider, operating under various names and ownership, has paid the fee for decades. The payment goes into the city's general fund.

GRANT COUNTY LIFE

PHOTOS FROM THE WEEK—GLEN DEVITT

This week I did not have the opportunity to spend any time in Grant County. I left for Orlando, FL, on Sunday afternoon, (without my camera), to attend the 2018 Kitchen and Bath Tradeshows and to celebrate the 70th Anniversary of Hartson-Kennedy. I have worked at Hartson-Kennedy for 44 of its 70-year history. I returned home Wednesday night and headed for Charlottesville, VA, on Thursday morning to visit our new twin granddaughters. In addition to several hundred pictures of my extended family, I did get to visit the newly restored Rotunda on the University of Virginia campus. Following more than five years of work, and the expenditure of $42.5 million dollars, this is the first time I have seen the Rotunda without scaffolding, tarps and construction materials. It is a beautifully done restoration and certainly worth a visit if you are in the area.

Grant County Sports

Volume 3, Number 9 Week of January 17-23, 2018

Grant County boys basketball Eagles win two, Indians win, Giants lose

Marion
The Marion Giants dropped their second straight game on Friday night, as they were defeated by the Arsenal Tech Titans 97-84.
The Giants fell behind 31-14 after the first quarter and were unable to recover.

Mississinewa
On Wednesday, the Mississinewa Indians got back in the win column, getting off to a fast start and riding that all the way in a 63-42 victory over the Bellmont Braves.

The tone was set in the first half, as the Mississinewa defense kept the Bellmont offense at bay in the first 16 minutes. “I thought our guys came out and played really solid defense,” Coach Andrew Evertts said. “We only gave up 15 points in the first half, so that was really nice to see.”
Offensively, freshman Landen Swanner, starting the first varsity basketball

County matchup
After a back-and-forth affair on Saturday night, the Oak Hill Golden Eagles defeated the Eastbrook Panthers 66-58. The game was close throughout, as the Panthers trailed by just one point heading into the fourth quarter. With the game tied in the final two minutes, Oak Hill was able to pull away and secure the victory.
“I think in the fourth quarter we finally were able to execute what we wanted to get on the offensive end, and we were able to keep the dribble penetration out of the lane,” Oak Hill Head Coach Kevin Renbarger said after the game. “Dribble penetration killed us all night, especially in the third quarter, and we were finally able to get that a bit under control.”

“I thought we kind of weathered the storm early,” Eastbrook Head Coach Brian Childs said. “We were able to stick with them in the first quarter, and it came down to the [final quarter].

It was a tie game with two minutes to go, but they made a couple of plays down the stretch. We missed a couple of shots at the end of the game, but I felt like we executed our gameplan the way we wanted too.”
David Arens, Tyce Frank, and Caleb Middlesworth all played well against the Panthers, especially from outside of the paint. With Eastbrook focused on taking away Oak Hill’s inside game, all three players made high ankle sprain, Evertts expects Swanner to continue to make contributions to the team’s success. “I’m sure he will have struggles, but he can definitely play at the varsity level, so I think from here on out, he will be able to make an impact with us,” Evertt said.

Thabit Gault led the Indians in scoring with 21 points and 15 rebounds, while Swanner finished his first career start with 16 points in the victory.

Oak Hill
After a first half in which their offense could not get anything going, and their defense did not defend the perimeter well, the Oak Hill Golden Eagles stormed back in the second half to come away with a 76-71 overtime victory over the Southwood Knights on Tuesday evening.

Southwood’s Carson Blair was near automatic in the first half, which included four treys in the first quarter alone, to help the Knights build an early 23-11 lead. At halftime, the Golden Eagles trailed 31-19.

On Tuesday, the biggest factor in Eastbrook’s third consecutive defeat was their turnovers.
“It came down to taking care of the basketball,” head coach Jeff Liddick said. “We let their extended zone cause some problems, and I think we were a little too patient when we should have been looking to attack their zone. We were settling with passing it around the perimeter, and they were getting deflections and steals. We ended up with 26 turnovers in the game.”
On a night where the Panthers shot 45 percent from the field, they just did not create enough scoring opportunities.
“We shot well from the field, but we just didn’t get enough shots up,” Liddick said. “We have to take advantage of every possession that we have and try to get shots up. We just weren’t able to do that tonight.”

“On offense the message was clearly sent that the ball needs to go inside,” Renbarger said. “We had zero three-point attempts and shot nearly 75% in the third and fourth quarter by working inside out. We then were able to hit a couple of threes after the ball went inside.”
Caleb Middlesworth led the Golden Eagles in scoring with 24 points and 13 rebounds, while David Arens continued his strong play with 16 points.

Argylls won their second contest in a row on Tuesday night, as some big plays down the stretch helped them come away with a 53-50 victory

Grant County girls basketball Giants run win streak to 9; Eagles suffer rare loss

Eastbrook

The Eastbrook Panthers’ losing streak reached three games on Tuesday night, as they dropped a 36-26 decision to the Wabash Apaches.

Their loss to the Delta Eagles came to execution.

Their loss to the Wes-Del Warriors came on a last second triple.

On Tuesday, the biggest factor in Eastbrook’s third consecutive defeat was their turnovers.

“It came down to taking care of the basketball,” head coach Jeff Liddick said. “We let their extended zone cause some problems, and I think we were a little too patient when we should have been looking to attack their zone. We were settling with passing it around the perimeter, and they were getting deflections and steals. We ended up with 26 turnovers in the game.”

On a night where the Panthers shot 45 percent from the field, they just did not create enough scoring opportunities.

“We shot well from the field, but we just didn’t get enough shots up,” Liddick said. “We have to take advantage of every possession that we have and try to get shots up. We just weren’t able to do that tonight.”

After losing seven-straight games, the Madison-Grant

County matchups

Marion v. Mississinewa

Over the last several weeks, Marion Giants’ Head Coach Lawrence Jordan, after a little inspiration, has developed a more aggressive defensive approach.

“I watched a bunch of tournaments over the holidays, and I started seeing other teams that work their butts off on defense,” Jordan said. “So, I borrowed a page out of their book. We are trying to put the clamps on people, create turnovers, and make them uncomfortable.”

Against Mississinewa, Marion’s defense completely shut down the Indians’ offense in the first half, as the Giants built a huge lead they would not relinquish in a 66-40 victory over their county rival.

Early on, the Indians’ defense was focusing on stopping Marion center RaShaya Kyle who, at 6-6, is incredibly tough to defend. With the Indians diverting all of their attention to Kyle early in the first quarter, Jazmyn Turner took advantage, knocking down easy shots and helping the Giants take control early.

Mississinewa played better in the second half, scoring 32 points in the final two quarters, but Marion’s lead was too large to overcome, as Turner, Kyle, and Vermilion carried the Giants down the stretch to secure the victory.

Coming into the game, Mississinewa head coach Omega Tandy knew the challenges they would face. They prepared for both Marion’s aggressive defense and their size in practice. But the turnovers, which led to a lack of offense, doomed the Indians from the start.

Foy found her scoring touch in the second half, finishing the game with 20 points and nine rebounds to lead the Indians in both categories.

Turner finished the game with 19 points, while Kyle had a double-double with 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Giants. Vermilion added 14 points for the Giants in the victory.

Oak Hill v. Eastbrook

After suffering a rare loss the previous evening to the Northwestern Tigers, the Oak Hill Golden Eagles got out to a big lead and cruised the rest of the way in a 57-28 victory over the Eastbrook Panthers. Oak Hill ran a full court press for more of the first quarter, taking Eastbrook out of their comfort zone early and forcing a plethora of turnovers on their way to a 13-4 lead.

Already leading by 15 points at halftime, the Golden Eagles opened the third quarter with a 16-4 run to take a commanding 42-17 lead they would not relinquish. Eastbrook could not get any shots to fall, finishing the game with just seven made field goals on 27 attempts, while Oak Hill shot 48 percent from the field.

“We knew we were going to be up against it,” Eastbrook head coach Jeff Liddick said. “Coach Law’s team – they are very talented. That’s a hard team to beat. We are trying to compete against girls that are 6-1, 6-0, 5-11, and then the skill level they have with their guards – it was a tough thing for us to try to compete with tonight.”

Jenessa Hasty led the Golden Eagles in scoring with 16 points and was the best all-around player on the floor for both teams. Along with her contributions offensively, she played great defense all night and came away with four steals.

Westgate finished the evening with 15 points and 11 of the Golden Eagles 31 total rebounds, bouncing back nicely from a tough outing against the Tigers in which she scored only four points.

“I’m never disappointed in our effort on the defensive end,” Liddick said. “It’s always scrappy and they always get after it, but because of our depth or lack thereof, we run out of gas. With only two subs, it’s hard to keep fresh.”

Garrasi admitted that earning some wins in the past two games has done a lot for the team’s morale.

“It’s a great boost in confidence for the girls, especially the younger players, to help keep them motivated,” Garrasi said.

Hutson finished with a team-high 28 points, while Evans scored 17 points in the Argylls’ victory.

The Argylls’ winning streak ended on Saturday night, as the Frankton Eagles pulled away in the second half in an 84-50 victory.

Even in the loss, Garrasi was pleased with how the team played for most of the game, stating that fatigue played a factor in the final score.

“We had 18 turnovers, which is a little high for my liking, but honestly, we kept the game within 10 points for the majority of the game,” Garrasi said. “At the end of the third quarter, we got a little tired, they started hitting some shots, and we started missing some shots. It just came down to a stretch we had there at the end.

“The score at the end isn’t reflective of the game that we played tonight. The girls played hard. We could have done a lot better job with rebounding and taking care of the ball, but outside of that, we did some very good things.” Hutson had another excellent game, scoring 34 points and playing excellent defense on Sydney Tucker, one of the CIC’s top players.

Marion

On Tuesday, Coach Lawrence Jordan’s revamped defense helped the Marion Giants earn an impressive win over the Mississinewa Indians.

Twenty-four hours later against the Elwood Panthers, the Giants used the same formula to perfection, coming away with a 52-28 victory.

During the holiday season, Jordan switched his focus to the defensive side of the ball, creating an aggressive defensive scheme that frustrates opponents and throws their offenses out of sync.

The transition was slow at first, but now, the Giants are fully engaged and making it difficult for their opponents to get anything going.

“They are buying into the hard work, and now that it is paying off, it’s easier for me to sell it to them because we are winning,” Jordan said. “We are putting a lot of pressure on the ball at the perimeter, and if they do happen to get by us, we’ve got the twin towers waiting. I’m not really worried about our offense, because at some point, we are going to score. What I’m doing is strictly focusing on defense this second half of the season.”

Much like the Indians did the previous night, the Panthers tried their hardest to keep Rashaya Kyle off the score-board. But she, along with Jazmyn Turner, could not be stopped for the second straight game as the Giants came away with their eighth victory in a row.

“They were doubling her and making sure that they had someone around her at all times – double and triple teaming her,” Jordan said. “But, she finished with 18, and Jazmyn finished with 20, so they were both pretty dominant again.”

Marion’s winning streak reached nine games on Saturday, as the Giants rebounded from a first quarter deficit to come away with a 65-50 win over the Logansport Berries.

After two dominant first halves against Mississinewa and Elwood in their last two games, the Giants gave up 16 points in the first quarter and trailed by one heading into the second.

However, the Giants’ defense settled back into form, as Marion outscored the 19-8 in the second quarter to take control of the game.

“Our defense was solid in the beginning, but we turned the ball over four or five times [on offense],” Jordan said. “When we turned the ball over, they had wide open shots, and they took advantage of them. But in the second quarter, we created turnovers, and that was the difference.”

Turner led the Giants in scoring again with 18, while Vermilion finished with 14 and played well on both side of the ball. Kyle was guarded tightly throughout the contest, but added nine points in the victory.

“Ellie put a lot of pressure on their guards,” Jordan said. “She came away with [several] steals and scored a lot of easy baskets. Jaz ended up with 18. Once again, [Logansport] was physical with Shay, but she still finished with nine points.”

Mississinewa

For the second straight game, the Mississinewa Indians suffered another lopsided loss, as the Northfield Norsemen used a big second quarter to pull away and ultimately secure a 74-48 victory.

A plethora of giveaways, combined with some misses on high-percentage looks, doomed the Indians from the start.

“Again, there were [too many] turnovers,” head coach Omega Tandy said. “We had 21 turnovers tonight, and we just didn’t execute in certain areas. We got a lot of shots, but we didn’t make those easy layups that we needed to make.”

The Indians trailed by only one point, 18-17, after one quarter of play, but the Norsemen outscored the Indians 18-7 in the second quarter to take a lead they would not relinquish.

Throughout the season, Tandy has stressed the importance of playing four good quarters in each and every game.

So far, the Indians have been inconsistent in that area, and that was the case once again on Thursday.

“We just have to put four quarters together,” Tandy said. “We put together two good quarters tonight, but the second and third quarter just weren’t good enough.”

Erica Foy and Ally Hewitt finished with 25 point and 12 points, respectively, but no other Indian scored more than three points.

“It’s a consistency issue,” Tandy said. “They are still learning the game and how to play it the way we want them to play. We had two players in double figures tonight in Erica Foy and Ally Hewitt, but we need other players to step up and put the ball in the basket. We’ve always said that we need five players in double figures for us to be successful. We didn’t have that again today.”

Oak Hill

For just the second time this season, the Oak Hill Golden Eagles lost a basketball game, as they were defeated by 3A No. 1 Northwestern 53-30 on Wednesday night.

The Golden Eagles kept it close in the beginning, trailing only 10-8 after one quarter of play due in large part to breaking Northwestern’s press early in the contest.

But with a chance to carry the momentum into the second half, a couple of costly miscues turned the tide of the game.

“We had two crucial, silly turnovers right at the end of the first half—the last two possessions – that led to two easy layups for them,” Law said. “It should have been one point game at half. Those were the turnovers that hurt tonight – the silly, unforced turnovers. We gave them two easy baskets to finish the half.”

The Golden Eagles kept pace with the Tigers in the third quarter, but their offense stalled in the final stanza and Northwestern pulled away down the stretch to secure the victory.

“We still battled really hard in the second half,” Law said. “We were only down nine and came out early in the fourth [and scored], but we just could not get shots to fall, and we were missing on some uncharacteristic shots. It was a really hard fought game – we just kind of hit the wall going into the fourth quarter.”

Jenessa Hasty led the Golden Eagles with 11 points, while Adrianna Trexler finished with seven points in the Golden Eagles’ loss.

JB climbs on the 'Cats bandwagon

When an Indiana All Star shows up at a school in the Crossroads League Conference people take notice.

This past summer IWU got not one but two Indiana All Stars to sign to play for Greg Tonagel and his Wildcats. That obviously drew much attention.

This past Saturday one of those ‘Cats, 6-4 guard Kyle Mangas from Warsaw High showed a standing-room-only crowd not only that he deserved to be on the Indiana All Star team, but maybe, just maybe, he might end up being the best they have ever had on the south side of Marion.

In the biggest game of the year, Mangas played as good of a game as I have ever seen anyone play in the Crossroads League Conference. After scoring seven points in the first half against St. Francis, ranked second in the nation in the NAIA, Mangas went to work.

He had the ‘Cats battling from behind in the second half, and that’s when he went to another planet. Over the last eight minutes of regulation and the first two minutes of overtime, Mangas had all of the 21 points scored by the Wildcats. Let me say that again: In 10 minutes of basketball, in the biggest showdown of the year, against the number two team in small college basketball in the U.S. of A., Kyle Mangas scored all 21 points put on the board by IWU.

The place was rocking, and when the smoke finally cleared, he had dropped 40 on St. Francis, led the ‘Cats to an 89-82 win, and earned Crossroads player of the week honors. Heck, he should be named national player of the week for that effort.

I think you know I’ve seen a little basketball in my time, covering hoops in Grant County. seven state titles for Marion, and four NAIA national titles for the two IWU teams, so I have some background in making this statement: Kyle Mangas is the best they have ever put on the floor at Wildcat-land.

If you haven’t seen the kid from Warsaw, get out to the Luckey soon. He and his teammates are worth the price of admission. In two games this season, they have wins over number Cornerstone University, ranked number one in the nation and St. Francis, ranked number two in the nation.

Its time to catch some Wildcat fever.

Turn back the pages

Green yearns to return to high school coaching

One of the most popular features of Ken Hill's Sports Hotline was "Turn Back the Pages," in which he revisited past issues of the paper and reprinted notable stories. In honor of the Hotline and as a legacy to Hill, The News Herald asked him for permission to carry on the tradition of "Turn Back the Pages." Hill readily agreed. Look for it in our pages on a regular basis.—Editor

Don't be surprised at all to see Bill Green back into high school basketball coaching somewhere in Indiana.

He tried the college level but has learned his real love is with prep Hoosier Hysteria.

Green announced last Friday that he had resigned as the head coach of the University of Indianapolis men's basketball team, effective at the end of the current season.

"I really miss high school basketball," Green said.

"Some may think it will be a step down (going back to high school coaching) but I consider it a step up. I even miss the pressure and all of high school basketball. I made a mistake leaving Marion when I did but I wouldn't have been satisfied if I hadn't given college ball a try. But on this level there's a lack of fans and enthusiasm. I don't like losing. I haven't been able to turn the program around. When you get dissatisfied it's time to move on to something else."

It's not for sure if Green will return to high school coaching but the chances are pretty good. He said he also has three possible business opportunities.

One job Green already has been linked to is the Center Grove (near Indianapolis) High School head job which will open after this season.

There's also speculation about North Central although Steve Coffman, a good friend of Green's, is still the coach there. Other talk has Green coming back to the North Central Conference in a year or so but probably not at Marion where Dan Gunn has done an excellent job. George Griffith has said he's going to coach one more year at Richmond. One or two other jobs in the NCC may open as well.

Green is the only man to coach six Indiana high school teams to state championships. Of course, five of those were at Marion in 1975-1976-1985-1986-1987. The other was at Indianapolis Washington in 1969.

Green has a 55-74 record in five seasons at Indianapolis, his alma mater.

The Greyhounds are 6-11 this season.

Green had a 354-126 record in 19 seasons as a high school coach.

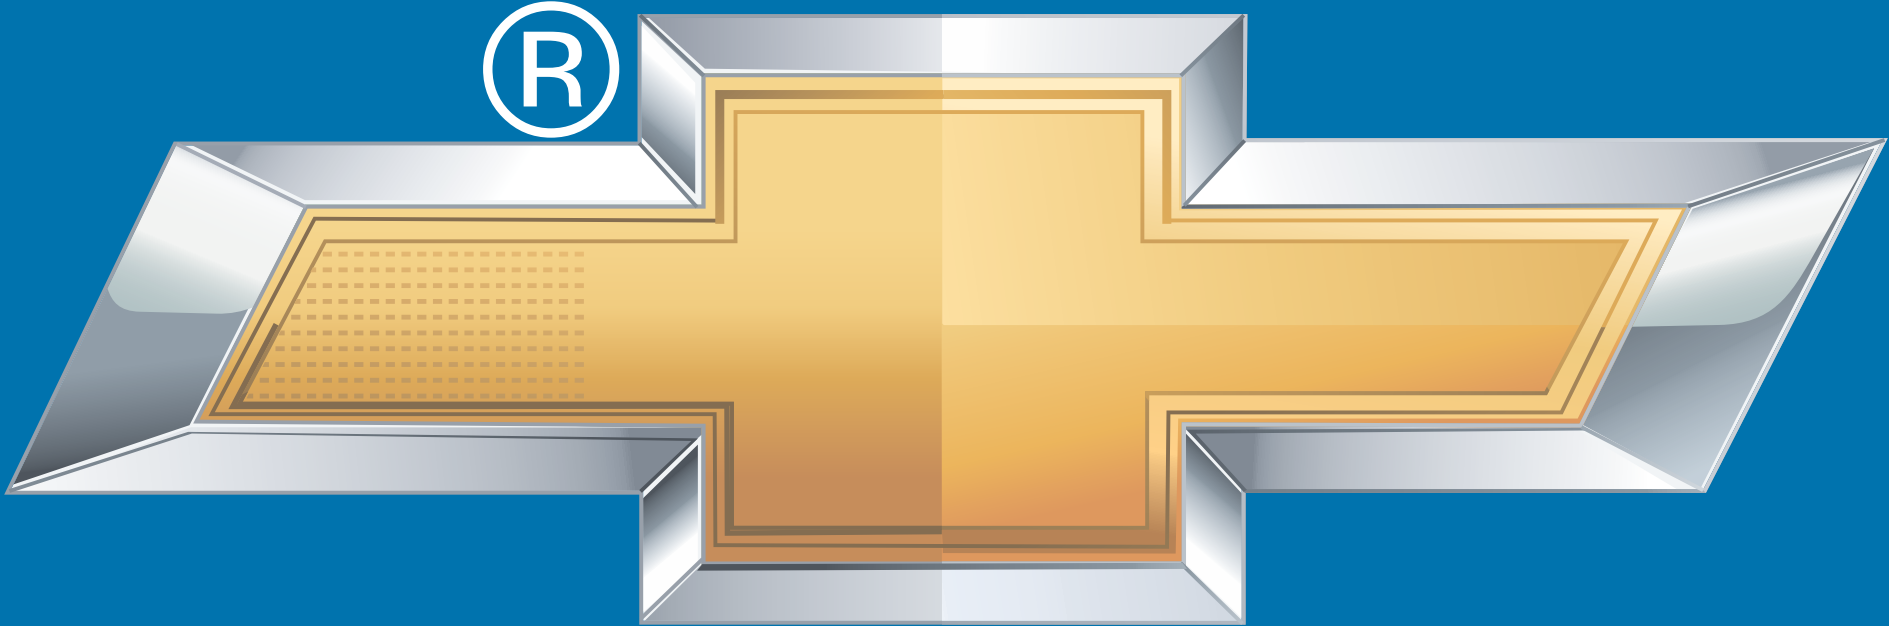

"I just decided it was time to make a change. I thought by making this announcement now that it would give the school enough time to find a replacement especially since this is the start of recruiting season."

Green is 57.

"I definitely like high school coaching better than college. Dr. Sease stayed as the Indianapolis president only one year after I took over. That sorta busted Bill Green's bubble to put the program on the map. Recruiting was hard. We had good players but the real good ones were get hard to get because they went Division I."

Green was asked if he has any thought of returning to Marion High as the coach at anytime, if and when the job opens up.

"It would be very difficult for me to come back to Marion and it would be very difficult for the fans to accept me back."
