Hundreds 'Walk-a-Mile' for County Mission

by Loretta Tappan

The Grant County Rescue Mission (GCRM) commemorated 13 years of its annual fundraiser, Walk-A-Mile, on Saturday, February 10. The event started at the Grant County Family YMCA with breakfast, music, prizes.

With a record-setting 200-plus registrants, the Mission raised $28,443.02 (and counting), which exceed their goal of $25,000. Registration for the Mission's largest event of the year included a freewill donation with a minimum of $20 to receive this year's T-shirt.

The funds raised will support organizational costs and the organization's mission to serve men, women, and children in need of a place to stay, food to eat, and counseling that helps address some of the underlying issues of poverty.

Cindy Nieman, a lifelong resident of Marion has supported the Walk-

More than 200 braved the frigid weather to walk a mile in support of the Grant County Rescue Mission last Saturday. The event raised more than $28,000 for the Mission.

A-Mile nearly every year. "The one that I missed, my son was coming back from Iraq, so we went to see him," she said.

Asked about her motivation to walk each year, Nieman said: "I work at the jail, so I see the same people who need this assistance, and I run the kitchen, so they help me a lot. I have gentlemen who help me, and they're struggling through life. They get out, and they need guidance and help to get along."

Nieman has worked at the jail for 18 years. In her experience, she said: "Generally, they all have good hearts they've just made bad choices in life and need a little help. I just think it's good that the community helps and that it's a Christian base.

We are helping people who don't have a place to lay their heads at night and just to help them realize they're important."

LeeAnna Smith, director of donor relations at the Grant County Rescue Mission, said, "What I think this

State AG on hate: Punish actions not thoughts

By Curtis Hill

In the world of politics, what legislation is called unfortunately may matter more than what it's intended to do.

Consider, for example, health care. Everyone wants health care to be affordable. So name a bill the "Affordable Health Care Act," and some will immediately be on board. After all, who wants to be against "affordable health care?"

So it is with hate crimes. On its surface, the term "hate crimes" suggests that it is criminal to hate—and therefore what right-thinking person would oppose a bill targeting hate? In fact, anyone opposed to any bill called "hate crimes" should prepare to be accused of bigotry, racism and the like.

However, I believe Hoosiers will dig beyond the surface of what a bill is called and focus on what a bill is intended to fix.

As Shakespeare said, "What's in a name?" No matter what you call it, "hate" is a horrible thing. Unquestionably, we need less of it, but is it something we should legislate?

"Hate" is an emotion...a belief...a thought. Although we can agree that hate is wrong and should be roundly discouraged, it has not been our nation's practice to criminalize thought.

Our Constitution protects everyone's right to think, believe and generally speak without fear of prosecution. We are even—or perhaps especially—free to share thoughts that may be unpopular or disagreeable.

Criminal statutes are designed

TIP OF THE HAT TO... the City of Marion's honorees this month: Champion of the Month Jay Yeakle, Spotlight Employee Julie Fauser and Spotlight Business Miles To Go. The city is honoring Yeakle for his role as founder and active participant in Help the Hopeful and as "a grounded businessman...a passionate volunteer and [a] champion for the community."

Fauser has been with the city's Parks & Recreation Department since 2012. She Julie is basically responsible for developing programs for youth and adults. She manages the Garden House and coordinates the "Concerts in the Gardens" series in Matter Park each summer. She also organizes and runs the Walkway of Lights Christmas Parade every year for the city.

Miles to Go was the subject of a TNH cover story a few weeks ago. The new lunch carry-out café is a located at 122 W. Fifth Street, with regular hours of 10 am-3 pm. You can read more about it in an upcoming issue of TNH, too, as we report on the history of the building. For more on any of these three, see the city of Marion's web site: cityof-marion.in.gov.

Mike Karickhoff's (Republican, District 30) bill to streamline hospital licensing made sense. The bill would allow the Indiana State Department of Health to issue a license for a hospital that has received accreditation from a nationally recognized accrediting organization. It would eliminate the need for ISDH to conduct annual inspections if the hospital meets the standards set by a federally approved accreditation organization. National accreditation organizations typically survey hospitals every three years. According to Karickhoff, Indiana is one of only five states that does not accept federal accreditation in the place of state surveys for licensure already. The good news is that the House has already approved the bill and moved to the Senate. Hold your breath, but it looks like common sense might just prevail.

THERE ARE MANY REASONS...I wish I were a kid again, among them the opportunity to enjoy the educational concert that the Marion Philharmonic Orchestra (MPO) will present entitled "Beethoven Lives Upstairs," to be held on Saturday, March 3, at 7:30 pm in Taylor University's Rediger Auditorium. The famous production asks the audience to travel back in time to the 1820s and the home of young Christoph, whose father has died and who has rented an upstairs room to a deaf musician. Ron Spigelman, a candidate for conductor of the MPO, will man the baton for the production.

The first half of the concert will feature more than 25 excerpts of Beethoven's music, including Moonlight Sonata, Fur Elise, and the great Fifth and Ninth Symphonies. For the second half, Spigelman will lead the MPO in Beethoven's Symphony No. 1. Elementary-age young people are encouraged to attend wearing their pajamas (Why? To "add an element of whimsy," the press release says...) Those under 12 are admitted free; adult tickets

DOING GOOD

Each week, The News Herald prepares news of the good being done by individuals and organizations in Grant County for broadcast on WBAT. Here is an adaptation of the transcript of that broadcast.—Ed.

The Economic Growth Council is giving away money. That can be a good thing, especially since they are getting the money because Indiana Michigan Power has leased space at the former Thomson Consumer Electronics facility. That's a good thing, and it made funds available for the Growth Council to launch what it's calling The CHARM Grant.

The CHARM Grant is a $1,000 matching grant that the Council will award quarterly, in March, June, September, and December. Its purpose is to make Grant County's downtown spaces more, well, "charming." The Growth Council would like to have the recipients use the money for projects such as awning replacements, façade improvements, occupying vacant store fronts, sidewalk repairs, paint jobs and other good-looking improvements.

The CHARM Grant will target projects that are small, yet potent, they say, because they believe that even small projects have the potential to significantly impact the business and the community at large. "The sight of visible improvement can bring new life to a community and give community members something to believe in," said the Growth Council's press release.

Applications for the first cycle of the CHARM Grant will close on February 23 and the first winner will be announced on Wednesday, March 7. Good luck, everyone.

Remember Valentine's Day in elementary school? Remember how excited you were to receive cards from your classmates? Students at Marion's elementary students are recreating that good feeling by making handmade valentines for veterans, to be distributed this week at the Marion VA Medical Center. (See the editorial cartoon.)

Students at all four elementary buildings will be participating in this special project as part of National Salute Week, a nationwide effort to pay tribute to and express appreciation for our veterans, and all the good things they have done for our country.

Mission

means for us, particularly for today, is that you can look around and see that all of these people believe not only in what we're doing but they believe in the population that we serve. And, there are so many people in our community who are just very vulnerable, so to look around and see that this many people really believe in them and love them and want to support them means the world to them."

The GCRM kitchen is open seven days a week, 365 days a year, for three meals a day and open to the public. They served 6,494 meals last month, 58,817 last year, and sheltered 1,529 individuals in January, 14,821 in 2017.

New Life Community Church, of Marion, has donated hot breakfast sandwiches, fruit, juice, coffee, and water for the Walk-A-Mile event for the last 12 years. Cafe Valley has provided pastries since they opened.

The Y has been the starting point for the Walk-A-Mile for the last four years.

Libby Root, project coordinator at the Grant County Family YMCA, said "We've seen how big it's grown, how many people we get to meet and the opportunity for this space to be used for different things. Our main focus is always community and really getting people excited about coming to the Y and excited about being together to remember why the Rescue Mission exists."

Kayla Johnson, director of Main Street Marion and neighborhood association coordinator for the City of Marion, said "I think that whenever we give people opportunities to support a lot of our local causes, they do show up. So I think that's really cool to see all of that and be a part of it and witness it. There's always a really unique energy about this community and how we support each other. I just really like that. Then specifically the fact that it's in downtown that's always great. So I always look to see people downtown and just be a part of downtown movements."

For more information about the GCRM and the ministry programs, visit mygcrm.org or call 765-662-0988.

Bills for those who serve

The 2018 legislative session recently reached its halfway point, with Senate bills moving to the House for consideration and House bills crossing over to the Senate. House Republicans made great progress on our top priorities, including addressing K-12 funding, strengthening Indiana's workforce and attacking the opioid epidemic.

TALK OF THE HOUSE
Rep. Kevin Mahan

Indiana currently devotes over half its general fund budget to K-12 education, spending $7 billion annually in tuition support for local K-12 public schools. This year, our public schools faced an enrollment increase of more than 6,000 students. House Bill 1001 addresses this surge in enrollment by adding at least $16 million to K-12 school funding from the state's tuition reserve fund. Indiana's welcoming business climate is resulting in a thriving economy, and by strengthening our workforce programs, we can build off this momentum. Indiana's workforce development system currently spends roughly $1 billion per year through 30 different programs across nine state agencies. House Bill 1002 would reorganize the state's sprawling workforce development system using return-on-investment metrics to evaluate areas in need of improvement. Our goal is to ensure taxpayer dollars are being directed into successful workforce programs that support individuals looking to skill-up and connect them with employers. Another priority this session is fighting the opioid epidemic, and House Republicans are using a proactive, evidence-based working to help local first responders who need to administer life-saving epinephrine in a safe, more cost effective manner. Epinephrine is used by paramedics in response to life-threatening situations caused by asthma or severe allergic reactions. The most common auto-injectable form of epinephrine, the EpiPen, costs anywhere from $360 to $600 per dose and can put a financial burden on local emergency service budgets. Not just expensive, EpiPens have a relatively short shelf life of only 18 months, which is among the shortest in the drug industry. House Bill 1180 would give EMTs the flexibility and training to administer epinephrine through pre-loaded syringes, which is considerably less expensive and just as effective. This could reduce local emergency service spending on epinephrine from $600 per dose to just $10 per dose. Passed by the House unanimously, my bill can now be considered by the Senate.

As we move toward the second half of session, it is imperative we continue communicating in order to best meet the needs of our state and community. State Rep. Kevin Mahan (Republican, District 31) represents portions of Delaware, Grant and Wells counties.

Why are some people so angry?

We truly do live in a mixed up world. It seems that the longer mankind exists the less harmony we experience. What is the problem? This is an interesting question. Do you think we could all do just a little bit better?

JUST A THOUGHT
Rev. Tom Mansbarger

I realize "better" is a relative term. As many would say, "Can't we all just get along?" There are lots of angry, miserable people in the world today, and it doesn't seem that there is much help in sight. I have spent a large part of my life trying to analyze people in order to understand why people act the way they do. I want to give you a little food for thought that, I hope, will strike a chord for all to see. Why don't we get along?

I am convinced 1. people don't get along with others because we are not happy with ourselves. There are lots of things that cause us to be grouchy. Physical problems take us all to a place we don't want to be. Nobody wants to be sick. However, I have met a handful of people who like the sickness for the attention it brings. Years ago I went through an eleven day period during which my back was so bad that I couldn't walk. I prayed, "Lord, if you will get me out of this bed, I will visit people 12 hours a day, if that is your will." I love ministering to the sick, but I don't enjoy sickness.

Emotional issues bring us to where we don't want to be. Many people experience depression and all the issues that accompany it. Depression can cause a person to become many different things. The hardest part is that it makes us become what we don't want to be.

The second thing 2. that causes people to not get along is the absence of an inner peace. Do you feel good about yourself? You don't have the ability to live in harmony with others while you are in deep inner turmoil. Paul said, "The peace of God will keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." (Philippians 4:7)

The third thing 3. see that brings us struggles with each other is an unrealistic view of life. Many today live in a dream world. We want to believe life is what Hollywood portrays. I came to the realization years ago that people are people. We all have the same issues and struggles, and we can't look at life through rose colored glasses. Life has many disappointments along the way. There are always going to be those things that we don't like, but that is life. We must not live in a dream world that is filled with fantasy.

The fourth thing 4. see about people not getting along is they just don't try. Life is too short to be worked up all the time. I believe we have to come to grips with what is really important. How many things do you get worked up about that are really life-changers? I realized that as a newlywed that the fights we had weren't important at all. Why don't you get along with others? Do you try? Are the things that make you mad really worth it?

I have consistently worked over the course of my life to mellow out. I don't want to be mad at anybody; I want to get along. We can be whoever we want to be. We can be pleasant, or we can be as hateful as we like. I would prefer to leave this world being remembered as a peacemaker.

Can't we all just work together and get along? My prayer and my challenge is that we will all try.

What a great week in Grant County. My highlight was photographing the annual "Night to Shine" "prom" for special needs people at The River church on Friday. This is the local version of a national series sponsored by the Tim Tebow Foundation (top, right; middle, left and center). I also covered the "Walk a Mile" fundraiser event to benefit the Grant County Rescue Mission on Saturday

The last time that the Oak Hill Golden Eagles and Frankton Eagle squared off, the Golden Eagles handed the Eagles a 28-point defeat. In the rematch on Saturday evening, in the Regional final at Eastern High School, the Eagles, who are having their best season in recent memory, got their revenge.

Frankton's Sydney Tucker and Destyne Knight each scored 20-plus points, and Oak Hill took too long to get on track in a 68-58 loss. With the win, Frankton will advance to the Logansport Semi-State game next Saturday, where they will face the Central Noble Cougars.

At the beginning of the game, it seemed that the Golden Eagles were in control, as they built an early 8-2 lead, but Frankton had other plans.

After Oak Hill's Kaela Robey scored to give the Golden Eagles a six-point lead, a three-pointer from Frankton's Aleyah Rastetter sparked a 13-2 run that changed the outlook of the game. The Eagles hit two more threes--courtesy of Rastetter and Sierra Southard--to take a 15-10 lead into the second quarter.

Oak Hill's defense locked in the second quarter, but their offense could not get anything going until the end of the frame. Trailing by five, Brittany McCorkle hit Oak Hill's only triple of the contest, and Taylor Westgate scored at the buzzer to make it a 21-19 game.

Throughout the tournament, the Golden Eagles had used an effective full-court press to stifle their opponents' offensive attack, as well as to create offense for themselves in transition.

From the onset on Saturday, though, Frankton gave Oak Hill a taste of its own medicine, as the Eagles' defense gave the Oak Hill offense fits throughout the game.

"I felt like we were playing a little bit uptight," Head Coach Todd Law said after the game. "We just never really calmed down until it was too late. I give Frankton a lot of credit. I thought their defensive pressure bothered us a little bit."

Oak Hill's offensive woes continued in the third quarter. Along with struggling to hit shots from the field, the Golden Eagles were unable to hit their free throws that would have cut into the Frankton lead. Tucker and Knight, after scoring just five and six points, respectively, in the first half, scored 15 combined points to help Frankton build a 38-32 lead heading into the final quarter.

The fourth quarter came down to free throws, as both teams were in the double bonus early in the frame, and down the stretch, the Eagles delivered. In the final eight minutes, Frankton made 17 its final 21 free throws, and led by as many as 13 on three separate occasions to secure the victory.

For the game, the Eagles shot 56 percent from the floor (18-of-32) and 78 percent from the line (26-of-33). Oak Hill, on the other hand, shot just 38 percent from the

Giants drop two close ones; Panthers win two County matchup

Marion v. Mississinewa

In last year's contest between the Marion Giants and the Mississinewa Indians, it took two overtimes and 214 points to decide a victor. There would not be a need for overtime in Tuesday's matchup between those long-time rivals, but the result was the same: a Giants' victory.

"We decided to play some defense tonight," Head Coach Brian Childs said after the win. "We got off to a good start in the first quarter, but we let them back in the second quarter, so we kind of challenged them at halftime a little bit to take a little more pride in the defensive end and get after some people, and we did that."

The Panthers dominated the Warriors in the third quarter, which turned the tide of the game and helped Eastbrook secure the victory. "We outscored them 31-9 in the third quarter, and we shot 12-of-15 from the field," Childs said. "That was the difference in the game from my standpoint. We were able to use our defense to create some opportunities in transition. We wanted to speed them up, so we pressed a lot in the third quarter, and we extended a 12-point halftime lead to 25, 30 points quickly."

"Something just clicked in the third quarter. The kids were working really hard getting after it, we were real active, and we were able to turn that defense into offense."

Ryan Mansbarger led the Panthers in scoring once again with 34 points, while Capone Johnson had 18 points and 13 assists, seven of which came in the third quarter, in the victory. The very next night, the Panthers came away with another victory. After a slow start, the Panthers began to channel the same energy they had the night before, and it resulted in a 70-58 victory over the Northfield Norseman.

"It took us a while to get going tonight," Childs said. "We spent a lot of energy last night, and it was completely different atmosphere tonight. We had to try to generate our own energy to start the game, and it took us a while, but we were able to turn them over a little bit and get a decent working margin throughout the game. It was between 10-15 points most of the way."

Mansbarger continued to put up gaudy scoring numbers, finishing with 33 points, while Connor Childs had 11 points in the victory. Heading into a tough matchup with the Wabash Apaches this coming Tuesday, Childs is hoping that the strong defense that he has seen in the past two games will continue, and that the offense will keep putting points on the board.

"We need to keep working defensively," Childs said. "We have to play really good transition defense, because Wabash wants to get out and run, kind of like we do. We are going to have to make sure we get back defensively,

Marion v. Mississinewa

The momentum began to shift in the second quarter, as Jalen Blackmon, Dre Aguilar, Latrell Simpson, and Zach Randolph were key factors in an 11-3 run that helped give the Giants a lead they would not relinquish. The Giants continued to score at will until the end of the first half, taking a 40-27 lead into halftime.

The door came off the hinges for the Indians in the third quarter, as they were overwhelmed by the Giants' fast-paced style of play on both sides of the ball, struggling immensely to find any kind of rhythm. "I felt like in that third quarter, we were able to speed them up a little bit," Blackmon said. "We got out in transition a lot better, and we rebounded a lot better. We put them on their heels getting back. When we start pushing the ball, I think we are more effective, and I think the guys did a great job tonight."

While the Indians were reeling, Blackmon's son finally found his scoring touch from beyond the arc. Including his three-pointer at the end of the first half, the youngest of the Blackmon clan hit four straight triples to help give his team a commanding 62-37 lead after three quarters. Blackmon led the Giants with 27 points in the game.

"I thought he stayed focused," Blackmon said of his son. "He wasn't trying to force the offense--he was moving the ball and trying to get his teammates involved. When you get one [three-pointer], you feel good about it, and he got a few more after that."

The Giants kept the pedal to the metal in the fourth quarter, outscoring the Indians 23-12 the rest of the way to secure the 85-49 rout. "I credit our guys for being disciplined on defense and on offense," Blackmon said. "We didn't turn the ball over that much, we executed, and we got the shots that we wanted. I wanted our guys to pick up their defense and create more turnovers, and I thought in the second half, we did a better job of staying focused and staying in the lanes. We pushed the ball a little bit more and got more shots."

The Indians, who came into Tuesday's game with a six-game win streak, came crashing back down to Earth in a big way. After the Giants began building their lead in the second quarter, the Indians' effort was considerably lacking. "I just really felt the guys stopped playing," Everts said after the loss. "We did not play hard at all. Being down 13 at halftime wasn't ideal, but I told the guys that if we can get it to single digits we would be okay. [But] a couple of things didn't go our way early on in the third. We made some poor decisions, we had some bad attitudes, and then we just stopped.

Grant in a 64-52 loss to Alexandria-Monroe. Alexandria's defense set the tone in the opening two quarters, stifling the Argylls' offense and forcing a plethora of giveaways.

"We were just bullied around in the first half," Trout said after the game. "They were physical defensively, and we just didn't match that physicality at all in the first half, so we had a ton of turnovers because of that. A 20-11 surge in the third quarter, thanks in large part to Howell, brought the Argylls back into the game, but a defensive adjustment by the Tigers once again shut down the Argylls' offense. In the final quarter, the Tigers outscored the Argylls 16-5. "In the fourth quarter, they went to a diamond-and-one on Howell, because he was really hot in the third quarter," Trout said. "After that, we didn't have anybody step up offensively and hit a bucket. We knew they would go to that defense at some point--we had worked on it for a couple of days--and we didn't execute what we worked on in practice in the game. They took Howell out of the game in the fourth and we are going to have to continue to score. We can't go through droughts--[Wabash] is a tough place to play--so we have to keep scoring.

Madison-Grant

Coming off their impressive win over the Taylor Titans back on Saturday, the Madison-Grant Argylls were unable to keep up their momentum against Southwood on Thursday night, as they were defeated by the Knights, 90-53.

The Knights, who like to play at a quicker pace, forced Madison-Grant to play at their speed, which the Argylls were not accustomed to. All in all, the Knights came away with 28 takeaways and kept the Argylls' offense in check all game long.

"They shot the ball really well, and we had a ton of turnovers," Head Coach Brian Trout said. "We didn't take care of the basketball very well. We just were kind of sped up in the first half and didn't hold our composure very well. We were getting the ball where we wanted it for the most part, but then we just weren't able to finish or do anything with it because we were sped up."

Madison-Grant was able to break Southwood's press early, but the Knights made some changes to continue to stifle the Argylls' offense.

"They pressured with a 2-2-1 full court press, and early we were getting [the ball] to the middle and attacking from there," Trout said. "But then they dropped a guy back in the middle and took that away. We didn't adjust very well."

The game was over by halftime, as the Knights built a commanding 55-19 lead they would not relinquish.

"We just have to take care of the basketball," Trout said. "That was the biggest thing tonight. When we did get it in the paint, they blocked 13 shots tonight, but we didn't do a very good job of attacking. We just have to be smarter, and we have to take care of the basketball."

Kaiden Howell led the Argylls in scoring with 12 points, while Justin Moore had eight points and 10 rebounds in the loss.

The Argylls dropped their 15th game of the season on Saturday, as lackadaisical ball control, combined with a rough fourth quarter offensively, doomed Madison-

We stopped playing."

Another factor that seemed to affect the Indians was the crowd at Bill Green Arena. The Giants' fans were locked in the entire game, and made a big point to heckle Indians' point guard Anthony Horton, who had transferred from Marion to Mississinewa this year.

"We knew to expect that," Everts said of the crowd noise. "That's going to happen when you come into a place like this, and you have a big rivalry, but we were not mentally tough tonight. We had a lot of guys do some things that I am not too proud of. We are going to fix those things in practice this week and hopefully learn from it, because we go into another tough atmosphere Friday night, so we are going to have to do a better job."

For Mississinewa, this is a game they want to quickly forget, but Everts wants them to remember it going forward and use it as a teaching tool for the rest of the season. "We have to learn from this," Everts said. "Not just our play, but our effort and our attitudes were bad, so there are things we have to fix."

Sophomore shooting guard JK Thomas finished with 23 points, as the Giants' backcourt combined for 50 of Marion's 85 points. Horton and Elijah Bounds each finished with 13 points to lead the Indians.

Trailing by just three points, Marion's Jalen Blackmon was fouled with 1.2 seconds left and made his first throw to make it a 52-50 game. He missed his second free throw intentionally, and the Mavericks were called for a rebounding foul with .03 seconds left.

But Qu'Ran Howard missed his second free throw, resulting in a brutal conference loss for the Giants. The Giants lost their second game in a row on Saturday afternoon, dropping a 69-64 decision to the Greentown Woodmen.

Blackmon was the Giants' leading scorer with 27 points, while JK Thomas finished with 10. Latrell Simpson and Dre Aguilar both added eight points in the Giants loss. Marion's record dropped to 14-6 on the season.

On Tuesday night after their tilt with Marion, head coach Andrew Everts believed that his team had quit playing after the Giants built a big lead in the second quarter. Friday's game against the Frankton Eagles played out in an eerily similar fashion.

After another solid first quarter by the Indians, a 15-5 surge by the Eagles in the second quarter turned out to be the turning point of the contest, as Mississinewa never threatened again in a 71-56 loss.

"They just went on a run because they are a good team," Everts said after a second-straight disappointing defeat. "I think the problem with our group right now is when things get tough, when teams go on runs, we quit. We quit, we really do. It's disappointing to see that two games in a row. Anyone can compete for a quarter. We keep doing that, but we are not mentally tough enough yet, and we need to figure it out soon."

The opening eight minutes of the game were a back-and-forth affair, as neither team led by more than four points in the quarter. Mississinewa held a brief 11-8 advantage midway through the period, their only lead of the game, but the Eagles responded with four straight points to take a 15-11 lead.

Mississinewa's Landen Swanner hit his second three of the first quarter to cut the lead to one, but Frankton's Landon Weins, who went on to have a huge game, scored a field goal to increase the Eagles' lead back to three.

For the second straight game, the Indians trailed by just two points heading into the second quarter. And for the second straight game, the door came off the hinges for the Indians. Mississinewa's Anthony Horton tied the game at 17 with two free throws, but Frankton's Rylan Detling scored five straight points to give the Eagles a five-point floor (21-of-55), and 60 percent from the charity stripe (15-of-25).

"It was a combination of things," Law said. "They shot the ball from the three-point line really well in the first half. Those were daggers to us, and they helped them extend the lead. But I was really proud of how we bounced back. We battled back and got back to within two at the half, and I thought 'Hey, we kind of survived a little bit,' but we just struggled offensively all night."

Frankton's 68 points were the most that the Golden Eagles have given up in the last two seasons, and their poor shooting from the floor and the free throw line made for an ugly combination in their final game of the season.

"When it comes down to it, we gave up 68 points, which is 30 over our average," Law said. "It was just one of those nights where they outplayed us, and you are going to have that. I told them in the locker room to win seven games to win a state championship is extremely difficult, because you can't have one night that's a let up. We absolutely dominated this game in every statistical category except for field goal shooting and free throw shooting, and obviously you have to do that to win."

The Golden Eagles' season is over, and, while they will be losing key contributors in Kristin Dubois and Auja Smith, both of whom were instrumental in last year's state final run, many key players will be back on the roster next year. Westgate, who has grown immensely as a post presence in her second year, will be back. All-around star Jenessa Hasty will also be returning, along with Robey, Adrianna Trexler, and others.

The future continues to be bright for the Golden Eagles, and Coach Law knows it. Once the dust settles, he and his team will be gearing to go for next season. "Obviously, we still have a lot to look forward to, but we have some work to get done to make sure we can be as good as we can to hopefully make another run."

Regional semifinals

The Marion Lady Giants' season ended on Saturday morning, as the Hamilton Heights Huskies defeated them by a score of 50-37.

Coach Lawrence Jordan and the Giants have prided themselves on their defensive play throughout the second half of the season, but on Saturday the Huskies worked to wear Marion's defense down.

And they succeeded. "First of all, I want to give [Hamilton Heights] credit," Jordan said after the loss. "They are a very deliberate team. At times, it felt like they weren't even looking to score—they were just holding the ball and making us chase them. They like to make nine, 10, 11, 12 passes without even looking at the basket to tire you out."

"They had a couple of quick guards who, once I went man-to-man, they were able to penetrate and score on us. Once again, they were very deliberate, almost like they weren't even looking to score, [but instead] trying to wear us down."

Offensively, the Giants struggled, as their top three scorers—Jazmyn Turner, Ra'Shaya Kyle, and Ellie Vermilion—only took three shots in the first half. They were never able to get on track, as the Huskies maintained their lead throughout the second half to secure the victory.

"Jazmyn picked up two early fouls and eventually three early in the second quarter, and they bottled Ra'Shaya up, which is nothing we haven't seen before," Jordan said. "But if that's the case, we have to move the ball and play defense, and tonight, we didn't pay attention to detail."

Though their season is over, the Marion Giants finished with a 21-5 record and their first Sectional title since 1997.

The Oak Hill Golden Eagles' playoff journey continued on Saturday morning, using another excellent defensive effort, combined with balanced scoring, to come away with a 53-38 victory over Lafayette Central Catholic.

LCC came in averaging over 50 points a game, but the Golden Eagles held them to one of their lowest point totals of the season. Along with that, they held LCC's top player, Lexi Thompson, in check all game long.

"I don't think there is any doubt that our defensive effort today was a huge part of the win," Law said after the victory. "We held them without an offensive rebound in the first half, so we defended extremely well. We held [Lexi] Thompson, who is their leading scorer and who had hit more threes coming into this game than we made as a team, scoreless from the three-point line.

"It was a just a really good defensive effort all the way through."

On the offensive end, three Golden Eagles finished in double figures. Jenessa Hasty led Oak Hill with 16 points, while Kaela Robey finished with 13 points on five-of-seven shooting from the floor. Westgate added 11 point and six rebounds, five of them offensive, in the Golden Eagles' victory.

"That's who we are," Law said. "I thought the kids shared the ball well and found the open girl no matter who it was. I thought Kaela had a really nice game today. She battled really hard on the boards, and had a couple of really good drives. It was just a good team win all the way around on both sides, and that's what this team is about."

Men's Basketball

In front of a raucous crowd at Luckey Arena on Tuesday night, the IWU Wildcats defeated cross-county rival Taylor University for the 13th consecutive time and the 19th time in the last 21 games, as freshman Kyle Mangas scored 30 points in a 95-86 victory.

Head Coach Greg Tonagel improved to 24-5 all-time against Taylor, while Mangas hit the 30-point plateau for the fourth time this season.

The Wildcats shot well all game long, finishing at 58.6 percent, which included a scorching 60.6 percent in the opening half on 20-of-33 shooting.

Taylor led briefly early in the second half, but the Wildcats responded with a 13-2 surge to take a 74-64 lead they would not relinquish. The Trojans would get no closer than seven the rest of the contest.

"I have to give Taylor a lot of credit," Tonagel said after the game. "They played really well, and they pushed us tonight. And I saw another gear in our own team. We took a good shot, and we continued to play. I am really proud of the different ways our guys are stepping up."

Grant Smith finished the game with 16 points on five-of-seven from the floor, while Evan Maxwell scored 14 points on six-of-nine shooting and brought down seven boards. Jacob Johnson and Ben Carlson each chipped in 10 points in the Wildcats' victory.

On Saturday, the Wildcats vaulted to the top spot in the Crossroads League standings with a huge 86-82 win over the Saint Francis Cougars.

With the win, the Wildcats have a one game lead over the Cougars with just two contests remaining in the regular season. The Wildcats will clinch a share of the Crossroads League and the

No. 1 seed in the Crossroads League tournament with a win or a Saint Francis loss in the final two games.

The Wildcats have won six straight games against Saint Francis, dating back to the 2016 NAIA DII National Championship game.

Mangas led the Wildcats in scoring with 24 points, while Maxwell finished with 17 points on six-of-10 shooting. Johnson added 16 points on six-of-10 shooting to go along with five rebounds, while Canaan Coffey chipped in 15 points in the Wildcats' victory.

Women's Basketball

On Wednesday night, the IWU Wildcats, trailing 36-27 at halftime, used a 22-12 run in the third quarter to fuel a 74-66 comeback victory over cross-county rival Taylor University.

In the second half, the Wildcats outscored the Trojans 47-31 on 74 percent shooting while holding the Trojans to 32 percent from the field.

IWU started the quarter with 10 straight points, while forcing the Trojans into three shot-clock violations. IWU continued to be red-hot offensively in the third quarter, scoring 22 points in the frame while taking a one-point lead heading into the fourth quarter. The Wildcats outscored the Trojans 25-19 in the final quarter of play to secure the nine-point victory.

For the game, the Wildcats scored 42 points in the paint while holding Taylor to 14. Along with that, IWU held Taylor's Kendall Bradbury, who is the second leading scorer in the nation at 23.89 points per game, to just 12 points on five-of-15 from the floor.

"I was really proud of the way we came together in the second half and fought," Head Coach Ethan Whaley said. "Taylor is really physical, and I thought we matched their level of physicality in the paint."

Nicole Ignasiak led the Wildcats in scoring with 22 points on 10-of-14 shooting to go along with eight rebounds and four blocks, while Brittany Washington finished with 15 points and 10 assists. Carly Lange added 13 points on five-of-six shooting, while Anna Imhoff chipped in 11 point and four rebounds in the victory.

On Saturday afternoon, the Wildcats' defense stifled the Saint Francis Cougars' offense, holding them to just 31 percent shooting in a 61-52 victory. With the win, the Wildcats improved to 13-3 in the Crossroads League standings.

The Cougars took an early 8-2 lead, but the Wildcats responded with an 11-1 surge, including nine straight point from Imhoff, to take a 13-9 lead. Katie Key drilled another three at the end of the first quarter to give the Wildcats a four-point lead heading into the second quarter.

For the game, the Wildcats shot 51.1 percent from the floor, which included a scorching 56.3 percent from beyond the arc.

Defensively, the Wildcats pressured the Cougars the entire game, holding them to 19 percent in the second half to secure the victory. "I am really proud of the toughness we showed today," Whaley said after the game. "We continued to get better and better with each quarter."

Imhoff led the Wildcats in scoring with 15 points, while Ignasiak scored 14 point on six-of-10 from the field. Lange added 10 points and nine rebounds.

Baseball

The IWU Wildcats' baseball team began the 2018 season with a doubleheader split against Saint Xavier University. Saint Xavier won the first game, 4-2, before the Wildcats took the second game, 9-6.

IWU's pitching staff combined for 18 strikeouts, while the team as a whole stole 15 bases over the two-game series.

"We were really good today in the areas that needed to improve from a year ago," Indiana Wesleyan Head Coach Rich Benjamin said. "We did a lot of foundational things well that we will build on. [I was] very pleased with the growth of our returnees and the first showing of our first year players. This team has the culture and skills to get better every week."

Taylor Trojans

Men, women hoops sweep Goshen

Men's Basketball

Sophomore Ryan Robinson continued his torrid scoring on Tuesday night, finishing with 26 points bringing the Taylor Trojans back from a double-digit first half deficit, but the IWU Wildcats regained control with a 13-2 run in the final stanza and did not look back in a 95-86 victory.

Coming off his career-best 36-point performance against Mount Vernon Nazarene University on Saturday, Robinson once again led the Trojans' offense, scoring 17 points in the first half, including 13 in a 29-18 stretch for the Trojans that turned an 11-point deficit into a 48-48 tie.

The Wildcats took a two-point lead into halftime and scored the first two points after the break for a four-point advantage, but the Trojans took a 60-58 lead on a three-point play from Jake Heggeland and held a 62-61 edge with just over 15 minutes left in the contest.

But nine straight points from the Wildcats gave them an eight-point lead, and by the 5:28 mark, IWU's lead had grown to 13.

A Vincent Miranda trey and another three-point play from Heggeland gave the Trojans life for a brief moment late in the contest, but the Wildcats held on down the stretch to secure the victory.

Taylor shot 50.0 percent in the loss, which included a 44.4 percent clip from beyond the arc, but the Wildcats finished at 58.6 percent, shooting 28-of-37 from two-point range as well as sinking 21 of their 25 shots from the charity stripe.

Robinson scored his team-high 26 points on 10-of-20 from the floor, while Heggeland finished with 19 points on eight-of-10 from the field. Miranda and Evan Crowe combined to shoot six-for-12 from beyond the arc in the loss.

On Saturday afternoon, in a game that featured 17 lead changes and 15 ties, sophomore point guard Mason Degenkolb scored the game-winning field goal in the final seconds of the contest to give Taylor a thrilling 96-94 victory over the Goshen Maple Leafs.

Goshen led 64-56 with just under 15 minutes to play, but the Trojans countered with a 25-9 surge in which they shot 11-for-15 from the field to take an 81-73 lead. Heggeland and James McCloud led the charge, combining for 13 points. Along with that, seven different Trojans scored in the game-changing run.

Goshen battled hard to the very end, scoring 21 points in the last 5:26 of the game. Their fourth three-pointer of that 5:26 stretch tied the game at 94 with 4.9 seconds to go, but Degenkolb had more than enough time to run the length of the court and sink the game-winner.

Over the last 20 minutes of the contest, the Trojans shot 67.7 percent from the floor, including a six-for-six performance by Heggeland.

Robinson led the Trojans in scoring with 22 points, seven rebounds, and five assists, while Degenkolb finished with 20 points. Heggeland added 15 points and nine rebounds in the victory.

Women's Basketball

In a battle for second place in the Crossroads League standings, the Taylor Trojans came up short in a 74-66 loss to cross-county rival IWU on Wednesday night.

The Trojans led after one quarter of play, using four makes from beyond the arc to take an 18-14 lead.

A pair of buckets from Josie Cobb midway through the second quarter gave the Trojans an eight-point lead, and after the Wildcats responded with a field goal of their own, Cassidy Wyse hit back-to-back triples to increase Taylor's lead to 30-18.

Jamie Netzeley hit back-to-back treys after an IWU three-pointer to give the Trojans a 36-21 lead, but the Wildcats scored the final six points of the quarter to close the gap to nine at halftime.

The Wildcats used a 10-0 burst in the third quarter to take a 37-36 lead at the 6:29 mark, but Abby Buchs connected on a triple from the right wing to help the Trojans regain the lead. The two teams traded buckets the rest of the quarter, as the Wildcats took a 49-48 lead into the final stanza.

Wyse and Cobb hit a combined four free throws to give the Trojans a 52-49 advantage, but the Wildcats responded with two baskets to take a one-point lead.

Cobb drained a three at the 4:40 mark to pull the Trojans to within one point, but an IWU trey with 2:46 left turned out to be the dagger. The Wildcats did not allow Taylor within seven the rest of the way.

The Trojans shot just 35.2 percent from the floor, compared to 57.1 percent for the Wildcats.

Cobb led the Trojans in scoring with 16 points, while Wyse finished with 14. Kendall Bradbury added 12 points, while Aubrey Wright chipped in 11 in the loss.

On Saturday afternoon, Buchs and freshman Lauren James combined for 13-three pointers and 43 points to help the Trojans come away with a 78-47 victory over the Goshen Maple Leafs. With the win, the Trojans clinched a top-three seed in the Crossroads League Tournament.

Trailing 4-2 early in the first quarter, the Trojans rattled off 13 consecutive points to take a 15-4 lead they would not relinquish. James had a monster first quarter, scoring 13-straight points, including three triples to end the first quarter and a four-point play to begin the second quarter. Goshen did not pull closer than 13 the rest of the way.

The Trojans recorded a season-high 16 treys in the game, 13 of which came from Buchs and James.

James finished with a career-high 24 points on eight-of-11 from the floor while grabbing a career-high six rebounds, while Buchs finished with a career-high 18 points of her own. Bradbury added 16 points and nine rebounds in the victory.

The Taylor Trojans split their weekend series with Campbellsville University on Friday afternoon, defeating the Tigers in the first game, 7-3, before dropping the second game, 6-2.

With their win in the first contest, the Trojans now have two victories over nationally-ranked squads in their first eight games.

Matt Patton (2-0) earned the victory in game one, tossing seven innings of two-run ball. The senior allowed six hits and two runs, while striking out five.

The Taylor offense provided support for Patton by scoring three times in the fifth inning. After Austin Mettica hit a single, Josh Lane brought him home with an RBI double before scoring on a Campbellsville error. Nathan Targgart capped the scoring with an RBI of his own later in the frame.

The Trojans tacked on two more runs in the top of the seventh to take a 5-0 lead.

Campbellsville scored two runs of their own in the bottom of the inning, but Andrew Kennedy and Rob Fox shut the Tigers down the rest of the way to secure the victory.

Mettica, Brett Lawson, Lane, and Tanner Kolbe combined for seven hits, three walks and four RBI. Mettica went 2-for-4 with an RBI and a run scored, while Lawson recorded two hits and two RBI. Lane also scored a run and had one RBI, while Kolbe collected two hits in the game one victory.

Game two went to Campbellsville, who built a 6-0 lead after four innings of play. Drake Gongwer, Clay Riggins, Kole Barkhaus, and Mitch Ubelhor kept the Tigers off the board for the rest of the game, but the Trojans could not rally in the 6-2 loss.

The Trojans collected just five hits, as Andrew Kennedy doubled and Targgart scored one run.

The scoring onslaught continued as the quarter progressed. Travis McGuire hit a field goal, JJ Hartzell scored and made two free throws, and Weins converted a three-point play and another free throw to help the Eagles build a 32-20 lead.

Mississinewa's Jalen Martin helped stopped the bleeding momentarily with a triple in the final minute of the first half, but the damage had already been done, as the Indians trailed by nine points heading into the third quarter.

The Eagles used another run early in the third quarter, this time an 11-2 burst, to increase their lead to 20, as the trio of Weins, Detling, and junior Kayden Key kept hitting shots from all over the floor.

Frankton's lead did not dip below double digits the rest of the contest, as Weins and Key made shot after shot down the stretch to secure the Eagles' victory.

With the win, Frankton improved to 17-3 overall and 6-0 in the CIC. The Indians fell to 11-7 and 4-2 in the conference.

Weins and Key both finished in double figures for the Eagles, as Weins finished with a game-high 28 points, while Key finished with 22 points, which included four makes from beyond the arc.

finishing with 17 points and 16 rebounds in the game, while Swanner finished with 10 points. Martin ended the game with nine points, all coming off the three-ball.

Much like Marion, the Eagles thrive in a faster tempo, unlike the Indians, who play their best basketball at a slower pace. For the second game, the Indians were bothered on both sides of the ball by Frankton's up-tempo game.

"Even when we tried to play in the half-court, their on-ball pressure is so good that I just felt like we wanted to go too quick," Evertts said. "We saw a guy in our face so we thought we have to go, we have to get rid of the ball, and we have to drive, but we are at our best when we play solid half-court defense and methodically execute on offense."

Before this week, the Indians were playing some of their best basketball of the season.

Now, Evertts is not really sure what is going on with his team, but he does know that they do not have much time to correct their issues. "We talked a lot about that in the locker room, and I don't know what it is about this group, but again, we are running out of time," Evertts said. "We have to get it figured out. After the Delta game, we all felt great and the kids were super confident. We played two really good teams in a row and had two really good wins. Now, we just feel like we are back to square one. We have four games and about two weeks of practice to get it figured out.

"I'm still confident, [and] I know we have great athletes, but we have to put it together

Oak Hill

Spencer Ballinger scored a career-high 37 points, and Caleb Middlesworth scored his 1,000th point in an Oak Hill uniform, as the Golden Eagles dominated the Blackford Bruins from start to finish in a 94-33 rout on Friday night.

Blackford has been one of the feel-good stories of the season. After going 1-69 over the last three seasons, freshman superstar Luke Brown has helped carry the Bruins to a winning record.

Unfortunately, for the Bruins, Brown is out for the rest of the season with a broken tibia, and the Golden Eagles took advantage.

"They are extremely limited without Brown in the game," head coach Kevin Renbarger said. "We however may have played as solid a game, as we have played all year. We were good on rotations, and our fundamentals were very solid."

The Golden Eagles dominated the Bruins on the defensive end in the first half, holding them to just nine points, while their shooting from beyond the arc was near perfect.

"We were 10-15 from the three point line," Renbarger said. "I feel very comfortable in saying when we can shoot at that clip from beyond the arc and at that volume we are nearly impossible to beat. This opened up things going to the basket as well as transition and post looks. We were very comfortable and aggressive on the offensive end of the floor."

Going into a tough matchup with the Tipton Blue Devils on Tuesday night, Renbarger knows that his team must play like they did on Friday to come away with a win.

"Tipton is an exceptionally well coached basketball team and play some of the best defense of any team in any class in the state," Renbarger said. "We will have to be efficient on the offensive end of the floor and be as crisp as we were tonight."

Hill chooses Hoosier All-Stars

by Ken Hill
March 29, 1974

Who will represent Hoosierland when the Indiana All-Stars take on Kentucky's best in their annual two-game basketball series in June?

That's always a question that fans in this basketball-crazy state like to toss around at this time of year.

Who will be Indiana's "Mr. Basketball?" His name will be announced this Sunday and the rest of the squad will be published the following week.

But, as a fan of Indiana high school basketball, Sports Hotline would like to announce its choice for "Mr. Basketball" and name the rest of the players which it thinks deserve to wear the Indiana colors at Indianapolis and Louisville.

Anderson's Roy Taylor, Steve Collier of Southwestern (Hanover) and Jeffersonville's Wayne Walls probably will be right up there when it comes to naming "Mr. Basketball" but our choice for the coveted honor goes to Walter Jordan, the exciting player from state champion Fort Wayne Northrop.

Jordan came into this season as somewhat of an unknown in many areas of the state while Taylor, Collier, Walls, and some

One of the most popular features of Ken Hill's Sports Hotline was "Turn Back the Pages," in which he revisited past issues of the paper and reprinted notable stories. In honor of the Hotline and as a legacy to Hill, The News Herald asked him for permission to carry on the tradition of "Turn Back the Pages." Hill readily agreed. others already were known to most cage fans. In fact, Jordan wasn't even listed on the first three pre-season all-state teams (49 players) in the "Hoosier Basketball" magazine.

Jordan may not get the honor because it takes a lot of publicity (and sometimes politics) to be named. Jordan really didn't get exposed state-wide thoroughly until the state finals and possibly the semi-state level. And many of the ballots were cast several weeks ago.

We haven't seen a player this year who's any better than the 6-7 Jordan so he's still our pick as "Mr. Basketball."

Who will be his teammates? Well, here are our selections, although maybe not necessarily in order:

Roy Taylor, Tony Marshall, Anderson; Wayne Walls, Jeffersonville; Steve Collier, Southwestern; Jim Kirivacs, Southport; Bobo Jackson, East Chicago Washington; Nate Mills, Terre Haute North; Mark Barnhizer, Lapel; and Charlie Mitchell, New Albany.

How closely do we agree with you?

Oak Hill's upset may be biggest of the year

Call it what it was: The biggest upset in high school hoops this season in this basketball-crazed state of Indiana.

Frankton shocked Oak Hill's girls in the Regional finale Saturday night at Eastern, 68-58.

Understand I do over 75 games of year, so a stat. sheet normally tells you the story but not in this case. When you look at these statistics they make no sense. Oak Hill did the following and lost by 10.:

- They had 20 offensive rebounds to one, that's one, for Frankton and lost by 10.
- Their bench outscored the Frankton bench 10-0 and yet they lost by 10.
- On second chance points, Oak Hill outscored Frankton 23-3 and lost by 10.
- They had 36 rebounds to Frankton's 13 and lost by 10.
- They took 55 shots to just 32 for Frankton and yet lost by 10.
- They had three fewer turnovers then Frankton and still lost by 10.

Two stats that will haunt Coach Todd Law all summer:

Three point shooting and free throw shooting.

From the three-point and the free throw lines Oak Hill was outscored by a total of 44-18.

Let me state that again:

It will be a long time until next year's Regional, but I know Coach Law and I have to think that every returning Eagle will have a copy of the Frankton stat. sheet to look at daily.

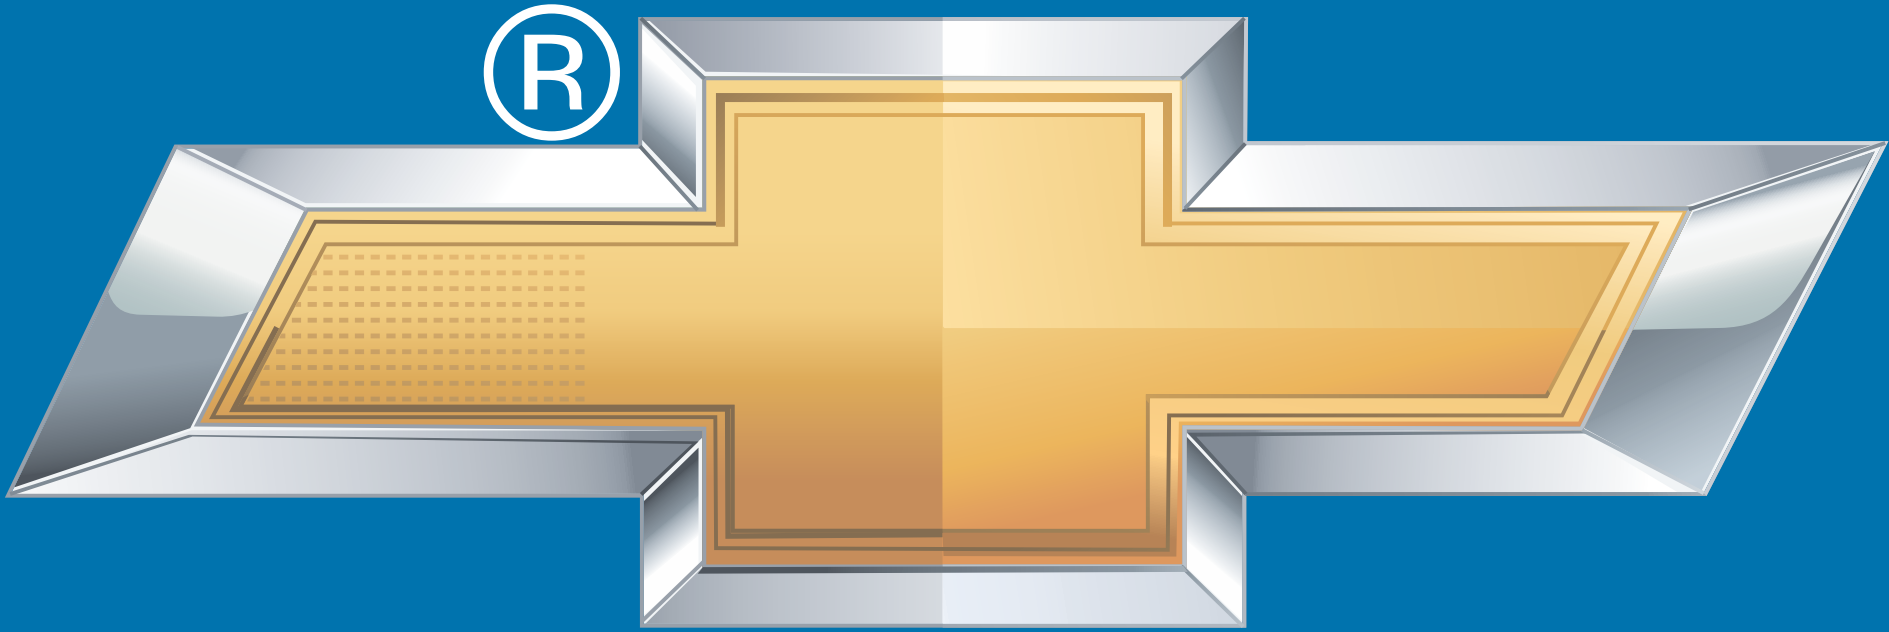

Outscored in 32 minutes of girls high school hoops 44-18. And remember, going into this game the Eagles were ranked number one in the state.

It will be a long time until next year's Regional, but I know Coach Law and I have to think that every returning Eagle will have a copy of the Frankton stat. sheet to look at daily.

That might be all it takes in February of 2019 to get them over the top in their pursuit of the Holy Grail:

To finally win the IHSAA 2A girls state basketball championship.
