BILL SIGNING

Photo provided

Governor Holcomb (seated, at right, with State Rep. Kevin Mahan) signed into law the bill (HB 1180) that will allow emergency medical technicians to load syringes with epinephrine doses that cost approximately $10, rather than being forced to buy EpiPens, which have a limited shelf life and sell for hundreds of dollars each. The new law is expected to save thousands of dollars each year as EMTs treat allergies and asthma. Rep. Mahan introduced the bill after discussions with local EMTs as part of his "listening tour" in Grant County. "HB 1180 [is] a perfect example of the cooperation and bipartisanship that does exist in the Indiana government," Duaine Ashcraft, director of Grant County emergency medical services (standing behind Gov. Holcomb in maroon shirt), told The News Herald, "This particular bill passed all three house committee hearings and the three Senate hearings without one negative vote. I was totally amazed that this change was presented and passed in one legislative session."

Torch coalition looks to reduce tobacco use in the county

More than 31% of Grant County residents participate in an activity that—experts all agree—is perhaps the worst thing you can do for your health, and for the health of those around you: smoke. A group of interested people and agencies in the county would love to do something about that.

Torch is a new coalition of community members and agencies they represent that is taking the lead in that effort. Specifically, Torch wants to:

- Reduce the number of people who smoke in Grant County,
- Reduce the number of people exposed to second hand smoke.
- Build a network of healthcare providers that routinely refer tobacco users to the Indiana Tobacco Quit-line,
- Educate the community on tobacco's deceptive point-of-sale advertising,
- Ensure that all Grant County school districts have a comprehensive tobacco-free grounds policy (including electronic cigarettes/smoking devices).

- Increase the number of housing properties that protect residents from secondhand smoke exposure
- The beauty of it is that the coalition has some money to help it reach those goals. Marion General Hospital is the lead agency for a two-year, $100,000 grant from the state tobacco prevention and cessation division of the department of health. Kelley Hochstetler is the point person for the hospital.

"We are still inviting people [to join the coalition]" she said, "Right now [the coalition includes] Jennifer Lane-Riefler and Rocky Whitehead, from Cancer Services of Grant County; Bob Aronson, a professor of public health at Taylor; Curtisha Bell, of the Boys & Girls Club; Tanya Smith, from the Minority Health Coalition; Pam Leslie, Carolos Guerrero, and Joy Reed from MGH; Rosalinda Taylor, Grant County Health Depart-

THE WORDS “STEM CELLS”...may provoke strong reactions, but Marion General Hospital’s new donation program seems destined to do some good. The program allows a mother the opportunity to donate postnatal tissue which may include the placenta, amniotic membrane, chorion, umbilical cord and amniotic fluid after her baby is born. These tissues are a means to develop treatments for conditions such as cancer, heart disease, Parkinson’s disease, spinal cord injuries, and complex skin wounds. Given that, the donation can help change others’ lives for the better. MGH has received its first donation for the program, from Natalie Harrison, who donated her placenta. Interested? by smoking is a good thing. A good thing that I am happy about is the arrival of some true spring weather and the many activities that mark it. From the 4-H flower sale, to the Lions Club Rose Day sale, to the Earth Day activities at Matter Park last Saturday, to Cancer Services’ Walk of Hope on May 4 and Tri Kappa’s Spring Fling scheduled for May 12, there are many fun activities that mark the arrival of spring. I hope you can take part in many of these good events and bid winter goodbye. Many local service clubs and organizations offer scholarships to encourage high school graduates to attend college. This is good and deserves recognition. The Grant County Lyric Club is offering a $700 award based on exceptional musical ability, character, and serious intent to continue musical training. Kappa Kappa Sigma Sorority is offering a $1,000 vocational scholarship for a needy student seeking training that is less than four years. These are just two of the many good organizations in our community helping students. We offer our applause for their good efforts. A final word today from a good woman, former First Lady Barbara Bush, who showed us how important it is to be a good mother, wife, and role model. She said, “Family and friends and faith are the most important things in your life and you should be building friendships.” Have good week, and may God bless you! —Mike Roorbach

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

I want to thank you for listing all the grant recipients AND the Champion for Children winner [in the article on the Prevent Child Abuse event]. That award is very prestigious; it does not go to one individual but to the whole agency, association, church, organization, etc. So many people have participated in helping families and keeping children safe. Again I want to thank you and end by saying we do look forward to reading your newspaper! Mary Jo Parlee, member, Prevent Child Abuse council

Regarding the Grand Hamburg building: In 1949 Lee Nichols got out of the Army and started managing The Grand for its owner, Stan Stephenson. Lee managed it until it closed in 1990—40 years. I was a constant customer: Lee told me in the 1950s The Grand was open 24/7 and it took five people to run it: three waiters, one cook and one dishwasher. There was nothing like Marion in the 1950s and ’60s, especially downtown. Everything a person could need was there. I called it living in the “glory days of Marion.” I was a Marion police officer in the late 1960s-’80s. One of my favorite assignments was walking the beat downtown. The beat was around the square and one block off the square. The downtown boomed in those days. Each shift was full of excitement. There were 21 restaurants and taverns in the downtown area. In 1976, Sears and JC Penney moved from downtown to the new mall. Marion started dying and has ever since. Mike Keeley

Lessons learned from baby dedication

Last Sunday morning was a glorious day in the life of Grace Community Church. There were 50-plus people lined from one side of the platform to the other. It was special because it was baby dedication day. There were at least 12 little ones that we set apart for the Lord. It was a privilege for me to get to share a ‘Pastoral Charge’ to each of the parents. Some believe that those little ones are the church of tomorrow, but they are really the church of today. They represent a rich heritage to our fellowship.

As I thought all week about the message, my mind went wild with all the thoughts I wanted to share, with such a short timeframe to share them. It seemed like yesterday that my two boys were that age, but how quickly time has passed. I was also reminded of the many babies that have been paraded across the platform over the last 25 years.

If you had the opportunity, what would you tell these young couples who are just beginning life? As I gathered my thoughts, I tried to break it down to a short list of four items. Now, as I elaborate on these four, the main focus is on babies and their parents; however, these same principles apply to everyday life dealing with others. If I could turn the clock back and know then what I know now, these four thoughts would be essential to my family.

Shower them with love

Our heavenly Father gave us an entire chapter devoted to love. It is I Corinthians 13. In this passage, it demonstrates what love is and what love isn’t. The bottom line is: love never fails. I tried to tell my boys every day that I loved them. I also tried to demonstrate my love for them by my actions. Most learning is caught, not taught. People know you by your actions, and love is definitely an action. If you have an “I love you” to tell someone, do it while you can. They really need to hear it, and you need to tell them.

Know what you believe

If you are ever to be an influence on others, you must first know where you stand and what you believe. There are a lot of wishy-washy people in this world that want to tell you what you want to hear. Some folks never take the time to establish a belief system. Do you know what you believe? You will never help others until you can help yourself. Some Scriptures that help are: II Timothy 2:2, 15; I Peter 3:15, 16.

Be Consistent

There is nothing more difficult to deal with than an inconsistent person. “A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways” (James 1:8). Others are watching our lives to see if we do what we say. Our life is a living testimony to our beliefs.

Believe in them

There is one thing that I can say about my parents, they believed in me when I didn’t believe in myself. They were always there for me. It is important to all of us to know we are accepted by others, and that they support us in all that we do.

These are just a few thoughts from the heart of one who wishes someone would have told him those things earlier.

ment; Pam Clem, Bridges to Health; Tawnya Norman, Marion Housing Authority; and Libby Root, of the YMCA.”

The problem is real: 31% of adults smoke (second highest in the state), 125 deaths in the county each year are attributed to smoking. Hard as it may be to believe, a slightly higher percentage (31.4

of pregnant women in the county still smoke (the state rate is 13.5%). That leads to 273 babies affected: through low birth weight, SIDs, and reduced lung function.

Tobacco has the highest financial burden for any preventable health problem (cancer, heart, and lung diseases). Unlike other risk factors, tobacco negatively impacts both the smoker and all of those within their family and friendship circle. It is an issue that complicates the physical health, the financial burden, and exposure of second-hand and third-hand smoke.

The Torch coalition meets on the first Tuesday of every month at MGH, fifth floor, conference room F. If you are interested in being a part of the coalition, or would like to schedule an educational event, you can contact Kelley Hochstetler at 765-660-7204 or by email at kelley.hochstetler@mgh.net.

Veterans: What’s in your wallet?

VETERANS SERVICE
Brad Hodson

Are you a veteran? Do you want a way to show others or businesses that you are a veteran? Many businesses appreciate veterans for what they have done to ensure our way of life here in America and they give veterans discounts, as long as they can prove that they are a true veteran of the Armed Forces.

If you do not receive benefits from the VA and have a VA Identification Card there are only a few other ways to show that you are a veteran. One way is to carry a copy of your DD Form 214 with you, but that can get wrinkled and fade over time. Another way is to go to the BMV and provide your DD Form 214 and they will add a “V” to your license to show that you are a veteran.

But what if a business does not recognize what the “V” on your license stands for? Now there is another option: The Veterans Identification Card (VIC).

The Veterans Identification Act of 2015 ordered the VA to start issuing identification cards to veterans. These cards are now available and can be obtained by going to the Vets.gov web site. Once there, you will need to create an account and will have to submit some personal information and a photo and copy of a federal ID, such as a valid driver’s license. A note to remember is that the VIC cannot be used to receive healthcare benefits from the VA; it is just a way to show that you are a veteran.

The April when Bobby and 'Clean Gene' campaigned in Marion

The day, that long-ago day, began early at the south edge of Marion, out where Indiana 37 and Indiana 9 converge to form the south end of the Bypass and the beginning of Washington Street.

The advance men, as they called them—and they were all men in those days—arrived from the south, from Elwood, where they had begun the day with a rally at the now-gone Mangas Cafeteria.

Marion Police Chief Ted Null was there along with several other police. Capt. Jim Gross headed the police motorcycle detail. And, as I recall, Chet Black and several others were on the motorcycles.

There was a sort of pow-wow along the roadside that morning of Tuesday, April 23, 1968—a half century ago on Monday of this week—police, plainclothes security people, political people, people talking into their wristwatches and up their sleeves.

That was the day that Robert Kennedy brought his presidential campaign to Marion, only a month into the campaign and only days before the Indiana May primary and only weeks before he would die at the hand of an assassin in a hotel kitchen in California.

There was excitement and enthusiasm and a sense of being a part of something larger, something important that day in Marion, similar maybe, to the day that Barack Obama came to Marion in 2008—similar, but not the same. We didn't hate so much back then. Less suspicion, fewer cynics. America, we were told by the candidate—by "Bobby"—could do better, and we believed.

The roadside confab had to do with who and how the brother of the slain President would be protected here in Marion. Kennedy's people understandably had little faith in the locals. "Thank you, Chief Null, but we have our own people and plan, so please, just step aside." Which, of course, they did not. Ted Null—Harley T. Null, survivor of the Bataan Death March in World War II and street-wise cop—was not impressed with nice suits and Boston accents.

There would be motorcycles front, back and both sides of the open convertible that carried Sen. Kennedy, his wife Ethel, three of the Kennedy kids and the cocker spaniel Freckles up Washington Street, past Marion College, past Emerson School, through South Marion and downtown, to the rallying point on Fourth Street, a podium atop a flatbed truck right there in front of the south side of the Grant County Courthouse.

This was the first of two days of presidential-level excitement. Kennedy—RFK, Bobby—would be in and out of town that afternoon, and the next day "Clean Gene"—Sen. Eugene McCarthy, that most unlikely of candidates who played a part in toppling the Lyndon Johnson presidency, would be on the north side of the Courthouse Square, urging his people, his energized army of youngsters, to vote. The day after, an aging actress, Myrna Loy, would campaign on McCarthy's behalf. Gov. Roger Branigin was in there, too. He was the "favorite son" stand-in for Lyndon Johnson on the May ballot, but that's too complicated to explain here.

It was heady times for Democrats in Marion. John Holmquist was McCarthy's man in Grant County; John Tolbert, a young labor leader with a serious personality and a flattop haircut, was Kennedy's local chairman. That afternoon he sat right there on

Kennedy, to the surprise of most of us—about 3,000 people were gathered on the sidewalks and out in Fourth Street—Kennedy looked just like Bobby Kennedy: Tan suit, just a little disheveled, that mop of brown hair drifting in the breeze, pushed from the forehead repeatedly by his right hand, that self-conscious smile, the voice that was so Kennedyesque: Gentle but uncompromising. Not a fiery speaker, but you knew he meant what he said.

"It's a great thrill to be in Marion and find out if I could draw a bigger crowd than my wife," he said. Humor never came easily to Bobby Kennedy. Ethel had been in Marion the previous week to open the campaign headquarters on Fourth Street, across from the Courthouse.

Then it was on to the stump speech: "I'm running for President because I think this country can do better."

Inflationary economy and crime in the country, welfare, the war in Vietnam. "We must move away from the welfare system and move toward jobs... Let us bring the war to the negotiating table and reach an honorable settlement."

The thank-yous to the locals, the appeal to vote, the handshakes from the stage and along the street back to the car: moments to be cherished by those who embraced his time and place.

Then, just as quickly, the exit: The police, the open convertible full of photographers, the Kennedy convertible, the smiling candidate, the waving wife, the charter bus of staffers and the charter bus of reporters.

The motorcade accelerated up the Third Street hill, across West Marion, on to Sweetser and down to Swayzee and on to Greentown and Kokomo, 90 miles an hour on the open road. No time to waste in the fields. No time, indeed.

In 45 days it would end. Forever.

Headshots for “Annie” started my week (left and right). I returned to Oak Hill a couple more times this week for the Oak Hill Relays (top row) and the Special Olympics swim meet.

While I was there, I did a little drone flying over the new Solar Collection System. I stopped by IWU for the first day of their

Fixing pitching and eliminating errors

Each year I remember a saying which old timers banter about as baseball season swings into high gear: “Those walks and errors will kill you!” This week I asked area coaches a half dozen questions:

1. Why is it so difficult for pitchers to gain command of their pitches early in the spring?

Marion Coach Gabe Wagner said, “This spring has been tough with not being able to get a lot of outside work in with the horrible weather. Also, early in the spring with the colder temps it’s hard to get a feel especially for the off-speed (pitches).”

Eastbrook Coach Steve Swinson added, “I believe it takes our pitchers a little longer to work into the consistent routine we are wanting them to get to. Hopefully, we will be able to rectify this by getting more work in the off-season, summer games.”

Oak Hill Coach Shane Edwards said, “With several of our pitchers being multi-sport athletes, they are not able to put in the time while still competing in their winter sport. Developing the arm as well as mechanics takes time and repetition.”

Madison-Grant Coach Scott Haley added, “In my opinion it’s the elements; when you’ve been throwing inside all winter and if you can’t get out in the spring, it’s going to take a while to gain confidence and control.”

2. When pitchers struggle finding the plate what are some strategies or techniques you use to help them gain control and cut down on walks?

Wagner said, “Most of the time our pitchers struggle trying to make a perfect pitch. There are nine [players] on defense for a reason.”

Swinson added, “[There] are two things that I like to tell and show our pitchers. [First,] I have the pitcher shorten up his stride to the plate, which will allow him to get out over his front knee and feel like he is in better control of his pitch—mind over matter. Second, instead of throwing to the glove and pinpointing his pitch, I tell him to use the catcher’s chest protector as the pitching target, also mind over matter. Pitching is mostly mental.”

Edwards said, “At Oak Hill, we try to get them to adjust mentally. The game really isn’t a place to make changes. We do talk about some minor physical adjustments, but use verbal cues that we hope gets them back focused on the task.”

Haley added, “I feel like our pitchers are still adjusting to being outside. Overall, they are doing a good job. Errors [behind them] are really the main problem.”

3. How are your pitchers doing so far?

Wagner said, “Overall, our pitching staff has gotten off to a better start than in the

Eastbrook

In the Eastbrook Invitational on Saturday morning, the host Panthers took home fifth place, finishing with a score of 352. Noah Ross led the Panthers with a 72, while Collin Burman carded an 82. Calvin Ochs shot a 94 and Cody Everling finished with a 97.

Madison-Grant

On Thursday, the Argylls dropped their first Grant County match of the season, losing to the Oak Hill Golden Eagles 217-163. No. 1 golfer Grant Wilson shot a team-low 50, while Bryce Miller finished with a 53. Jonah Johnson carded a 56 for the Argylls in the loss.

Marion

The Marion Giants remained undefeated in the 2018 campaign on Thursday night, defeating the Northfield Norsemen 169-215. All four of Marion's top golfers finished under 50, led by Seth Beal's 40. Conner Moritz finished with a 41, Luke Leffler shot a 43, and Caleb Oliver carded a 45 in the Giants' victory.

The Giants took home sixth place honors in Saturday's Eastbrook Invitational at Arbor Trace, finishing with a team score of 360. Leffler finished as the top individual scorer of the tournament, carding a 76 and defeating Lapel's Logan McAtee in a one-hole play-off. Beal finished with an 85, while Moritz shot a 91 for the Giants.

Mississinewa

After coming away with a victory in their first match against Southern Wells, the Mississinewa Indians earned their first conference win of the season on Wednesday, defeating the Frankton Eagles 172-210. Josh Dakin medaled, finishing with a 38 to lead Mississinewa, while Breyton Berryhill and Bryce Luedtke each carded 42's in the Indians' victory.

The Indians kept their win streak alive on Thursday, easily dispatching the Wabash Apaches by a score of 180-240. Dakin medaled once again for the Indians.

Mississinewa's win streak hit four on Friday evening, winning their second conference match in three days with a 166-181 victory over the Blackford Apaches. Ty Corey medaled for the Indians, shooting a 39, while Dakin shot a 41. Nate Brown led the Bruins with a 41.

The Indians notched their first big triumph of the season on Saturday morning, winning the Eastbrook Invitational with a score of 325 and continuing what has been one of the strongest years for Mississinewa golf in recent memory.

With already-convincing wins over Southern Wells, Frankton, Wabash, and Blackford to start the season, the Indians are brimming with confidence, and it showed on Saturday. "It's been really awesome," Head Coach James Reed said. "This is what we expected. These guys, these seniors, I think they know there is something special. Golf teams like this don't always play for Mississinewa, so they are really taking it to heart, and the seniors are being fantastic leaders."

Corey, the Indians' freshman, finished with third-best individual score, carding a 78, while Berryhill finished with an 80. Dakin carded an 81, while Luedtke capped off the scoring with an 86.

Though Dakin is Mississinewa's No. 1 golfer, Corey has made some big strides early in the 2018 season, which has been a key factor in the Indians' success.

"Ty is a gifted kid, and as a freshman, he is doing some things that I've not seen many freshmen do," Reed said. "He is really close to being really, really good."

And despite an impressive tournament win, Reed and the Indians believe they can be even better going forward.

"We did play well today, but we think that we are better than how we played today," Reed continued. "These guys are just so confident and are ready to get better. It was really humbling to beat some of the teams that we haven't been close to beating in the past few years. I think that is a testament to the seniors and their leadership.

"Golf is an individual sport, but in the team aspect, it's all about giving each other confidence, and it's huge to see [the guys] playing off each other. "They really didn't feel like they played well today. I mean, they did play well today, but they have a vision for themselves to be better than they are right now. I think that is what they are reaching for, and I think that's why we are seeing them play so well."

Oak Hill

In their second match of the season, and their first conference tilt, the Oak Hill Golden Eagles came away with a 163-217 victory over Grant County rival Madison-Grant on Thursday. Blake LeFavour and Grant Gilliespie both medaled in the match, each carding 37s, while Jacob Mills finished with a 43. Logan Deaton rounded out the scoring with a 46.

Grant Wilson shot a 50, while Bryce Miller carded a 53 for the Argylls.

The Golden Eagles finished in third place in the Eastbrook Invitational on Saturday afternoon, finishing with a team score of 342. LeFavour and Mills led the way for the Golden Eagles, each carding an 81, while Gilliespie shot an 89. Spencer White capped off the scoring with a 91.

Madison-Grant

The Madison-Grant Argylls lost their second match in a row on Wednesday night, falling to Grant County rival Marion by a score of 5-0.

Lexi Crouse and Lizzy Whybrew did not register a single win at No. 1 and No. 3 singles, respectively, while Kristen Cleaver only won two games in a 1-6, 1-6 loss at No. 2 singles.

In doubles play, both matches ended with the same score, as Sadie Wilson and Carley Bramel were defeated 1-6, 1-6 at No. 1 doubles, while Kayla Comer and Brooke Butcher also came away with a 1-6, 1-6 loss at No. 2 doubles.

The Argylls got back to .500 on Friday night, sweeping conference foe Frankton 5-0.

Crouse bounced back with a 6-1, 6-1 win at No. 1 singles, while Whybrew lost just two games in a 6-0, 6-2 victory at No. 3 singles. Cleaver finished with a second set sweep in a 6-3, 6-0 triumph at No. 2 singles.

Comer and Butcher achieved a 6-4, 6-3 victory at No. 2 doubles, while Sadie Wilson and Carley Bramel completed the sweep with a 7-5, 2-6, 3-4 (ret) score at No. 1 doubles.

The Argylls dropped their fourth match of the season on Monday, as the Eastern Comets took care of business in singles play to come away with a 3-2 victory.

Cleaver, Wilson, and Bra-mel won a combined three games, with Cleaver falling 0-6, 1-6, at No. 1 singles; Wilson, in her first singles match of the season, losing 1-6, 0-6 at No. 2 singles; and Bramel, moving up from No. 1 doubles, dropping a 0-6, 1-6 decision at No. 3 singles. Crouse, who moved to No. 1 doubles with Butcher, won 7-6 (4), 6-4; Comer and Whybrew overcame a second-set defeat to come away with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-0 victory.

Marion

In their annual #SmashCancer event on Wednesday night, the Marion Giants took care of business, defeating Grant County rival Madison-Grant 5-0.

Kayla Dubuque and Claire Hendricks came away with clean sweeps at No. 1 and No. 3 singles, while Makenzie Nelson was equally as dominant with a 6-1, 6-1 win at No. 2 singles.

Eastbrook

For five and a half innings, the Eastbrook Panthers hung in with the defending state runner-ups, but in the bottom of the sixth inning the Panthers of Elwood took advantage of multiple Eastbrook errors to come away with a 15-5 walk-off victory on Thursday night. All eight runs scored in bottom half of the sixth were unearned.

With the loss, Eastbrook drops to 0-1 in conference play.

"We couldn't get composed in time to stop them," Head Coach Harold Coates said. "We battled back, but we just couldn't stay in the game long enough. That was the most frustrating part of it."

Mady McMillan struggled on the hill for Eastbrook, giving up seven runs (six earned) and six hits in just 3 innings pitched. Hyatt did not fare much better in relief, allowing seven hits and walking three without recording a single strikeout.

Kennedy Ross led the Panthers' offense, coming away with one hit and two RBI. Olivia Barnaby, Sierra Shook, Helaina Walters, and Hyatt had the other four hits for Eastbrook in the loss.

The Panthers quickly righted the ship on Thursday, coming back from a four-run deficit after the first inning to defeat the Bluffton Tigers, 12-4. After some reflection and contemplation following their loss to Elwood, the Panthers came into the game focused and ready to play, and it showed against the Tigers.

"We had talked a little bit about the mental errors that we made in last night's game, and I think that tonight they corrected a lot of stuff," Coates said. "They were able to play a full seven innings, and when we do that, we are capable of quite a bit."

past few years. Tra Cox has started the season doing a great job by throwing strikes, getting ahead, so he can use his off-speed [pitches]. With the weather, it's been tough for some of our guys to get in a flow this spring, and [they] have struggled a little either throwing strikes or hitting their spots. For us to be successful, our guys need to locate very good, every pitch."

Swinson added, "Going into the spring, we felt like our guys were a little behind the average as a returning pitching staff. We really didn't have many varsity innings returning from the 2017 high school season. We feel that Josh Pluimer and Matt Hollars are ahead of where we thought they would be going into the third week of the regular season. We have some extra work to do on the rest of our pitching staff, but I do like the direction Ryan Mansbarger, Dylan Bragg and Edward Keasling are headed when on the mound."

Edwards said, "I feel that all of our pitchers are still 'feeling' their way through it. As a coaching staff, we are also 'feeling' our way through who is best starting, who is best in relief, etc."

4. What are some of the things which contribute to players making defensive errors?

Wagner added, "For one it's the pitchers throwing strikes. If a pitcher is struggling to throw strikes the defense 'falls asleep,' or gets too relaxed. Also, with the weather we've had, it's tough sometimes to get a good grip on the ball."

Swinson said, "[Being] out of defensive position when ball is pitched, rushing the play, and self-pressure to make the perfect play. We want our players to know what the play should be before the ball has been put in play to them if possible."

Edwards added, "Physical errors are going to hap-

McMillan was 2-for-3 with a triple and four RBI, while Olivia Barnaby was 1-for-3 with two RBI. Hyatt had an RBI and two runs scored in the win.

Ali Anderson started the contest and gave up four runs on four hits in the first inning, but McMillan shut the door the rest of the way, striking out 12 in the final six innings of play.

After scoring 12 runs on Friday night, the Indians combined to score 24 runs on 28 hits in 9-6 and 15-1 victories over the Wabash Apaches on Saturday.

After their big comeback victory over Bluffton, with momentum on their side, the Panthers were focused and dialed in from the start against Wabash.

"I think last night's [play] carried over into this morning," Coates said. "The girls got there, warmed up well, and I feel like they played well. I felt like they were ready to play from the very beginning, and I think that was very important."

After trading runs in the first two innings, the Panthers used a five-run fifth inning to take an 8-2 lead, and despite a ferocious comeback effort by the Apaches, Eastbrook held on down the stretch to secure the victory.

Walters went 3-for-4 with a triple, while Ross and Sydney Lee both went 3-for-5 and hit a double. Hyatt and Kimmy Hoddup combined for five RBI.

Hyatt give up six runs on nine hits, while McMillian struck out the side in the final inning.

The offense was even more lethal in game two. Leading 3-0 in the fourth inning, the Panthers scored 12 runs in the frame, a season-high, on their way to a five-inning, run-rule triumph.

In their last three games, the Panthers' offense scored 36 runs, and showed patience at the plate, swinging at the right pitches and making contact with the ball.

"I think a lot of it is waiting for the pitch they want to hit," Coates said. "Obviously, you can't do that every at-bat, but in these past three games, they haven't chased pitches out of the strike zone and they are being very selective."

McMillan was white-hot from the dish in the second contest, finishing 3-for-4 with a home run, a double, and six RBI, while Hyatt hit her first career dinger and drove three runs in. Ross finished with two doubles and three RBI.

McMillan struck out five in the first three innings, while Anderson struck out four in the final two.

Madison-Grant

With Maddi Evans still recovering from a quad injury, the Madison-Grant Argylls struggled mightily on Wednesday, as the Noblesville Millers scored early and often in a 12-1 rout.

The Millers scored 11 of their 12 runs in the first two innings of the contest, chasing Argyll starting pitcher Maggie Havens after just 1.1 frames.

"I don't know if I've ever seen a team that disciplined with the bat," Madison-Grant Head Coach Danny Justus said after the game. "They aren't an overly experienced team, but they are a nice group of young girls that are disciplined. Anything we threw over the plate they put the right part of the bat on it. The ball jumped off the bat well. They were very impressive."

While the Noblesville offense scored seemingly at will, their pitching was equally as impressive, as Baily Ryan and Madison Taylor combined to strike out five Argylls while giving up just one hit apiece.

Madison-Grant got one run back in the fifth inning, but

Taylor shut the door the rest of the way to secure the run-rule victory. "They weren't happy with themselves, but at the same time, we hit the ball fairly well and hit it at people," Justus said. "[Noblesville] just made a couple of brilliant plays. They are just a nice club."

Heading into their first conference matchup on Wednesday, Justus was hoping that a return to the familiar—in this case a matchup with long-time Grant County rival Mississinewa—would help his team put the Noblesville contest behind them.

"We know how Mississinewa plays, and they know how we play—there are a lot of similarities," Justus said. "It comes down to the team that wants it most, so I think preparation, getting kids into the right spot, and getting them back into a comfort zone is going to be the most important thing for us."

It certainly was. The Argylls received contributions from multiple players, overwhelming the Indians in an 11-2 rout on Thursday night.

Evans, still working her way back into the lineup, scored on an Alcalá RBI single, and Zoey Barnett cranked a two-run double to give the Argylls a lead they would not relinquish.

The Argylls put the game away in the sixth and seventh, scoring two and five runs, respectively, to earn a big conference victory.

While the heart of the Argylls' line up provided most of the offense, the Argylls' youngsters were an important factor in the victory, including Hannah Ogden, Barnett, and Abbie Duncan.

In the early part of the season, Justus has seen growth in each and every game.

"Ogden played her best game of the year at center field," Justus said. "She tracked a couple of balls almost to the fence and made a couple of nice catches and nice throws. Duncan comes in and plays a brand new position at shortstop and makes a couple of plays. We put Barnett behind the plate and she looked like she had been there for a year and a half. We're tweaking things, we are still moving kids around, but they are getting better, and they are growing."

"Coming off that tough loss, I think our focus was that we just needed to have more purpose. The game just had to mean more, and not just because it was a conference game. I think the kids dialed in, played their kind of ball, and manufactured some runs."

Unfortunately, while the Argylls hit well on Friday night, they were unable to bring runs home, stranding seven runners in the first four innings in a 7-3 loss to the Northwestern Tigers. Madison-Grant took an early 2-0 lead, but left runners on base in consecutive innings to keep the offense grounded.

While the Argylls struggled to score, the Tigers did not, scoring seven runs to hand the Argylls their third loss of the season.

Marion

After defeating the Wabash

Apaches by 11 runs back on April 13, the Marion Giants struggled in their next three games, dropping a 5-4 decision to Norwell, a 9-2 decision to Anderson, and a 14-2 decision to Oak Hill.

Against the Knights on Tuesday, the Giants, trailing 4-1, scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning to tie the game at four runs apiece, but the Knights secured a walk-off victory in the bottom of the frame, racking up three straight two-out hits to win the contest.

Taylor Asher and Denaia Rice each finished with two hits and an RBI, while freshman Kylae Adkins also had an RBI. Rice took the loss, giving up 13 hits and five runs (three earned) while striking out just one in the loss.

The very next night, the Giants could not contain Anderson's offense, as the Indians scored eight runs in the first four innings on their way to a 9-2 triumph.

Anderson scored twice in the first, twice in the second, and four times in the fourth to build a lead they would not relinquish. Adkins drove in both of Marion's runs, while Rice finished 2-for-3 in the contest.

Adkins gave up four runs on three hits in the first three innings, while Asher gave up five runs and seven hits in the final three innings.

Marion's losing streak hit three on Friday evening, as Grant County rival Oak Hill bombarded the Giants with 14 runs on 16 hits in a 14-2 run-rule victory.

Oak Hill scored at least two runs in the five-inning affair, with Abigail Shaw, Jenessa Hasty, and Kaela Robey each driving three runs in apiece. Tiger Phillips and Azira Fisher provided all the Marion offense, each driving in one run in the defeat.

Asher struggled on the hill, giving up 14 runs, nine of which were earned, while striking out just one Golden Eagle.

On Saturday, the Giants ended their losing streak with authority, sweeping the Muncie Central Bearcats with impressive 17-2 and 13-0 victories.

The first game came to an end early, as Marion scored 14 of their 17 runs in the bottom of the third inning to take full control.

After scoring two runs in the first inning, the Bearcats were held off the scoreboard the rest of the five-inning affair.

Phillips had a huge game at the plate in game one, finishing 3-for-4 with two doubles, a single, and five RBI, while Asher was a perfect 3-for-3 at the dish with a double, two singles, and two RBI. Rice and Fisher also finished with three hits apiece in the victory. Asher bounced back from her tough outing against the Golden Eagles, giving up just four hits and two runs while striking out eight.

The second game was more of the same, as the Giants scored seven runs in the first and third inning on their way to a second straight run-rule triumph.

Phillips led the way again with two hits and four RBI, while Rice, Sadie Thornburg, and Taylor Lines each drove in two runs. Adkins struck out five and allowed three hits in a complete game effort.

"They had fun and didn't let little mistakes get to them," said Head Coach Rianne Aguilar after the sweep. "In the first inning of the first game, the number two and three batters for Muncie Central came in and hit solid home runs and then we dropped a fly ball. If those two things happened the night before, we would have given up. But on Saturday, we just dug in and didn't let it get us down."

After seeing the worst, and best, of her team in a span of four days, Aguilar is hoping that a doubleheader sweep of one of their biggest rivals will help the Giants turn the corner. "I'm hoping this was a season changer for us," Aguilar said. "I'm hoping it built some confidence within the team and trust among teammates. We have struggled in a few games, but we have also played really well at times. The potential is there. If all goes well this week, we will be back to where we need to be."

Berryhill finished with 10 strikeouts and gave up six hits.

There’s no question about the best girl prep runner

Think how tough it is to answer this question: Who is the best football quarterback in the history of Grant County sports? Or, who is the best point guard that ever laced them up here in Grant County? Or, who is the best tennis player to ever win a match in our proud tennis history? Now a question you can answer: Who is the best girls distance runner in Grant County’s proud history of track and cross country? No question here. It’s Margo Hornocker, senior at Oak Hill High School. By becoming the first young lady in Grant County track history at the Oak Hill relays on Saturday to break

Margo Hornocker (center) and her parents were honored at Senior Day last Saturday at the Oak Hill track meet..

- 11 minutes in the 3200 meter run, she now owns all of the distance records:
- Fastest girl ever in the 800, with a time of 2:20.
  - Fastest girl ever in the 1600, with a time of 5:00.
  - Fastest girl ever in the 5K cross country run, with a time of 17:56.
  - Fastest girl ever in the 4 X 800 relay race, with a team time of 9:52.
  - And, as of Saturday, fastest

Butler University quickly signed Margo after her great season in cross country, when she finished in the top ten in a meet with the best runners from Indiana and three neighboring states.

girl ever in the 3200 meter run with a time of 10:58. Butler University quickly signed Margo after her great season in cross country, when she finished in the top ten in a meet with the best girls runners from Indiana, and three other neighboring states. Butler has finished third in the NCAA in cross, so they are getting our best. Now the question becomes: What’s left?

Margo has the Grant Four this weekend, the CIC right around the corner, and then the IHSAA tourney. Might want to watch her run so that you can say that you saw the best girl distance runner in Grant County history. It’s Margo Hornocker. Case closed.
