promises camaraderie, decadent food, and old-fashioned fun.

The first day of the fair is Royalty Day, where boys and girls from around the county are recognized for their talents, 10-year 4-H members are honored, and new 4-H royalty is crowned.

The program began with the 4-H in Revue show, where children and young adults of all ages were recognized in the areas of dairy and beef, rabbits, poultry, goats, sheep, swine, painting, computers, and even LEGO building, to name a few.

Following that, 21 young men and women were presented with their 10-year awards. Many of them were Grant County athletes, including Kaylynn Scher of Marion; John Velasquez, Jeffrey Duckwall, and Addison Wine of Eastbrook; Madeline Nall and Caleb Middlesworth

Roger Randolph, brother of NBA player Zach, shot and killed

by Sean Douglas
Tragedy struck in the early hours of Saturday morning as 35-year old Roger Randolph—brother of Zach Randolph, former Marion Giants basketball star who now plays for the NBA's Sacramento Kings—was shot and killed outside of a Marion restaurant.

According to Sgt. Mark Stefanatos of Marion Police Department, police responded to reports of shots fired at the Hop's Blue Room on 1401 S. McClure Street, just south of downtown Marion, at 4:49 am Saturday.

Upon arrival police found a body, later identified as Roger Randolph, lying between two parked cars in front of the restaurant. He was pronounced dead at the scene a short time later by Marion General Hospital ambulance personnel.

Shell casings from two different caliber weapons were found at the scene, and several cars were hit with gunfire.

"We are deeply saddened to learn of Roger Randolph's tragic death," Sacramento Kings General Manager Vlade Divac said in a statement. "As a cherished member of the King's family, our prayers, heartfelt condolences and thoughts are with Zach and his family during this painful and difficult time."

Roger Randolph spent three years in prison for his role in an August 2004 shooting at Sinbad's Lounge and Grill in Anderson. Originally charged with three counts of battery with a deadly weapon, Randolph, then 22, pled to two counts of criminal recklessness.

Last September, Randolph was involved in another shooting at the RD's club. According to reports, Randolph had gotten into a heated argument with Kyle Johnson, a Marion resident, which erupted into gunfire. Johnson told police that he fired multiple rounds at Randolph as he drove away from the scene. He escaped unscathed, but a passenger in the vehicle was left in critical condition with a gunshot wound to the head.

Police are asking anyone with information on Saturday's shooting to contact Marion PD at 765-662-9981 or Crime Stoppers at 765-662-8477.

Zach Randolph was a star basketball player at Marion High School, leading the Giants to a Class 4A state championship in 2000. In addition to the Kings, the two-time All Star has played for the Portland Trailblazers, New York Knicks, Los Angeles Clippers and Memphis Grizzlies.

Mayor Leach supports the thin blue line; Via rewards students

TIP OF THE HAT... this week was submitted by Gas City Mayor Larry Leach: “On June 14, shortly before 11 pm, Gas City dispatch received a call referencing a working house fire.

“Police Officer Andy Godfrey arrived at the scene and was told that there was a woman in the house, but neighbors could not get to her because of the intense heat and smoke.

“Andy immediately crawled into the house and located the woman. He picked her up and carried her out of the house.

“His quick actions, in my opinion, saved the lady’s life.

“I give accolades and thanks to Officer Godfrey for his actions, [which were] without regard to his own personal safety. “I definitely support the thin blue line.”

THING THAT MADE ME GO “HHMMMM”... this week: How can there be self-help “groups”?

DOING GOOD

Each week, The News Herald prepares news of the good being done by individuals and organizations in Grant County for broadcast on WBAT. Here is an adaptation of the transcript of that broadcast.—Ed.

The school year has ended for area schools and Dr. Alex Huskey, the chancellor of the Marion Campus of Ivy Tech Community College, tells us that area students earned 8,242 dual credits at Ivy Tech this year. High school students earn dual credits when they take rigorous classes that count for both high school and college credit. This year, local families saved $1,136,297 in college tuition by enrolling and passing these courses. That’s good in so many ways and we salute the students who took them and Ivy Tech for offering them the opportunity.

While we’re recognizing academic achievements and earning college credit while in high school, let’s applaud Eastbrook High School. They were one of 70 Indiana high schools that had more than 25 percent of their graduating class earn Advanced Placement (AP) credit. High school students earn these credits when they take classes in high school designated as Advanced Placement, meaning that they will be taught on a par with college courses. At the end of the course, students are tested, and, if they score high enough, they can earn college credit for the course. Eastbrook’s accomplishment was having more than 25 percent of their seniors take and pass at least one AP exam. This gives them a head start on earning a college degree and can save as much as a full year of college tuition. Now that’s a really good thing! Congratulations to the school leaders at Eastbrook High School.

Last week the IWU men’s basketball team spent an afternoon repairing, painting, and sprucing up the Charles Mill Park in Marion. Directed by United Way Executive Director Alicia Hazelwood, the players and coaches did good work, which resulted in an improved place for our community. Players and coaches said it was a natural result of the IWU men’s basketball philosophy of “I Am Third” (meaning God first, others second, and myself third). I think that’s a good philosophy and that this was a very good deed. Thanks to the team and to Alicia Hazelwood for directing many projects like this for the IWU sports team. It’s good to see such teamwork!

The Marion Kiwanis Club celebrated 100 years of good service to our community last week and this gives me a chance to say thank you to not only them, but to all the good people in our county who are members of a service club. Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary--you see and hear about them all the time. They are a good asset to our area and we need them. Please respond when asked to participate in their many fund raising efforts because that money does a lot of good.

The final good word today comes from the Good Book--the Holy Bible--where we read in Psalm 133:1, “Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brothers to dwell together in unity.”

I hope you have a really good week.

Father’s Day and confronting our inadequacies

Matthew 1:18-25

Have you ever experienced feelings of inadequacy? If we would be honest, we would all have to fess up to our shortcomings. I have learned a lot about life in general by studying different characters of the Bible. More specifically, I have learned much about my own life by the studies I have made. It is hard for us to realize the men and women of the Bible were just like we are: imperfect. They were all special and hand-picked by God for their tasks, but they all had flaws.

I acknowledge that I am probably a week late for this article, but it gives us great insight to our lives. Joseph, the carpenter, husband of Mary, and earthly father of Jesus, is an interesting study. Scripture doesn’t tell us a lot about his life, but it gives us enough to cause us to realize the significance of the task he was called to do. Some historians believe that Joseph could have been much older than Mary, and he had died by the time Jesus was crucified, but this is just the thoughts of others. What we do know is Joseph was a special man with great integrity.

It is a special calling to have the honor of being called dad. However, there isn’t a man reading this article that wouldn’t admit to regrets. I have a lot of them. If I had it to do all over again, I hope I would do better. It is easy to look back and second-guess the job we have done. Now, considering those thoughts, what do you believe the feelings of Joseph were concerning his son?

Matthew 1:18-25 is a passage I have used many times to tell the Christmas story, but I have never used it for Father’s Day. As we examine Joseph’s life, how do you think he handled the challenge? It didn’t start out very well because his fiancé told him she was expecting a child, and he had never been with her. As I began to study the Scripture, I wrote down six words that challenged Joseph’s life.

1. Fear (Matthew 1:20)

The angel had to come and comfort Joseph in a dream and even reveal the child’s future. He tells Joseph that this child will save His people from their sins. He tells Joseph to name the child Jesus (God with us). Being a dad is an awesome responsibility. Joseph surely had to feel the need to do his best.

2. Inadequacy

What do you believe was the most difficult thing about being the earthly dad of Jesus? Joseph was just a common man, a carpenter, no formal education, and a lack of skills that one would think would be required. He felt inadequate, just like we do. We all want life to be perfect, but it’s not.

3. The weight of the vision

Joseph had the privilege, and responsibility, of being told in a vision what his son would be and do. We aren’t given the insight to know what our children will become.

4. Dependence (Matt. 1:24)

Joseph needed the Lord’s help to do what he needed to do. Was Joseph any different than us? We need the Lord’s help too.

5. Renewed Faith (Romans 1:17)

The just shall live by faith. God didn’t say it would make sense to us. He simply asks us to trust Him.

6. Joy

Can you imagine the joy that this baby boy brought to Joseph? We can all identify with that. Every dad should have the privilege of watching their children grow up to be good citizens. There is no greater honor than being a proud dad.

As you read and ponder this story I am sure you will be able to appreciate all that Joseph did. He was truly an obedient servant.

SOS hosts tour of downtown upstairs space to encourage development

by Sean Douglas

On Saturday, Marion residents gathered for a four-building tour along the courthouse square.

The tour, and subsequent presentation by Matt Gadus, of the Partnership for Affordable Housing (PAH), was sponsored by Marion’s SOS (Save Our Stories) group, a non-profit organization dedicated to “protecting and nourishing the vitality of historic structures, landscapes, and districts within Marion.”

The first building toured was the Pregnancy Help Center, on the corner of Washington and Fourth Streets. In 1927, it was an insurance company before NY Candy Shop took over in 1935. Hook’s Drug Store occupied the first floor from 1948-1960, and another insurance agency worked on the second floor before it was converted into apartments.

Total Computer Solutions, located on 4th Street, previously was the office of attorney Jules Walker, and on the second floor is one of Marion’s best-kept secrets—the Ping Pong Club. While the upstairs is full of old living quarters, many of the rooms were filled with ping pong tables, where employees would play the game of table tennis for bragging rights.

The Office Inc., on the corner of Adams and Third Streets, is another property that has seen a plethora of businesses go in and out of its doors, including Richard’s Clothing, Johnson’s Furniture Store, and even WBAT for a short time. Now there are two attorneys on the first floor, but the second floor has empty office space.

The final building on the tour, the old H.S. Marks Block, has a large, second-floor apartment, which needs some work. Mike Halstead, a businessman who specializes in historic restoration, owns the property, and plans to do renovations in the near future.

Gadus closed the event outlining the PAH’s restoration project in Wabash. Gadus and his team turned the Rock City Lofts, a downtown building in Wabash’s area, into an affordable housing unit for senior citizens.

“There is not a lot going on right now,” Homer said. “...this might stimulate some more discussion with some of the business owners and building owners downtown to maybe take a second look at some of these upper story floors.”

Making the case for Cathy Moritz: What is enough?

Get right to the point here: what has been done—and what continues to be done—to Marion School Board member Cathy Moritz is undeserved, unkind, unnecessary, and, above all, un-American.

The vilification of a woman who has lived among us all of her life, grown up beside many who are either a part of the mob or are standing silent, must be challenged right now. Today. To not do so is to permit perpetuation of a legacy that none of us—black or white—want in our community.

Let’s get the facts on the table: Cathy Moritz is one of us. She was Cathy Thomas as a youngster, a west Marion girl with a lot of athletic ability and a lot of spunk. She isn’t going to like this, but they called her “Mouse” and let her play sports with the boys in the neighborhood.

She was educated as an accountant and has become a respected and much-honored professional. She is married to Marion High School Athletic Director Steve Moritz and their son just received his diploma from Marion High School.

She has been a member of the Marion School Board for two terms—a thankless and demanding job at best—and was the president of the board up until May 31, when she resigned.

She resigned because, quite frankly, she made a stupid mistake, and there is a price to be paid for such mistakes. In the last days of May, during one of our periodic national spasms of political correctness, comedian Roseanne Barr was dismissed from her TV show, probably correctly, for a blatantly offensive racial slur. It became, as such things do, instant fodder for social media chatter.

Moritz’s stupid mistake was to post something both uninformed and ill-advised on Facebook which suggested support of Barr. Those who scan Facebook regularly found the posting and launched public outcries of rage.

In the wake of the outcry, primarily from the African-American leadership here in Marion, Moritz did two things: She apologized and she resigned from the school board presidency.

The apology was pretty up-front: “I cannot apologize enough for those I may have offended that do not know me or where my heart is for all people in this community,” she said. She chose to remain on the school board to complete her term.

That should have been the end of the story: Stupid comment about an inconsequential comedian’s dumb racism; apology offered; penance assigned; let’s move on.

That is not being allowed to happen. Last Tuesday evening, an extraordinarily large crowd came to the school board meeting. Andrew Morrell, who presents himself as either spokesperson for the NAACP Marion chapter or representative of the Marion Ministerial Alliance, spoke. Said he: “Let me say it publicly, the resignation of Cathy Moritz is what we would like to see.”

That begs the question: Just what is enough? Moritz has apologized, she has surrendered her leadership position on the school board, and she has withdrawn from other public involvements and commitments. She is an elected public official who should not be subject to the whims of some sort of Star Chamber court. And, it needs to be pointed out, Moritz has her First Amendment rights, just like every one of us.

It would be nice—if unexpected—to see this kind of public participation in school board meetings on a continuing basis—patrons coming to build rather than to destroy, to encourage rather than to admonish.

and Judy Wood were named the 2018 Prince and Princess, and Victoria Templin and Quinton Carr were named the 2018 Queen and King.

While the 4-H festivities were taking place, the smell of fair food wafted through the air. With multiple food trucks serving items like pizza, fried dough, funnel cake, deep fried Oreos, and elephant ears, a plethora of options await fairgoers throughout the week.

Visitors also have the opportunity to see a multitude of animals. Rabbits and poultry are in one pavilion, sheep and goats occupy another. Cows, horses, and swine are also on display across the fairgrounds.

People come to the fair for a variety of reasons. Some come for the food, while others use the time to spend quality time with friends and family.

Animals are another big reason that folks come back to the fair year after year. One exhibitor said his family shows sheep each summer, while another said he likes seeing all the animals, especially the cows and the goats. For many, it's about celebrating the multiple talents of the Grant County youth, as well as the fellowship.

"[My favorite thing] is all the projects and the kids," said one man. "We have lots of kids out here. They all do projects, and they all do a good job and have fun."

"For me, it's the people that keep me coming back," one food truck operator said. "Everybody here is so friendly."

The fair runs through June 23. Rides start at 6 pm on Thursday and Friday and 2 pm on Saturday. Children can purchase wristbands for the carnival rides for $20.

Motocross (tickets $5) is at 7 pm on Thursday, the demolition derby ($8) starts at 7 pm on Friday, and the tractor pull ($10) is at 6:30 on Saturday. Kids 10 and under are free..

Grant County amateur golf tournaments set for July

With summer now in full swing, two of the county's biggest events will begin in a few short weeks: the Grant County Men's and Women's Amateur Golf Tournaments. The tournaments have been a staple of Grant County summers for decades, and the event's storied history looks to continue for another year.

The men's tournament began in 1929, and, apart from a three-year hiatus from 1943-1945 due to World War II, the event has been held every second and third weekend in July since its inception.

From 1929-1954, Don Hulmes dominated the tournament, winning 11 men's championships in that 25-year time frame, including two in a row in 1930-1931 and a three-peat in 1938, 1939, and 1940.

From 1959-1969, Boyd

Toney was the best golfer in Grant County, winning nine titles in 10 years, losing only in 1963. Toney also won the tournament in 1971 and 1974, which set a record for most tournament victories--12.

In the 1970s, several different people took home the title. Legendary Marion High basketball coach Bill Green won the tournament in 1973, Bill Lester finished in first place in 1978, and Jim Gallagher closed out the decade with two straight triumphs before going on to a stellar professional career.

The 1980s and 1990s provided a multitude of different winners, including Mark Erlewine, Steve Evans, and Rocky Purvis.

In the early part of the 2000s, Todd Chin was the star golfer of Grant County, winning the tournament in

Tournaments just for Juniors/Seniors

The Grant County Amateur Junior and Senior Tournaments, sponsored by The News Herald and Hoosier Jiffy Print, will be held on Saturday, July 6, beginning at 8 a.m. The 18-hole, stroke play event will be held at Shady Hills Golf Club.

All participants in the tournament must be a Grant County resident, a member of one of the county's golf courses, or a student at one of the county's schools or universities.

For the Senior tournament, participants must be 50 years or older by the day of the event. The cost is $35 per player, which includes tournament entry, greens fees, cart fee and prize fund. Only two carts will be permitted per group.

For the Junior tournament, participants must be 18 years or younger by the day of the event and the cost is $15 per player. The cost covers both tournament entry and green fees. Carts will not be permitted in the Junior tournament.

Pairing and tee times made by the committee are final and participants will be divided into gender and age divisions based on number of entries.

The deadline for entry is Wednesday, July 4. Call Doug Piper at 765-662-8236 for more information.

2000, 2001, 2003 and 2005. However, beginning in 2009, Andrew Varner cemented his place in Grant County lore.

A come-from-behind victory in '09 sparked a five-year run in which Varner won five straight titles and was one of the best golfers that the county had seen since the days of Toney. His reign came to an end in 2014 at the hands of Austin Conroy, but Varner's six overall titles are the third most in the history of the tournament.

Cody White, a former Oak Hill standout, has won the last three titles, putting together the first Grant County Amateur win streak since Andrew Varner won five in a row from 2009-2013.

The women's tournament did not start until 1965, but Grant County has also seen its share of talented female golfers.

Betty Hulse was a force to be reckoned with in the early days, winning four straight championships from 1968-1971 and another in 1974 to give her five titles in the tournament's first 10 years.

The top families in Grant County sports

For years when you talked about the first family of Marion sports it had to be the golfing Gallaghers:

Dad, Jim Senior, who was a force in the state golf association for years and is still considered by many to be one of the greatest teachers of the game ever.

Then oldest son, Jimmy Gallagher, who won numerous events on the PGA Tour and probably topped his career off by helping the USA win the Ryder Cup back in the 1990s with a win over Seve Ballesteros.

Jackie Gallagher, who was as good of a lady golfer as we have seen for years in the state of Indiana, the young lady of the family who won numerous Indiana events, and had a great run on the LPGA tour.

And, finally, Jeff, who now, in twilight of his career, is maybe playing as well as he ever has by qualifying for the third straight year for the USGA Senior Open next week—a tourney where he has made the cut each of the last two seasons.

As good as the Gallaghers have been, we also now have another Grant County sports family making those kind of headlines, the Blackmons:

Dad James Senior is still thought of by many to be the finest player Marion High School ever produced. And now, with three IHSAA state boys basketball titles, is considered to be one of the best basketball coaches in the Hoosier state.

Oldest son James Junior after breaking a number of dad's records at MHS and having a good run at Indiana University is now hoping, two years later, to finally get a shot at the NBA. Property of the Milwaukee Bucks, Junior is hoping to play with some NBA team in the 2018-2019 season.

Middle son Vijay, after leading Marion to the 2016 IHSAA Class 2A boys state basketball title, is hoping to have his moment in the spotlight this season playing for Coach Miller and the gang down in B-town. He wants to help lead IU to a run at a Big Ten title.

Finally, of course, there is the youngest—and maybe best of them all—Jalen, just a 15-year-old sophomore at Marion, who set every Marion High freshman scoring record. After an incredible frosh season where he led Marion to the Elite Eight, Jalen was named as one of the top ten freshman in the country.

Two great families of Marion sports, both with so many incredible moments and with still more on the way.

Great that they were, and still are, a huge part of the Marion sports landscape.

Jim Brunner is the voice of sports in Grant County.
