Community Foundation and United Way launch program

The United Way of Grant County and the Community Foundation of Grant County have announced a new training program for those in the nonprofit field. The initiative, entitled the Nonprofit Leadership Consortium, is intended to have those in nonprofits learn from each other and through training in their field in order to "maximize their impact, strengthen their organization, and gain valuable ideas to help safeguard their resources."

The program will put together cohorts and give the participants a chance to earn a certificate in fund raising management (CFRM) from Indiana University's Lilly Family School of

of Grant County

Philanthropy and also Leadership Development training from Harris International's own Tim Harris.

The cohort will meet every month from August 2018-May 2019 at local Grant County locations (to be determined). Participants will be required to attend every session in its entirety to earn their CFRM.

The cost of the Leadership Consortium will be $1,500-$2,250, which the United Way and the Foundation say is a "significant discount" from the normal price of $5,800. However, the Indiana Youth Institute offers a professional development grant of up to $750 to pay a portion of the fees.

MHS to induct nine into Hall

Recently, Marion Community Schools announced the nine newest members of the Marion High School Hall of Distinction.

The Hall of Distinction's purpose is two-fold. First, it recognizes alumni who have made exceptional contributions to the prestige and achievements of Marion Community Schools, and, second, it inspires current and future students to aspire to similar success.

Any Marion High School alumnus who has significantly given back to MCS, as well as those whose actions reflect honor on MCS, are eligible. Furthermore, non-MHS graduates may be afforded honorary status in the Hall of Distinction.

The 2018 inductees are as follows:

- Earl E. Green: Green was the first African-American postmaster in Grant County, graduating from Marion High School in 1940.
- Charles E. "Chick" Nelson: A 1948 MHS graduate, Nelson is a lawyer and expert on community development and housing. Nelson is a former executive vice president of the United States Institute of Peace.

- Carlton Rose: Rose, who graduated from MHS in 1980, is the president of Global Fleet Maintenance and Engineering for UPS.
- Brian Balsbaugh: Balsbaugh is a leader in the sports and gaming industry, representing some of the most high-profile athletes and players in the Seven being considered for vacant board seats

Seven people have turned in their application materials to be considered for the two empty seats on the Marion Community Schools' board. The deadline is July 13 for applications for both seats.

According to Patricia Gibson, MCS spokesperson, the board will finalize details of the interview process after the July 13 deadline. The board intends to appoint the new members at its July 24 meeting, she said.

Gibson declined to name any of the candidates for the vacant positions. "We have been advised by our school attorney that these are 'applications for public employment,' and are therefore not public record," Gibson told The News Herald in an email. "After the application deadline (July 13), the Board will decide how they want to proceed regarding the review of applicants, and whether they want to take additional steps to publicize further information."

The board will finalize details of the interview process after the July 13 deadline. The board intends to appoint the new members at its July 24 meeting.

Cleaning up, a magic number and the World Cup

TIP OF THE HAT...to Veteran Treatment Court mentors and their protégés, who gathered recently to serve their community—as they have done before while they were active members of the military. They donned orange vest and picked up trash along State Road 18 west of Marion (see picture, below). The veterans their mentors do this twice a year, not just to clean up trash, but also to develop a bond. The Grant County Veterans Treatment Court is a problem-solving court for veterans that get in trouble because of the hardships of transition from military life to civilian life. Some turn to criminal activities such as addiction to cope. These addictions can be with illegal drugs, alcohol, even prescription drugs. The Court gives veterans an opportunity to get back to being a productive member of society by going through a program that consists of four phases and takes a minimum of one year to complete. The different phases send them through treatment for their addictions and help them with their other issues, such as post traumatic stress disorder. Mentors are veterans themselves, who donate their time.

SURE I LOVE...watching the World Cup games; I'm a big soccer fan. Still, in games that end in a draw, I detest using penalty kicks to decide who goes through to the next stage of the tournament. It would be like playing a full game of basketball and then having a free-throw-shooting contest to decide who wins. It's a problem for soccer.

So here's a modest proposal: Instead of playing 30 minutes of overtime at full strength, why not start removing players? Start the overtime going, say, 7 v 7 instead of the full complement of 11 on 11. Fewer players means more space; more space means it's tougher to defend, leading to more scores. Play 20 minutes of 7 v 7. If there's still no winner, start taking players off. Play the next 10 minutes 5 v 5, and the 10 after that 4 v 4. I guar-

THE ROUNDUP—DOING GOOD

Each week, The News Herald prepares news of the good being done by individuals and organizations in Grant County for broadcast on WBAT. Here is an adaptation of the transcript of that broadcast.—Ed.

The recent July 4th holiday was a good time to once again appreciate how good it is to live in the United States of America. Having the holiday fall mid-week gave even more time to celebrate. The concerts, fireworks, parades, family picnics, and other events went on for both weekends on each side of the holiday. It was a good 10 days of celebrating our heritage as Americans.

The last two weeks have seen over 200 basketball teams visit our community for an event at IWU called Super Hoops. Thousands of players, coaches, and fans visited Marion, stayed in our hotels, ate in our restaurants, and spent lots of money here. That's good for all of us and provided a good boost for the local economy. Thank you to IWU and to Coach Greg Tonagel for bringing events like this to our city.

The Marion Marching Giants will have new band uniforms this fall for the first time in over 20 years. It is so good to see the Marching Giants rejuvenated and with increased numbers of students. I want to give a tip of the hat to Band Director Josh Huff, who is beginning his fifth year here at Marion High School. His enthusiasm and drive for excellence has yielded good results. Thanks also to the Community Foundation for helping fund the new uniforms and for all who gave to make this possible. Be sure to get out to watch the Marching Giants this fall at a football game on Friday nights.

Congratulations to former Marion Giant Avis Stewart, who was recently named as the new interim president of Earlham College in Richmond. Avis is a long time administrator at Earlham and has been a vice president there for the last 15 years. Avis is a good man, and quite deserving of this new job. It's always good when local people succeed in their field and we should all feel good about this announcement. Best wishes to Avis and to Earlham College.

The final good word today comes from the Good Book--the Holy Bible--where we read in Psalm 5:12, "For You, O LORD, will bless the righteous; With favor You will surround him as with a shield."

antee that scoring will happen. Next week I'll share my idea for how to make it easier to score.

BY THE WAY...my favorite baseball team, the Philadelphia Phillies, moved into a tie for first place this week. Their magic number to win the National League East is 74. (For those of you who don't know, a "magic number" is the total of the leading team's wins and the trailing team's losses that need to take place for the leading team to clinch the division title.)

HERE'S WHAT MADE ME GO "HHHMMM"... this week: If you choke a Smurf, what color does it turn? (Thanks to Jeff Dunham for that one.)

America: In need of humility and prayer

During the early years that shaped America, pilgrims came to the new land for religious freedom. Their faith was very important to them. They were not interested in worshipping the King, but rather their Lord and Savior. When the founding fathers framed the Declaration of Independence, they wanted to make a strong statement concerning their faith in God. Their belief in God was similar to the three Hebrew children that were cast into the fiery furnace by the wicked King. Their response was, "If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and He will deliver us out of thine hand, O King" (Daniel 3:17KJV).

Those 56 men had much to lose, and most of them lost it all—but aren't you glad they did? These men laid the groundwork for a nation like none the world had ever seen before. America has been the stabilizing force for the entire world. America has been a great nation because of the blessings of God.

As we ponder this, what are we willing to sacrifice for the cause of this great nation? We have lost sight of the principles that our founding fathers died to establish. Prosperity has made us the land of plenty; however, it has come with a significant cost. We have turned our backs on God; we have become apathetic, slothful, and downright lazy. We have reared up a generation of "entitledists" who believe that the world owes them a living. The church has lost its Holy Fire from above, largely due to the men in pulpits. We have migrated away from the principles of the Word of God to preach our own philosophy and dreams, and we have turned against one another.

Is America in trouble? Yes! Some say the problem is in Washington, DC, and all the political leaders we have voted in to represent the people. I can assure you that the problem is not a complex problem. I believe there are problems in Washington, but the real problem lies within the heart of God's people. God gives us the remedy, "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and forgive their sin, and will heal their land" (II Chronicles 7:14 KJV).

If we, as God's people, want a vibrant, healthy nation, we must humble ourselves in the sight of "Almighty God." Then we must pray. America is in need of our prayer, but prayers will be to no avail unless there is humility in God's people. We must seek the face of God to right the wrongs done by us collectively. We cannot change anything on our own; we need God to work on our behalf. We need His favor to comfort and direct us.

He will do it if we come to Him in prayer.

As a nation, we must turn from our wicked ways. We must get back to the basics. Sin is sin. We cannot glamorize or glorify sin. When we turn from sin, God said He will turn back to us. Then, He said, He will forgive us. We must have forgiveness to walk in the "Light" He has given us. Then He will heal our land. The healing that America needs can only come from God, and it can only come as a result of God's people humbling themselves. We are the key.

GRANT COUNTY LIFE

PHOTOS FROM THE WEEK—GLEN DEVITT

Went to the Jonesboro Park field to watch coaches pitch game that took me back 25 years to when my kids played on that same diamond (center, left). Tuesday was a huge concert with Dennis Quaid and the Sharks in Gas City (top), followed the next day with 4th of July parade (center, right) and the fireworks that evening (background). First Friday in Marion featured a Hoosier Shakes preview (bottom, left) and a mix of games, face-painting, local business booths, fire truck rides and Fair food (bottom, right).

The nation's spymaster is a familiar Hoosier

If you go back far enough, you will find that Dan Coats was very much like the rest of us. Born and reared up in Jackson, MI; went to Wheaton College over in Illinois; got a law degree from IU in Indianapolis; and then went to work for a young Congressman named Dan Quayle and spent some years tromping around northeast Indiana, solving political problems and running the Congressman's Indiana office.

Not all that unusual. Mark Wickersham did the same sort of thing for Mark Souder when he was in Congress and Bill Stanton, late of the Leader-Tribune newspaper in Marion, looked after the unavoidable messes for J. Edward Roush when he was in Congress a couple of generations ago.

But Coats' career got a couple of significant upward adjustments over the years and today he is right there at the heart of the government of the United States as director of national intelligence—the spymaster—and seems to be one of the few people in the Trump administration who does not either irritate or squabble with Trump.

So unusual is he in his demeanor that Time magazine did a full-blown profile of him a few weeks ago. A couple of observations high in the story: “Dan Coats is not exactly Central Casting’s version of a spymaster. Sitting down for an interview in his spacious office in suburban Virginia, the Director is cheerful and earnest. His manner is the same brand of friendly Midwestern self-effacement for which he was known during 16 years as a Republican Senator from Indiana,” the reporter wrote.

“The technical capabilities of this job and the diversity of skills are high above my intellectual capacity,” Coats is quoted as saying. “One veteran Washington intelligence observer uses the word guileless to describe his demeanor.”

At 73-years old then, Coats thought he could retire, but another Hoosier, the new veep, Mike Pence, was not about to allow that to happen. Again, quoting the Time magazine piece, “Coats came to the job through Pence. As Trump’s transition team looked for national-security experts who weren’t anti-Trump, Pence pointed to Coats’ time on the Senate Intelligence Committee and his service as ambassador to Germany. The Trump team also needed someone who would say yes to a tough job. Created after 9/11 to wrangle the hidebound agencies that had missed the al-Qaeda threat, the director of national intelligence is infamous for having much responsibility but little authority. Operational decisions are made below Coats’ level. He’s not charged with signing off on drone strikes or covert break-ins. His power comes from budget control, a seat at the table during National Security Council debates, and his access to the President.” He seems to have done that well. Not bad for a boy who began by running errands for a freshman Congressman from Huntington.

Ed Breen, co-host of “Good Morning Grant County” on WBAT radio, has been reporting on life in Indiana for more than 50 years. In 2016 he was inducted into the Indiana Journalism Hall of Fame.

DeLongchamp outlasts Etherton to take Senior Amateur tournament takes six extra holes to decide

The first 18 holes of the Grant County Senior Amateur on Friday, July 6, served to eliminate fewer than 20 golfers. Four—Pete DeLongchamp, Robert Etherton, Mike Hicks, and Scott Weaver—remained in contention for the title after carding scores of even par 72.

The day had started well, with overcast skies and cool temperatures giving way to bright sunshine and less-humid conditions that made for an enjoyable day on the Shady Hills golf course. The 23 seniors in the tournament made their way around the course with familiarity, enjoying the weather and each other's company.

As the golfers finished and the scores were posted, it looked as if Etherton would run away with the tournament with his 72; the next-closest score in the first four groups was a 79. Then came DeLongchamp's group, though, with all four posting scores in the 70s. And, in the final foursome of the day, three more low scores, including both Hicks and Weaver.

That set up a foursome for the sudden-death playoff, which would be on the first hole. If necessary, the group would play 18 as well.

On the first, Weaver hit his drive behind a tree and had to settle for bogey while the other three parred. That left three.

On 18, then, all three were left with par putts of 10-12 feet. Etherton putted first and drained his. Hicks missed his to the left. "I misread it," Hicks said, "I thought I'd made it."

That left the pressure on DeLongchamp to make his putt to stay in the match, and it wrapped around the hole and dropped.

On went DeLongchamp and Etherton, back to the first tee, now in a head-to-head matchup. "Seems like [DeLongchamp] and I have gone head-to-head a bunch of times," Etherton said, "and he always beats me."

He didn't go down eas-

In the picture at right, Mike Hicks pulls his ball out of the hole after dropping a putt; Steve Weaver looks on. Weaver and Hicks each shot 72s to join DeLongchamp and Etherton in a sudden death playoff. DeLongchamp won the tournament on the sixth extra hole.

Both players had putts for birdie on the third sudden-death playoff hole, but both missed—DeLongchamp's was short and Etherton's lipped out. Back they went to number 18 for the fourth extra hole.

DeLongchamp's drive went way left—all the way over to the first hole's fairway, but an excellent second shot put him just over the green. Etherton's approach was a little short and a little right. Again, both players were able to get up and down for their pars, and on the match went—to the fifth extra hole.

DeLongchamp looked to be in trouble when his approach on hole 1 was long and to the right and his chip was short, but his putt rolled slowly and—with what looked to be its final revolution—dropped for a par. Etherton's par putt rattled in solidly and on they went to the 18th for the sixth sudden (?) death hole.

Etherton left his approach short and right while DeLongchamp's found the center of the green, and just that suddenly it was his advantage. "I kept hitting it over that green," DeLongchamp said, "Finally, I had a pitching wedge, and I said, 'I know I can stop this one.'"

DeLongchamp would have a 12-15-foot putt to win the tournament, but he left it short by about three feet. After a chip, Etherton had a look from 10 feet away to make his par, but missed it to the right. DeLongchamp's effort dropped, and the championship—after six long holes—was his.

"It never gets old," said DeLongchamp, who has won the tournament multiple times. "You go out and play and just try to make the best score you can."

In his first ever non-wing sprint car and American auto race, 20-year old Australian Braydan Willmington enjoyed an excellent debut on Saturday night at the Gas City I-69 Speedway.

After finishing second in his heat, Willmington earned the sixth starting spot in the 25-lap main event. While he ran into some trouble on lap 23, Willmington was able to stay composed, regroup, and finish in fifth place.

Before Saturday, Willmington had spent his entire career in Australia, racing both midgets and a 410 winged sprint car over the past four years. His biggest win came on December 28, 2015, where he came away with a midget feature victory at Sydney Speedway.

Willmington's American debut was three years in the making, beginning in 2015, when he befriended Indianapolis-based racer Davey Ray.

"I got to know Davey when we raced against him in midgets in Australia," Willmington said. "I told him I wanted to come to America and race, and we worked it out."

"We've known each other a while through racing," Ray continued. "He wanted to do some midget racing, and I put this program together for him so he could run both midgets and sprints."

In the event, Willmington drove one of Ray's personal race cars—a black DRC chassis with a RayPro Chevy engine.

Needless to say, the young Australian relished his first American race.

"These cars are awesome, and the Gas City Speedway team did a great job with the track all night," Willmington said. "I had so much fun, and I can't thank Davey enough for the opportunity."

Willmington plans to race again this coming weekend at Gas City, as well as at events in Kokomo, Montpelier, and Plymouth before heading home to Australia on July 22.

Mississinewa, Madison-Grant take jamboree

August 26, 1988

Host Mississinewa and Central Indiana Conference (CIC) rival Madison-Grant scored a 23-14 win over Eastbrook and Oak Hill last Friday night in the Grant County Jamboree.

The Indians beat Eastbrook, 7-6, in the second quarter and Oak Hill 13-0 in the fourth period. Madison-Grant blanked Oak Hill 13-0 in the second quarter and lost 8-0 to Eastbrook in the third.

Jason Diller got the scoring underway for Eastbrook when he stole the ball from Mississinewa star Gonzalo Barajas and went 57 yards in the first quarter.

Brian Cruz then ran one yard for a Mississinewa touchdown. Cruz also kicked the point-after for a 7-6 lead.

In the second quarter, Jay Bragg hit Ted Davis for a six-yard Madison-Grant touchdown pass. Later in the quarter, Jeff Kelich scored from one yard out and he also kicked the extra point.

Jim Butler of Eastbrook raced 54 yards for a third quarter touchdown. Mike Bragg ran over the conversion.

Greg Thompson ran 17

Russians put on a great show as hosts of soccer's World Cup

If you follow my scribbings, you know that I told you that the hottest thing in sports this summer would be soccer's World Cup. Well, the best sports moment of the summer came this past Saturday when Croatia played Russia for the right to move on to the final four against England.

The match was tied at 1-1 going into a 30-minute overtime. It's not sudden death (or "Golden Goal," as they say in soccer), so in that overtime they played out the full 30 minutes. That's why, when Croatia went ahead, 2-1, the match went on.

With the stadium packed with Russian fans, their home team scored in the final 90 seconds of the OT to force a penalty kicks shoot out. Five shooters against five shooters. Winner goes on to the semifinal.

The place was beyond out of control.

The suspense was unreal. After the Russians fell behind 1-0, it didn't look good for the home team. But they rallied, and it went to the final two kickers. Russia missed and Croatia scored to win 4-3 in the shootout and move on to the semifinal game against England.

The emotion of the Russian players and fans was something I have never seen in sports. In the only time they will host this once-every-four-years event, they were not given a chance to come close to winning. Their team had lost eight straight matches coming into the World Cup.

Then they won four matches and came within one penalty kick from pulling off the Cinderella Story of all time.

Now it's Belgium v. France and Croatia v. England, with the winners playing for the World Cup on Sunday morning at 11. It says here Belgium will play England and England will bring home the most prized trophy in the sport of soccer.

(Editor's note: France beat Belgium, 1-0, on Tuesday afternoon; the Croatia v. England match was on Wednesday afternoon, after The Sports Herald went to press.)

Parting comment: If you missed the opening of the

Jim Brunner

Croatia v. Russia match, you missed an incredible sports moment. Both team stood at rigid attention as their national anthems were played and every team member belted out every word of their nation's song.

Wouldn't it be nice to see that from both teams in the Super Bowl?
