Texas Roadhouse will cut ribbon on Monday

The Texas Roadhouse will hold a ribbon cutting on Monday, December 3, at 3:45 pm at their new location on 4200 S. Western Avenue. The ribbon cutting will be co-hosted by the Marion-Grant County Chamber of Commerce and the Gas City Area Chamber of Commerce.

"We are thrilled to have the opportunity to celebrate the Texas Roadhouse Grand Opening. We are thankful for the investment they've made in Grant County and appreciate their vision for the potential of our community. We look forward to their success in Marion," said Marion-Grant County Chamber of Commerce President/CEO Kylie Jackson. Texas Roadhouse has hired 200+ employees for their Marion location.

Texas Roadhouse has already made an impression in the community. The restaurant made food donations to local shelters and local fire and police during their training week with new employees. Prior to their grand opening, they hosted fundraising nights for both Cancer Services of Grant County and The Boys & Girls Club of Grant County.

"These local charities have been in this community for more than 50 years," says Managing Partner JD McCain. "We love the idea of helping children and young adults in this region through the Boys & Girls Club and we also appreciate the support that Cancer Services of Grant County provides for hundreds of people each year. We're excited to partner with both amazing organizations and can't imagine a more meaningful way to celebrate our opening. We are so excited for our future in this town and we appreciate all of the support and excitement we have already received from this community!"

REMEMBRANCE LELAND BOREN

Leland Boren, president, chairman and chief executive officer of Avis Industrial Corporation in Upland, died Friday at the age of 95.

A graduate of Anderson High School, Boren started working for Pierce Governor Company in 1945. By 1958 he had become its president. The company merged with Avis Industrial Corporation in 1971, and in 1983 Boren was elected chairman. He bought Avis and decided to put the company's headquarters in Upland, where it remains today.

Avis is a holding company for dozens of other manufacturing corporations, including PHD, Inc., based in Fort Wayne and Huntington. Early in his career, Boren also served as president of Marion Malleable Iron Works, Inc., and was a director of the United Bank of Upland.

Kinwell Academy looking to turn students into leaders

by Alan Miller

Roger Younce spends a lot of time in his role as director of the Kinwell Academy explaining what he says is a misperception about the kinds of students who attend the school.

"There are no so-called bad kids at the academy. I'm not sure I even know what a bad kid is," Younce said. "Our students are wounded kids. They act different sometimes, but they are not bad. They are just hurt."

Here are some examples of the wounds that a few Kinwell students shared during a fund-raising dinner in early November at College Wesleyan Church.

Ramone: "I had anger issues in junior high school. I got kicked out of Marion High School for fighting my freshman year before I even got my first report card. I would just pick fights for no reason at all, but some of my fights were to protect my little brother to keep him from being picked on. Everyone at Kinwell is like a family, even when you mess up."

One of the residence halls at Indiana Wesleyan University, recently ranked number one in Indiana by Niche.com.

TIP OF THE HAT...to IWU, whose residence halls were ranked No.1 in Indiana for the second consecutive year by Niche.com. IWU also ranks highly on Niche's "Best College Dorms in America" list, coming in at No. 6 out of 1,370 schools nationwide. IWU has also recently ranked highly on a number of other regional and national lists, including:

- #2 Best Colleges for Nursing in Indiana, Niche.com
- #4 Best College Campuses in Indiana, Niche.com
- #4 Safest College Campuses in Indiana, Niche.com
- #5 Best Undergraduate Teaching Programs in Midwest, U.S. News & World Report
- #6 Top Schools for Engagement, Wall Street Journal/Times Higher Education

"We are honored that Indiana Wesleyan University is being recognized in all of these wonderful categories," said Dr. David Wright, president of IWU. "We are passionate about providing a truly great Christ-centered learning environment that permeates the entirety of our students' experiences so that they can grow academically,

DOING GOOD

This past week was Thanksgiving, which was an occasion to reflect and be thankful for the many good things we all enjoy. This year nearly everyone who wants a job can find one, and there are many new businesses starting up in our community. Those are good things that make life better for all of us.

I want to go back to Veteran's Day and mention the good deed done by Gas City as they gave a proper burial to the cremated remains of 18 veterans recently. They were interred in the Marion National Cemetery and were honored with a ceremony and each remembered with a brick paver in the new Gas City veterans plaza. Mayor Larry Leach said, "We do not know the history of each of these individuals. But we do know that they donned the uniform of our country and served to protect it. It's sad that the honor we confer on them is posthumously bestowed, but as a community we feel that this is the least that we can do." Good job, Mayor Leach and the good folks of Gas City. Thank you.

The Christmas season is here, and that's always good! It gives us all many opportunities to do good for the less fortunate and I hope you can join in some of the good projects. One example is the Marion General Hospital Lights of Love campaign. Others are the Salvation Army's Angel Tree and the Red Kettle campaigns. Last Sunday was the We Care Auction in Gas City, and there are many other opportunities to do good at Christmastime. I hope you can participate in one or more of these good efforts.

Two things I really like about Christmas are the lights and the music. Once again the Matter Park Christmas lights are up and burning bright. The same holds true for the display in the Gas City park.

When it comes to music

there are many Christmas programs of music at all the local schools, most of the churches have cantatas, and IWU and Taylor have large musical productions that you can enjoy. Of course the Mississinewa Valley Band has its Christmas concert also. All of these good efforts are made by the good people in our community to honor the birth of Jesus Christ. Enjoy the lights and music and have a very Merry Christmas season.

The final good word comes from the Good Book--the Holy Bible--where we read from the Christmas story in Luke 2: 10-11, "But the angel said to them, 'Do not be afraid: for behold I bring you good news of great joy which will be for all the people; for today in the city of David there has been born for you a Savior, who is Christ the Lord.'"

I hope you have a good day, and very good week, and a Merry Christmas. God bless you.

Daniel made a choice: to have an excellent spirit

Daniel 6:1-3

Over the years, it has truly been enjoyable to share my thoughts with readers. The folks at the News Herald have been very supportive and given me the opportunity to write whatever I choose. I am always careful to not intentionally offend others, but I realize when you are in favor of one thing, you are against another. I don't like to be political, although I have never missed voting in an election since I was 18. One thing that always interests me is the ability for all of us to do better and make our community a better place to live.

I was preparing for a Sunday morning message recently and I began reading out of the book of Daniel. As I read in chapter six, there was a phrase that jumped off the page at me. It said that "Daniel had an excellent Spirit." What an interesting statement to make about anybody. Why would someone say that? Daniel, as a young man, was one of the Jews taken into captivity in Babylon. He immediately found favor with Nebuchadnezzar. He was elevated to an elite group of young people who would be groomed for greatness. In a sense, they would be programmed, or brainwashed, to be like the establishment. In Daniel 1:8 we are told that Daniel purposed in his heart not to fall prey to pagan gods and idol worship. Daniel was no stranger to opposition and he was no stranger to taking a stand. He was wise beyond his years, and, as an added bonus, he was led by God. As Daniel matured and grew in his own faith, he continued to find favor with the Babylonian leaders. As his story unfolds, Daniel is elevated to the position of "First Lord of the Treasure." This is the number one position in the land, after Darius the King. Daniel is right under him. One may wonder how he arrived at this position. We know by studying the life of Daniel that his high reputation was confirmed by his use of wisdom. It is sometimes easy to idolize Bible characters and see them as perfect beings. We know for a fact that Daniel's life was not easy. He was a man in a foreign land, and thought every day about going home. However, in the midst of conflict, he was wise enough to make the best of it. He was also a man of integrity. His word was his bond, and he had earned the respect of his fellow man. Thirdly, he was devoted to the public. Daniel was a servant and he was committed to be the best one he could be.

As I have had the opportunity to analyze Daniel's life, I understand why he had an excellent Spirit. The answer is very simple: he chose to have an excellent Spirit. He wasn't looking for sympathy from others for being so far from home and in the midst of a pagan environment. He made a choice to make the best of the situation. He understood what it meant to be content no matter what the situation may be. (Philippians 4:11).

JUST A THOUGHT

These thoughts have special meaning to me because we are quickly approaching the Christmas season. There will be added stress, long lines, irate people, and above all, "I have a price check on register five." As you deal with others during this mad dash of a season, you may ask, "Do I have an excellent Spirit?" It is a choice. It is just as easy to put a smile on your face and enjoy this beautiful celebration. Or, you can be an old Scrooge and ruin it for everyone else. Just a thought!

Owen: "My biological dad was in prison and my mom moved from house to house with her boyfriends. I was in In-School Suspension every day and was failing all of my classes. I was doing everything typical that a bad person could do. On my first day at Kinwell, Roger sat me down and talked me through everything. The teachers pushed me to succeed, and Roger taught me that there is no such thing as a bad kid. After that, it all just sort of fell into place."

Janessa: "School isn't hard for me, but I decided it was more fun to skip classes and smoke weed. Then I got into a controlling relationship with a boy that I thought I was in love with. My grades went from A's to F's, and I was put on probation for truancy and expelled from school. The truancy continued, and my option became probation or Kinwell. Roger came to all of my court dates, and for the first time in my life I listened to someone. I am truly grateful for the amazing staff at Kinwell."

Kinwell, which is located at 815 N. Western Avenue, is an alternative high school for students when public school does not work out for them. The focus of the school is on holistic education that targets a student's emotional, spiritual and academic needs.

Funding is provided, in part, by state monies assigned to the schools where the students would have attended. Most of the 40 Kinwell students come from the Marion Community Schools district.

The state funds, however, stop considerably short of meeting Kinwell's overall financial need, so the school must seek additional funding from individual donors and grants. About $7,000 was raised at the November dinner.

"The No. 1 need we have is to build relationships around these kids; we need people in the community to become involved in their lives as mentors and friends," Younce said.

"But we need money, too. We need to expand our job-training program to help our students prepare for life after they graduate from. Most of them won't leave Grant County, so we want them to have a career path. We need $25,000 to expand that program."

Kinwell also wants to expand its relationship with Family Service Society to provide more counseling services for students.

"Students who couldn't find success in the classroom are gaining self-confidence and experiencing success as learners and valuable Kinwell community members," said Jerry Harshman in a letter to donors. "We cannot afford to write these students off. Many of them will become future leaders in Marion and Grant County."

Harshman, a retired superintendent of the Eastbrook Community Schools, now serves as superintendent and president of the Board of Directors of Kinwell Academy.

What should Democrats do? Actually care about rural America

In the latter days of that costly campaign for a Senate seat from Indiana, Joe Donnelly—or his people—made a couple of strategic decisions, both close calls.

First among them was that he could and should vote against the Supreme Court nomination of Brett Kavanaugh. The thinking was that the "no" vote would anger the Trump folks in Indiana, but he wasn't going to get their vote anyway. What he might be able to do was energize his people, put a little carbonation into those lackluster folks who would vote Democrat because they promised their dying grandfather they would never vote for a Republican back in 1952.

Second decision was to buddy up to President Trump as much as he could: I voted for the wall, I voted for Justice Neil Gorsuch, things like that. Hold your nose and charge in.

Maybe some old Reagan Democrats would buy that. They didn't.

Of course, what no one had really foreseen was the circus parade that two Trump visits to Indiana in the last 72 hours of the campaign would unleash. After that, only someone mentioned by name in the Bible had a chance to beat Mike Braun.

Left unsaid through the orgy of spending and the telethon that TV advertising became was the simple suggestion that perhaps it is time for Democrats, particularly those in the Midwest and in rural America, to stand up and say with full-throated fervor, "I am a Democrat," much the way Howard Beale threw open the window in the 1976 movie Network and proclaimed "I'm mad as hell..." Let 'em know where you stand.

It is generally acknowledged right now that the largest and oldest political party in Western democracy is leaderless—at the national level, at the state level, at the local level. Probably down to the precinct level in Marion and Grant County. Just a guess on my part, but I'd bet a soda pop or two that at least half of Grant County's 63 Democrat precincts are without a committeeman.

In fact, the Democratic party structure in Marion is so weak at the moment that some of Democrat Mayor Jess Alumbaugh's supporters are privately wondering if there's enough vitality in the few party faithful to get the mayor re-nominated in a primary next May.

Now, this is not to suggest that Bernie Sanders should be invited to speak at the next

Harry Truman Club meeting—although that might not be a bad idea; he had 'em rocking in the aisles in Bloomington a couple of months ago.

What it is to suggest is exactly what Mark Sisk, a retired New York Episcopal bishop, suggested over the weekend in a letter to the editor of the New York Times.

He was responding to an article in the paper a few days earlier that poked and prodded Democrats on the need for a "rural strategy," something—anything—that might breathe life into a moribund organization that has dealt mainly with losses at the state and local level from the Alleghenies to the Rockies for a decade.

Said the bishop to the readers of the Times:

"As a rural Democrat, I propose a truly extreme long-term solution for the Democratic Party in rural America: Start by actually caring about the lives, communities and cultures of rural America.

"Don't care because there are votes to be garnered or Senate seats to be captured but because these are fellow human beings who have been crushed by forces that are beyond their control—but not beyond our control as a united people.

"The fixes are not hard to imagine: rural broadband, quality health care, good education (small classes are no problem out here), good roads, not just those that whisk interstate commerce from one urban center to the next but well-maintained secondary roads linking communities to their neighbors.

"But perhaps the most difficult (or is it the easiest?) solution of all is the most fundamental: Respect."

That's what he said. To which I would add one thought: Isn't it time to do again what our grandparents did in 1928 and 1932? That is: Stand up in the town square, which today may be Facebook, and say, "I am a Democrat. This is what I believe. If you agree, vote for me."

DEATH NOTICES

Boren and his wife LaRita were married for 53 years before she died in 2011. They met when she was a stewardess for Trans World Airlines (TWA), based in Oklahoma. The Borens were known for their philanthropy; they founded The Boren Foundation, a family foundation that has given millions to educational institutions in central Indiana. Recently the organization donated $1 million to Huntington University. It also provided the majority of funds for a student center on the campus of Taylor University, across the street from Avis. Boren was a well-known collector of Western Art. His collection has been pledged to Taylor University and includes more than 300 paintings and 100 bronze sculptures. Boren received at least five honorary degrees during his life, including doctorates from Anderson University, Indiana Wesleyan University and Taylor University.

The holiday time is different for each of us

Every year, on and around the fourth Thursday of November, most of us are pulled by the need to be someplace where we feel connected either by blood, obligation, or love. Regardless of where we end up – friends, family, or an open Chinese restaurant – these annual rituals that we keep not only connect us to our roots but help us redefine our present.

The holidays are the time of the year we focus most on family and friendships, and continuity and identity. We are looking inward at who we are as much as we evaluate our company; however, while the holiday season symbolizes cheer, laughter, and togetherness, many of the customs in our lives may have become obligatory.

For some of us, visiting family brings every unspoken and anxiety-provoking issue to the surface of your thoughts. The passive-aggressive nicknames and one-liners reserved for this one visit of the year. The urge to find a joke for every moment to make sure everyone keeps laughing and does not dive into deep questions about life, politics, or judgments.

The holidays are also the time of year we find refuge in the comfort of our friends, our family of choice. Still, even among our closest mates, we are faced with ourselves and our crockpot of issues and emotions. Maybe we are dealing with recovery and how to say no to the adult recreation of the evening, or perhaps we are confronted with the transition of a losing a partner.

The reality is while many memories bring us an abundance of cheer, there is also a great deal of anxiety and stress. These annual ceremonies are a central part of our lives. They provide a unique view of how we interact with others on a deep emotional level and how we explore meaning and definition for our lives.

Just as everyone's spine is a little different, the holiday time is different for each of us as well. Sometimes the picture is people getting along, engaging in conversation and laughter, and games in between meals. For others, the portrait may look grimmer, spurred with anxiety and sadness.

If you find yourself frustrated or lost during the holidays, take a moment to breathe deeply and give yourself permission to be more compassionate and intentionally kind to yourself and those around you. The holiday festivities can carry on. Here are some ways to help you develop your center during the holiday season:

Create your own space and take breaks to help you unwind. The ideal place for you may be a room that isn't accessed or walked by often or a walking path outside. Most importantly, this place gives you the freedom to connect with yourself and the world.

Relationships occupy many of our thoughts. Take time to consider how you interact with others, acknowledge your capacity, and learn how to let go what you cannot change.

In Yoga practice, you can find three significant levels of self-care: physical, psychological, and energetic. On a physical level, yoga poses stretch tight muscles and relax the body, achieves proper alignment, and increases strength and flexibility. Psychologically, Yoga promotes the connection to an inner sense of well-being and peace. This practice also enhances vital energy and recharges our bodies.

An excellent pose to start your new self-care strategy, practice Child Pose, a Yoga posture that restores balance and harmony to the body and opens the mind to a more receptive state. This posture offers an opportunity to find your center and explore your breath. Child Pose also referred to as our Pause Button, helps when we need to stop and turn inward before making the next decision.

Next, meditate. Through meditation we seek to dive inward to identify the root issues - we gain clarity on why we are behaving the way we are. In conversation, actively listen and give yourself space to step back and respond with consideration.

In Yin Yoga, which is a slow-paced style of yoga, we again turn inward to let the heart and body speak to us and in this elongated format of movement we give space for the body to release fully.

Practice relaxation every day. Breathe deeply. Relax your muscles and calm your thoughts. Find your center and continue your day allowing yourself to be in the place you can be most happy and gracious.

Panthers fall in state title game

by Sean Douglas
Jeff Adamson is one of the best to ever coach the game of football in the state of Indiana. Heading into the Class 2A state championship against Western Boone on Friday afternoon, Adamson had won 268 games, 14 sectional titles, six regional championships, and three semi-state championships. The one thing that had continued to elude Adamson and the Panthers was a state title, and after a record-tying performance from Stars' quarterback Spencer Wright and an incredible game from wide receiver Logan Benson, Eastbrook left Indianapolis empty-handed once again.

Wright passed for over 300 yards, Benson caught a Class 2A championship-record four touchdown passes, and the Stars captured their first state title in 30 years with a 34-20 triumph over the Panthers at Lucas Oil Stadium.

Wright was dynamic under center all afternoon, completing 24 of his 34 passes for 317 and four touchdowns, the most in a 2A title game since Tri-West Hendricks had four touchdown passes against Harding back in 2003.

Benson, who came into the contest with just six touchdown receptions all year, played one of the best games of his high school career on the biggest stage, hauling in nine receptions for 159 yards to go along with his record-setting four touchdown receptions.

"We lost to a good offensive team," Adamson said after the game. "[They have] so many good receivers and a great thrower. We tried pressuring him. We tried using extra guys in coverage, but we just couldn't get an answer for him."

After a scoreless first quarter in which both teams played exceptional defense, the Panthers drew first blood in the second.

Eastbrook runs a variety of running plays to keep defenses off balance, including the read option, a play in which the quarterback has the choice to either hand the ball off to the running back or keep it himself, depending on what the defense is showing. Dylan Bragg, who did not start but played most of the game at quarterback for Eastbrook, ran it to perfection.

Beginning with 1:07 left in the first quarter, the Panthers executed a flawless seven-play, 73-yard drive, mixing in both the run and the pass. Bragg found tight end Clay Dalton twice for big gains and capped off the drive himself with an eight-yard run on the read option, giving the Panthers a 7-0 lead.

The Stars suffered a big scare back in the opening quarter, as Wright suffered an injury to his ankle and left the field, but Wright was able to return on the next offensive series. Once he did, he was nearly unstoppable. The Stars answered the Panthers with a score of their own, as Wright completed passes of 11, 12, 13, and nine yards, finding Benson in the end zone to tie the game, 7-7.

Later in the second quarter, the Eastbrook offense went back to work, as Xaine Kirby, Edward Keasling, and Bragg moved the Panthers down the field with ease. After finding Dalton for 24 yards to set up a first-and-goal, Bragg called his own number again, taking it 10 yards to the house to put the Panthers back up, 14-7.

With just over three minutes to go in the first half, the Stars drove all the way down to the Eastbrook eight-yard line, but the Panthers' defense stiffened, forcing a field goal to take a 14-10 lead into the break.

Western Boone got the ball to start the second half and, in just over two minutes of game time, completely flipped the script.

On the second half kickoff, Eastbrook attempted an onside kick, but the ball was recovered by the Stars near midfield, giving them great field position. "We knew we were going to have a difficult time to try to stop them, and we wanted to take the possession away from them if we could," Adamson said.

The gamble didn't work, and Western Boone made Eastbrook pay for it. On their first play from scrimmage in the second half, Wright hit a wide-open Benson down the left sideline, and the 6-2 senior made no mistake, taking it in from 56 yards out to give the Stars a lead they ultimately would not relinquish.

With momentum now on their side, the Western Boone defense forced a three-and-out, giving the ball back to their offense. Again, Wright dazzled, needing just three plays to go 55 yards, capping it off with another touchdown toss to Benson, this time from 25 yards.

In just 2:07, the Stars had turned a four-point deficit into a 24-14 lead. "I thought through the first half, we were able to do some of the things that we needed to, but we just needed to be able to possess the ball a little bit longer, especially at the beginning of the third quarter," Adamson said. "We needed to get a couple of first downs and keep it away from them."

Now in catch-up mode, the Panthers' offense struggled in the third quarter, compiling just 57 yards. However, Bragg brought the Panthers to within four with his third rushing touchdown of the contest late in the third quarter.

"He did a great job reading the option and doing the things we asked him to do today," Adamson said of Bragg. "I thought everybody on the field today did everything we asked them to do."

Friday afternoon's loss marked the final high school games for several Panthers, including Kirby, Dalton, Keasling, Zane Shilts, Mason Hale, Justin Singer, Andrew Cochran, Jake Donaldson, Brandon Davis, and Luke Boren.

They might not have won a state championship in their Eastbrook tenure, but in four years, this talented senior group helped lead Eastbrook to three straight regional championships, two semi-state titles, and two Class 2A runner up finishes. In the last three years, the Panthers had a chance to play in 45 games; they played in 44.

"We talk about it every year," Adamson concluded. "That's every team's goal-to be playing down here Thanksgiving weekend. We wanted that opportunity, and we came up short today, but I'm very proud of what we've done. They've done a great job and had a great run."

The Panthers end their 2018 season with a 13-2 record.

really difficult."

Bragg finished the game 6-of-7 for 105 yards, while Dalton caught four of those passes for 85 yards. Kirby was the Panthers' leading rusher with 63 yards on 23 carries, while Bragg rushed for 60 yards to go with his three touchdowns.

It was a bittersweet scene after the game. Tears were shed. Parents consoled. Teammates, who had played alongside one another through the dog days of summer and those chilly fall evenings, embraced each other on the field, possibly for the last time.

"It means absolutely everything," Dalton said. "It's pretty much who I am. Besides God and family, if you are going to ask me who Clay Dalton is, I'm saying 'Eastbrook football player.' It just means absolutely everything, so I just thank God for the team, and I thank God for everything in life. It's a blessing."

"We're brothers for life. Nothing is going to change that. Brothers for life."

Madison-Grant Argylls triumph over Wabash

The Madison-Grant Argylls played excellent basketball last Tuesday against the Northwestern Tigers. The only thing they were not able to do was close the game out. On Saturday, the Argylls once again let their opponent back into the game, only this time they made the plays down the stretch to come away with their first victory of the season.

Issac Cooper and Kaden Howell each scored 16, Grant Brown dropped in 15, while collecting 10 assists, and the Argylls defeated the Wabash Apaches 73-70 in overtime.

Madison-Grant came out firing in the opening 24 minutes, taking a 23-18 lead after the first quarter and a 40-28 advantage after halftime. Throughout the contest, particularly in the second half, the Argylls struggled on the boards, allowing Wabash to claw their way back in.

"We played really well in the first half on both ends of the floor," Madison-Grant Head Coach Brian Trout said. "[But] in the second half, they got a lot more physical with us on the ball and on the boards. The biggest difference in the game in the second half, and the reason they were able to get it to overtime, was that we just didn't rebound the ball. We were still playing pretty good defense until the shot went up, and then we just weren't rebounding the ball. We were forcing tough shots, and they were putting them in. Defense doesn't end until you get that rebound. That's where we struggled the most tonight."

Wabash kept coming at them, but the Argylls did not flinch. In the extra session, the Argylls quickly and efficiently scored the first six points, taking a lead they would not relinquish.

"They tied it up twice on us late, and obviously, we went to overtime. We came out in the overtime and kids were able to refocus a little bit," Trout said. "We came out and scored on the first three possessions, and that takes a lot of pressure off of us. That was the difference."

Jackson Manwell and Lance Wilson each collected nine points in the Argylls' victory, while Justin Moore led the team with seven rebounds.

The Golden Eagles cut the lead to single digits with a minute to go, but the Apaches hit their free throws down the stretch to secure the victory.

"We had 22 turnovers and quite a few of those were of the unforced variety," Oak Hill Head Coach Kevin Renbarger said. "When you struggle to score like we do we can't afford to have that many possessions in which we don't even get a look at the basket. Eight-of-15 season to Homestead, Reed knew that the Vikings were going to come out firing, and the Vikings did just that, building a 17-9 lead after one quarter of play behind some impressive shooting.

"I thought [we] played pretty well in the first quarter, but we just didn't hit shots, and they hit absolutely everything," Reed said of Huntington North.

After the first quarter, the Indians went toe-to-toe with the Vikings the rest of the way. Each team scored 14 points in each of the second and third quarters, while the Indians outscored the Vikings 13-11 in the final stanza.

"We came together and talked, came back out in the second quarter, and [played] so tough," Reed said. "We were down by [as many as] 13 in that first quarter, and we slowly worked our way back. We didn't give up an inch."

Unfortunately, the Indians were unable to complete the comeback, as the Vikings did a much better job on the boards throughout the contest, but Reed was incredibly pleased with his team's first outing.

"We just struggled rebounding," Reed said. "That really was the story. We couldn't quite get rebounds with their height. We were crashing well, we just couldn't block and move people out. But I was really proud of our kids though. We grew and improved through that game."

Anthony Horton led the Indians in scoring with 18 points, while Landen Swanner scored 12. Cade Campbell collected nine points off the bench in the Indians' loss.

Oak Hill

Oak Hill drops opener to Wabash

The Oak Hill Golden Eagles begin their title defense with a loss, falling behind early and never recovering in a 53-43 season-opening defeat to the Wabash Apaches on Wednesday evening.

Wabash took a 15-8 lead after the first quarter, and after the Golden Eagles scored the first five points of the second quarter to cut their advantage to two, the Apaches responded with a 10-1 run to assume control.

Trailing by 10 at halftime, Oak Hill's offense stalled, scoring just five points in the third quarter and falling behind by as many as 16 in the fourth. The Golden Eagles cut the lead to single digits with a minute to go, but the Apaches hit their free throws down the stretch to secure the victory.

"We had 22 turnovers and quite a few of those were of the unforced variety," Oak Hill Head Coach Kevin Renbarger said. "When you struggle to score like we do we can't afford to have that many possessions in which we don't even get a look at the basket. Eight-of-15 from the foul line doesn't help either."

Despite the loss, and despite the fact that they gave the ball away 20+ times, there were several positives that emerged from the contest on Friday, including contributions from players like sophomore Kian Hite, junior Kody Dubois, and senior Bradey Evans, none of whom were on the varsity squad last season.

"We discovered we do have some depth," Renbarger said. "I think we might be able to go quite deep without losing much in regards to talent."

Konnor Cabe, the only remaining starter from last year's championship team, collected a double-double with 21 points and 10 rebounds to lead Oak Hill.

Rough first half dooms Oak Hill

Whether the Oak Hill Golden Eagles won or lost on Saturday evening, it was going to be a special night in Mier. Before their contest with the Manchester Squires began, Oak Hill's 2018 state championship was raised to the rafters, cementing the legacy of one of the greatest teams in the storied history of Golden Eagles basketball.

"It was obviously quite a special moment to have that banner raised in the gym and a great time having everyone back together again," Oak Hill Head Coach Kevin Renbarger said. "They will now be able to walk into the gym and look at that banner and know they were a part of doing something at Oak Hill that has never been done. It is a symbol of great pride for me and the players."

The banner unveiling turned out to be one of the biggest positives of the evening, as a poor first half proved to be the difference in a 61-49 defeat.

Oak Hill could not find any offense in the first quarter, scoring just two points, which came on free throws, while starting the contest 0-for-9 from the field. In the first half, the Golden Eagles shot just 3-for-17 while committing 14 turnovers.

The Golden Eagles made a push after halftime, which included 21 points in the fourth quarter, but they were unable to recover from their nightmarish opening stanza.

"Really in the entire second half, the numbers started to jump back up to something that resembles some sort of normalcy," Renbarger said. "The reason for the fourth quarter discrepancy was that we committed only two turnovers in the quarter and also pressed which gave us more looks at the basket."

The Golden Eagles are back on action on Saturday, December 1, when they will travel to Taylor to take on the Titans in a 7:30 start.

Girls basketball

Eastbrook Panthers bounce back with victory over Cowan

Coming off their dismal 47-point loss to the Northfield Norsemen, the Eastbrook Panthers found themselves back in the win column last Tuesday evening, playing much better on both ends of the floor, in a 54-44 victory over the Cowan Blackhawks.

With the victory, the Panthers improved to 2-2 on the season.

"We shot the ball a whole lot better tonight," Eastbrook Head Coach Jeff Liddick said. "We did some things defensively throughout the game, [though] not consistently, that allowed us to stretch it out a little bit in the second half, and we were able to hold on and win."

Kylie Standfest led the Panthers in scoring with 25 points on 9-of-14 shooting from the field, while Sarah Foulk and Johwen McKim both finished with eight points in the Panthers' victory.

Madison-Grant Argylls' lose to Wabash

The Madison-Grant Argylls' losing streak reached five games on Saturday evening, as they were defeated by the Wabash Apaches, 43-26. A poor first half proved costly for the Argylls, as the Apaches took a 22-8 lead into halftime. Madison-Grant played much better in the third quarter, scoring 13 points, but they were unable to overcome their first half deficit.

Madison-Grant Head Coach Brandon Bradley is impressed with how his team is continuing to grow through each and every contest. "We have seen a great deal of progress in a variety of areas," Bradley said. "I thought tonight a couple of the girls looked to be more aggressive trying to score the ball, which is something we've addressed in practice. Defensively, it was the first time we've really pressured the ball full-court, and while we had some breakdowns, we did a decent job at it."

Mariah Wyatt led the Apaches in scoring with 12 points, while Alivia Short and Hope Unger each collected 10.

Argylls lose sixth straight contest

The Madison-Grant Argylls were in the game from start to finish on Monday evening, but a rough fourth quarter proved to be the difference in a 43-31 defeat at the hands of the Southwood Knights.

The Argylls trailed by just one point at halftime, and were only down 33-29 after the third quarter, but the Knights dominated the final stanza, outscoring the Argylls 10-2 to send them to their sixth straight defeat.

Marion

Giants beat Arsenal Tech

Against an Indianapolis Arsenal Tech team that is in the midst of a rebuild, the Marion Giants scored early and often, dominating the Titans from start to finish in a 69-16 rout.

The Giants led 23-5 after the first quarter, 40-11 at halftime, and 52-16 after the third. Marion's defense closed out the game with authority, not allowing the Titans to score in the final stanza.

"No matter who is out there, we still have to perform and play," Marion Head Coach Lawrence Jordan. "Tech is in a rebuilding process, [but] we kind of wanted to take them out [of the game] right away, and that's what we did. We got off to a great start and shut the door early on them."

RaShaya Kyle led the Giants with 26 point on 6-of-9 shooting from the field, while Jazmyn Turner scored 25 in the victory.

Mississinewa

Mississinewa in home loss to Belmont

For the most part, the Mississinewa Indians played solid basketball on Monday evening, shooting 53 percent as a team while three of their five starters finished with double-digit points. But lackadaisical ball handling, combined with struggles on the boards, cost the Indians in a 53-44 loss to the Belmont Braves.

"We had 21 turnovers and they had 17 offensive rebounds," Mississinewa Head Coach Omega Tandy said. "They scored 13 points off of those. That was the name of the game—just rebounds and turnovers."

The Indians came away with just 12 total rebounds in the contest, led by Caily Bolser's five.

"Rebounding is all effort," Tandy said. "That's something that we need to improve in. We drill it in practice. They just have to put it together in a game. We have to clean that up if we want to be successful."

Mississinewa trailed 14-8 after the first quarter of play, but scored 16 points in the second quarter to take a 24-23 lead. However, the Braves outscored the Indians 30-20 in the second half to secure the victory.

Ally Hewitt led the Indians with 14 points, while Riley McKee finished with 13. Bolser added 10 in the loss.

Oak Hill

Oak Hill defeats Southwood for fourth straight win

The Oak Hill Golden Eagles' win streak continued last Tuesday evening, coming away with their fourth straight triumph in a 50-12 rout of the Southwood Knights.

The Golden Eagles dominated on the scoreboard in the opening two quarters, taking a 32-8 lead into the locker room at halftime, but Oak Hill Head Coach Todd Law did not like what he had seen.

"To be quite honest, I wasn't real happy with our play in the first half," Law said. "I didn't think our effort was very good. I didn't like what I was seeing out there. I challenged them a little bit at halftime, [and] I thought we came out a little bit harder. I know we didn't score quite as much, but I felt like our effort was a little bit better in the second half."

Adrianna Trexler and Taylor Westgate both scored 12 points to lead the Golden Eagles' attack, while

Basketball, Continued from 9

Kaela Robey finished with eight, Brittany McCorkle, and Abby Shaw four in Oak Hill's victory.

"We were balanced tonight offensively," Law said. "That's a good thing, because teams can't come in and focus on one or two kids."

The Golden Eagles shot 46 percent from the floor for the game, while recording 25 steals and coming down with 25 rebounds.

Oak Hill beats No. 1 Winchester

It may be a little early to call Oak Hill's contest with No. 1 Winchester a "statement game," but it just might have been. After falling behind in the first quarter, the Golden Eagles dominated the rest of the contest, outscoring Winchester 52-26 the rest of the way in a convincing 59-39 triumph at the New Castle Fieldhouse.

"They were a team that, as we scouted them, played so many different defenses," Oak Hill Head Coach Todd Law said. "The one defense we had not seen them play was a straight 1-3-1 zone.

We had worked all week on this other stuff, and they came out in a 1-3-1. I think it just took us about a better part of a quarter to figure that out. Once we kind of settled down in the second quarter, I think our kids started moving the ball well and understanding where the openings were going to be."

Adrianna Trexler and Taylor Westgate were the catalysts in the victory, as both finished with 18 points and combined for 17 rebounds. Furthermore, Abby Shaw knocked some critical triples to keep the Golden Eagles in control.

"The great thing with Adrianna right now is that she is playing so consistently," Law said. "This was by far Taylor's best game. It was good to see her break loose. Another girls that was huge for us was Abby Shaw. She hit two big threes for us at critical times, so that was really good to see her step up and hit those shots for us."

Overall, the Golden Eagles shot 22-of-49 from the floor and five-of-11 from beyond the arc. Along with that, Oak Hill grabbed 33 rebounds, including 16 on the offensive end.

Heading into hoops season with Giant expectations

Wow. That was the comment from most Marion Giant fans after they watched a very young but very talented Marion Giants boys basketball team blow out Ft. Wayne North Side last weekend by 18 in a game in which the G-men led 33-4 after one quarter of play.

Now, before you start ordering your tix for the state finals do remember this is a very young Giants basketball team. The two top scorers on Saturday--Jalen Blackmon and Rasheed Jones, a sophomore and a freshman--scored 53 points between them.

The interesting sidelight of Coach James Blackmon's team is that we probably really won't know just how good this team is until we get to February, because that is when all the pieces of the Giants basketball puzzle will finally come together.

Not only did the broken leg suffered by J.K. Thomas probably cost the football Giants a state title, it will handicap the boys basketball team until he returns. Thomas may be the quickest Giant I have seen in years, and remember in one game as a sophomore last season he set the Marion Giants' sophomore scoring record by dropping in 41 points against a good Ft. Wayne-Wayne team.

Thus it will be a work in progress all season long, and the last time I looked they don't hand out state championship rings in November.

Marion fans need to be patient.

Coach Blackmon who has won three state titles as a head coach knows how to sail the Giant ship through these tough waters early in the season.

The best part of the story is that Marion now has a chance, with a number of early season injuries, to really build a bench. That can be oh-so-important when we get to late February and the important month of March.

So, sit back. Enjoy.

As a very talented, but very young and now a very banged up Marion Giants basketball team begins the journey they hope will take them to maybe, just maybe, a state record ninth state championship.

After all, this is Marion, and every Marion Giants boys basketball team has one goal: An IHSAA boys state basketball championship.
