Bank building renamed Ridley Tower

Contest to award a free lease; other leases already signed

by Alan Miller

The Grant County Economic Growth Council is accepting applications from entrepreneurs, existing businesses, restaurants and start-ups that would like to be among the first tenants in Ridley Tower in downtown Marion.

Ridley Tower? Downtown?

That is the building area residents have known recently as Regions Bank; for most of its 102-year history, it was known as Marion National Bank. The seven-story, 97-foot-tall structure, located on the southwest corner of Fourth and Adams Streets, is Marion's token skyscraper.

Mike Halstead, an Indianapolis architect who opened a Marion office 10 years ago, bought the former bank building in 2018. He is currently redeveloping the facility to include 30 market-rate apartments, professional offices, restaurant/café space--or any other use that prospective tenants might desire.

Recently, Halstead revealed the

Jesus teaches all on the way to the cross have taken us on a short journey involving the steps of Christ and the road He traveled to Calvary. During that time Jesus performed many miracles. The people were excited and motivated to follow Him, and, with this excitement, many believed. His teaching was amazing to the people because He spoke as One having authority. As He taught, He spoke the words of His Heavenly Father. In Mark's Gospel 1:21-28, we have the miracle of Jesus delivering and healing a Capernaum demoniac. It just so happened that Jesus had to pass through Capernaum. We are told in verse 21 that Jesus is portrayed as a Teacher of humility and His mission began at a place that was filled with pride. Jesus wanted to bring these people hope by His instruction and knowledge. It was obvious by the words that Jesus spoke that He loved the people and had a genuine concern for them.

We see in this passage that Jesus enters into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day to fulfill His obligation to the Law. It was a service of prayer. As many of these services were, they became routine, formal, with little of the meaning for which they were originally established. We too can fall prey to simple ritualism instead of real worship. What value is there to do anything that has no purpose? Our Heavenly Father knows our heart, and knows if it is in tune with Him in whatever service we do.

As Jesus is with the people He begins to teach them. It doesn't take long for Jesus to draw a crowd because of the message He spoke. The people were astonished at His words. They knew there was a vast difference between Him and the Scribes and Pharisees. His message wasn't hard or cold from lack of compassion. Bear in mind, even though they were astonished, many still didn't believe. It leads me to the simple question: why? Some things never

"Vickie Conrad and Amy Alcock, who headed the program, were more than mentors for our daughters. They were heavily invested in our entire family," Hahn said. "When they came to visit us, our house was usually filled with neighborhood kids and nieces and nephews. They told me I should apply for a job at Frances Slocum because I was so good with children.'

Hahn followed that advice and was hired as a crossing guard and recess monitor at Frances Slocum. He transferred to Justice Middle as an educational consultant then joined the Boys and Girls Club staff in 2013. He became the club director in 2018.

Let me introduce you to Steve Mullins and Ed Chainski. They're 86-yearold now, live in Evanston, IL, and this whole sordid business goes back to the late summer of 1994 my god! That's 25 years now!—when major league baseball players went on strike and wiped out everything, including the World Series. These boys are Cubs and White Sox fans, so they had little to lose, but they wanted their "We just said to our-

Every year since, they've taken a similar trip: Four different minor league parks over a stretch of a week. They say they've driven around 20,000 miles and shared 35 flights, traveling as far as Wappinger Falls, NY, to see the Hudson Valley Renegades and Great Falls, MT, home of the Voyagers,

"You hear the umps call, 'Ball one! Strike one!'" Mullins said. "You sit anywhere in the park and see. I remember once seeing a guy coming down the third base line-slide, a lot of dust, 'You're out!'"

"Baseball is a thinking man's game," Mullins said. "It's so different than any of the other sports. It is, I think, the hardest thing to do in sports, to hit a baseball with a bat."

"I agree very much," Chainski said. "It's a cerebral game," Mullins said. "You have a lot of time between pitches and innings. You can debate what the next pitch is going to be. What the next hit needs to be. It's just a wonderful
