Marion gets new postmaster Grigsby is first woman to hold the post

by Ed Breen

As a youngster growing up in Peru in the '90s, Lori Grigsby participated in the Peru circus and got perfect training for the job she has now undertaken. She was a juggler.

On Saturday she took over her new job in the adult world. She is the postmaster of the Marion Post Office, the first female postmaster in Marion history, going back to the 19th century.

(Her title set up a small debate: Is she "postmaster" or "postmistress," a long-used term that is probably now both archaic and politically incor-

"Marion General Hospital is proud of the efforts of its physicians and staff who have contributed to our hospital achieving this," said Stephanie Hilton-Siebert, president/CEO. "Our community can count on us to deliver the services they need now and in the future."

Taylor hosts Unified Game Day for county students

by Sean Douglas

Last Friday, on the campus of Taylor University, the Grant County Special Education Co-op, led by Lisa Graham and together with Special Olympics, held the second annual Unified Game Day, bringing the community together to celebrate Grant County students with intellectual disabilities in an inclusive sporting event that featured a variety of activities.

"The Special-Education Co-operative is a partnership between all five public school districts in Grant County," Graham said. "So the five superintendents are my bosses, and they're great bosses, because they allow

Jesus demonstrated success in what appeared to be failure

Matthew 27:39-44

There are many things in Scripture that amaze me. I am not sure how many times I have read it from cover to cover, but God’s Word still causes me to marvel. We are truly blessed to have this Masterpiece, the Bible. It gives us truth like no other book. Our Lord unfolds story after story so we might see how much He loves us and all He has done for us. He also includes what He is planning for us in the future.

One amazing story is the crucifixion of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. It is nothing less than miraculous what He endured on His way to Calvary. When they came to the place of the skull, they nailed Him to the cross and placed Him next to common criminals, hanging on display for the whole world to see. He had been beaten almost to the point you couldn’t tell he was a man.

There were many thoughts that day as to who He really was and who He said He was. As the people viewed his body there, someone said, “He saved others, Himself He cannot save.” What did this all mean? We know that

He could have called 10,000 angels and they would have been there at His beck and call, but why didn’t He? This display of Christ appeared to be one of failure and defeat. They were sure Christ was coming to establish His Kingdom and free them from Roman oppression. We need to realize that Christ was doing what He came to do—die for the sins of the world.

Was this a time of failure or success? The answer would depend on who you are. Everything looked as bad that day as it could, but now, here is the rest of the story. Jesus demonstrates success in apparent failure. Now, we might want to know what success is. It is not that which is merely in appearance. There are many things that we face in life that appear to be failure, but they really aren’t. Success is not what we would call the best thing for the present time. If we are believers in Christ, we are assured that “all things work together for good, to those who are the called, according to His purpose” (Romans 8:28).

Sometimes the person who brings about the good in this life pays a tremendous price in order that others may enjoy the benefits of the actions. As in the life of Christ, the highest favor comes after death. What Christ did for us was good and it was also successful. His purpose was good. He came to save the people from their sin. He gave His life a ransom for you and me, but why? There is only one answer to this question, it is love. “For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life” (John 3:16).

According to God’s Word, Jesus was a success, but some at Calvary doubted. The exciting part of this story is that there is hope for you and me. When we accept Christ as our Lord and Savior, He forgives our sin and cleanses us from all unrighteousness. Do you know Jesus as your personal Savior? My prayer is that if you don’t know Him, you will.

rect? “I think I prefer being postmaster,” Grigsby said.

With a staff of 76, Grigsby heads the Marion location, where she has been working since last November. Prior to that she served as postmaster in Tipton and Logansport. She, her husband and their blended family of six children now live in Howard County.

Grigsby is a native of Peru and, like many Miami County children, was involved in the Peru circus. “I loved juggling and was good enough at it that I took some advanced training and thought about doing it as a job, but I got into nursing education instead,” Grigsby said Saturday, as she spent her first day in the new job helping organize the annual postal workers food drive.

Grigsby was studying at Indiana University Kokomo, where somewhere along the line she was encouraged to take the U.S. Postal Service civil service examination. “I was one of about 500 in line that day. My first real job had been working at a hot dog stand in Peru and I knew I liked the business of working with people,” she said.

Grigsby did well, and was offered a job with the benefits that accompany civil service employment. She continued her education and received a degree in business from Indiana University at Kokomo. “I kind of looked at the nursing training and job and compared it with what I was being offered and went with this,” she said.

Her first postal job was in 2006 as a letter carrier in Logansport, then came a transfer to the Wabash post office, some promotions and on to being postmaster in Tipton and Logansport. She moved to the Marion post office in November and has been nominally in charge since then.

On Saturday she assumed the title and duties of postmaster.

rent position, Graham opened the event to the rest of the county schools, and it was a resounding success.

This year, 350 student athletes participated in the meet, while 250 volunteers, which included students, teachers, and para-professionals from all five high schools, helped the event to run smoothly.

The Co-op’s objective is to make sure that all students with intellectual disabilities, regardless of severity, are given the tools they need to succeed. They create individual education plans, or IEPs, which allow for equity in education. And after another long, but successful school year, the students are rewarded with an afternoon of fun.

“Our real job is to support a student so that their education can be enhanced so that they can participate like their peers,” Graham said. “That’s our day job. This is the fun part of the job and we love this. What a great way to end the school year. After all the testing and all of the things that you have to do within a normal school year, it’s a great way to celebrate the end of the year.”

Events included many track and field staples, including the 100-meter dash, the long jump, the relay and the 100-meter hurdles, but also included bowling, Yahtzee, Connect Four, and much more.

“It’s friendly competition,” Graham said. “Yeah, there are winners. We have first, second and third place ribbons, but that’s not what winning really is. It’s the unity, it’s the diversity, and it’s the coming together as one and cheering for each other and celebrating.”

Clay Dalton, an Eastbrook football standout and soon-to-be an IWU Wildcat, works with many of the students from the Eastbrook community who were participating, and was glad to be a part of their special day.

“I’m in the classroom with them every day, and these kids are so special, so it’s hard not to want to be with them,” Dalton said. “My favorite part is making them feel special because I just don’t want these kids to ever feel like that they don’t have the same opportunities or that they’re not equal to other humans because of disadvantages they were born with. They’ve still got feelings. They’ve still got hearts. So my goal was to make this the best day ever for them.”

Brandon Swanner, father of Mississinewa High School basketball and baseball standout Landen Swanner, works in the special education department. Much like Dalton, Swanner wanted to make sure that the student-athletes enjoyed their experience.

“It’s more about the kids being able to be a part of something special for them,” Swanner said. “To see the smiles on their faces as they’re running these events...it’s just a great thing for our community. It’s for the kids, so what’s important to me is that every kid feels special in some way. It’s up to us, not just as educators, to make sure these kids feel special in any way that we possibly can. Maybe it’s just sitting down and having a conversation with them, or giving them a high-five after they finish an event. Any way we can give back is a great opportunity to give back to our community.”

Eastbrook Athletic Director Brad Yordy was overwhelmed by the support of the community—not just from the fans in attendance, but of all the young men and women who give their time on a Friday to take part in this event.

“It is neat to see how many people come out,” Yordy said. “We have the students themselves, peers, administration, coaches, and then, of course, the local community members. They all come out here for a common cause, which forces us to go back to why we are doing all this, which is so healthy and it’s so valuable. We’ve got a few high schoolers that are coming and volunteering, and it is so neat to see them respond and cheer, but also [how] it impacts them. This goes far beyond Special Olympics. It is a true community event and all that that can stand for.”

The second-ever Unified Game Day was successful, and Graham hopes the event will only continue to grow in the years to come.

“Everybody knows somebody that has a family member or a friend with a disability, and we can focus on that disability and we can feel sorry for them, but that’s not going to help them,” Graham concluded. “Everybody doesn’t have to be great at everything, but everybody can come together and do something in an event like this. That’s why it’s so important, because we have family members sitting in the bleachers that don’t have team pictures and they’ve never gone to an awards banquet because their kids haven’t had an opportunity. But something like this gives them an opportunity to take pictures and cheer on something great. That’s why we do it. We want everyone to have an opportunity.”

Why are we Americans shooting our children?

Start here with a very simple question that, thus far, seems to have no answer: Why are we shooting our children to death? Slaughtering the innocents among us?

What in the name of God is going on here in the United States that is going on nowhere else on this planet?

I'm not interested here I picking a fight with the National Rifle Association and their ilk—although I could. I'm not interested in hearing about the violence of video games—although there is a lot. I am not interested in hearing about social media's evil influence on impressionable young minds—although it is there.

My question remains: Why are we killing—shooting to death—our own children?

More importantly—much more importantly—what, exactly, are we going to do to stop it? Or is it perhaps, in this post-apocalyptic world around us, is it okay to shoot and kill our children?

Understand here: I am not talking about the sickos who lock themselves in bell towers and Las Vegas hotel rooms and start picking off people below. I am talking about schools: Classrooms full of infants, playgrounds, hallways, libraries, cafeterias.

Let me give you some simple facts: No fake news, no propaganda, no regurgitation from the gun lobby, no opinions from op-ed pages—just facts.

In the past 10 years there have been 288 verified, certifiable cases of school shooting in the United States of America. Two hundred and eighty-eight. Almost 29 a year. More than one every 14 days for a decade.

In Canada, there have been two in the same 10 years. In France, two. In Germany, one. In Japan, Italy and England, none. Zero. Not a single episode of someone bursting into a school and opening fire, slaughtering the children.

In our 50 states, among we 320 million Americans, 288 shooting episodes, incidents, catastrophes. Two hundred and eighty eight, including one right down the road from us a year ago at Noblesville West Middle School and another just east of us over in Richmond.

We learn more each day that the collateral damage, the damage to the lives and psyches of the survivors is as profound as the live rounds fired at point blank range. In Parkland, FL, where the killing of children by children was of battlefield proportions, two more children have ended their lives by their own hands in the subsequent year. It even has a name: "survivor's guilt," they call it.

In Connecticut just last month, Jeremy Richman, the hollowed out father of one of those first graders at Sandy Hook Elementary School, could take it no more. He killed himself. He was 49. His daughter was eight. The irony is gut-wrenching: He was a neuroscientist who had devoted his life to studying human brain health and how it relates to violence.

Now, because we must find some sort of solace in everything, we have fashioned a new kind of hero: Children who die in pursuit of protecting children. Those who charge the gunman. Twice last week, North Carolina and Colorado. Reilly Howell, dead at 21, and Kendrick Castillo, dead at 18.

Columnist Nicholas Kristof doesn't like that. "I don't support the notion of the child hero. A child who dies saving their classmates is a victim," he said. "Let's not encourage children to jump in front of bullets. Let's encourage adults to pass gun control measures." He is correct. But answers. Answers and solutions. Now. Immediately.

Baseball: Panthers loss streak, Indians win streak both end

Eastbrook Eastbrook falls to Frankton

It has been a tough stretch for the Eastbrook Panthers. On Thursday evening, Eastbrook dropped its seventh straight, falling to conference foe Frankton 10-0. Frankton's Samuel Dalton kept the Eastbrook lineup at bay all evening long, allowing just one hit while striking out four in a complete-game effort.

Frankton scored two runs in both the second and third innings before exploding for six runs in the fourth to secure the victory. Jason Hale recorded Eastbrook's lone hit in the contest.

"Their pitcher did a great job of locating his pitches and keeping us off balance," Eastbrook Head Coach Ryne Brown said.

Eastbrook shuts out Southwood

Eastbrook registered a much-needed win, defeating the Southwood Knights by a score of 1-0.

"We were able to put together a complete team effort," Eastbrook Head Coach Ryne Brown said. "We were able to make the plays we were supposed to make and didn't allow ourselves to get beat."

Eastbrook's Dylan Joseph pitched three innings, giving up just one hit and two walks while striking out six and Dylan Bragg picked up the victory, striking out six in the remaining four innings.

The Panthers' lone run of the contest came in the third inning, as Jason Hale drove home Joseph with an RBI double. Eastbrook committed just one error in the shutout victory.

Madison-Grant Blackford run-rules Argylls

On Wednesday evening, the Argylls had no answer for Caleb Mealy and conference foe Blackford, as the Bruins scored early and often in 14-2, mercy rule triumph. Blackford's top three hitters—Drew Caldwell, Cam Elam, and Mealy—combined for seven hits, 10 runs scored, and nine RBI. Mealy was equally as effective on the mound. He allowed just two singles while striking out six in four innings of work.

"They are a good hitting squad, especially the Mealy kid," Madison-Grant Head Coach Scott Haley said. "He's only a junior, and he threw a good game. He is probably one of the better players in the conference."

The Bruins opened the scoring in the first inning, plating three runs. Madison-Grant got two back in the bottom of the first, the only runs the Argylls would score.

Blackford blew the game open in the third, scoring seven runs on four hits and three Argyll errors. Seven consecutive Bruins reached base to start the inning, and all seven scored.

Mealy finished 2-for-3 with four runs scored and five RBI. Harbert and Richards were the only two Argylls to record a hit.

Two tough losses and two Giants

They are probably the two toughest losses in Marion Giants boys basketball history: The Indianapolis Broad Ripple win over Marion four decades ago, when Stacey Toran threw in a 60-foot, last-second shot to stop the Marion Giants in the Final Four.

Then 10 years ago, the crazy ending to the Marion vs. Brownsburg game in which somehow the IHSAA referees used NBA rules in the final 2.1 seconds to help steal the 4A state championship from Marion.

Two of the players who still suffer from those losses met for the first time this past Friday at the Bill Green Athletic Arena.

Rocky Adrianson, now running two resorts down in Florida, was in town for Mothers' Day. Julius Mays is now the assistant athletic director at MHS.

Adrianson went on to play at Northwestern and the University of New Orleans, while Mays started at North Carolina State and ended up at the University of Kentucky.

Neither had met before; both still suffer mentally

What we learned after losing tough games like that makes you more prepared for what comes after.

from the two toughest losses in Giants history. The losses didn't get a whole lot of conversation because it goes without saying how tough it is to bring up old wounds.

But Adrianson brought up a great point to me after the meeting: He and Mays may not have been winners of state championship basketball rings, but both have gone on to great lives after basketball.

Adrianson has made his money in the world of hotels and resorts while Mays could not be a better representative of MHS sports as Giants Athletics Director Steve Moritz's assistant.

Like Adrianson said to me after meeting Mays for the first time: Sometimes what we learned as Marion Giants and after losing tough games like that, it just makes you more prepared for what comes after basketball.

Well said, Rocky Adrianson.

It was great that you two great Marion Giant basketball standouts had a chance to meet in the hallowed building known as the Bill Green Athletic Arena.

Argylls defeat Eastern in extras

While the Argyll Classic could not be completed due to inclement weather, the Madison-Grant Argylls did come away with a victory on Saturday morning, defeating the Eastern Comets, 7-6, in extra innings.

The Comets took advantage of some Madison-Grant fielding miscues, pulling ahead 6-2, but in the bottom of the seventh the Argylls rallied, scoring four runs to send the game to extra innings. Two innings later the Argylls would score the game-winning run to put an end to their modest two-game losing streak.

"We played real good defense in the top of the eighth and the top of the ninth and then got a run across in the ninth," Haley said. "Our kids played well. These guys just don't quit. I was proud of them."

Marion Marion falls to Kokomo

For the second time in two days, longtime NCC rival Kokomo defeated the Marion Giants who once again struggled to score runs in an 8-2 loss on Wednesday. The Wildkats scored early and often in the contest, plating two runs in the first and four in the second for a 6-1 lead. Kokomo added single runs in the fourth and fifth.

Anthony Reynolds finished 2-for-3 to lead the Giants' offense, while Dylan Meyer, Riley Russell, Broc Allgood, Travis Metzger, and D'Angelo Jones all came away with a hit. Russell also recorded Marion's lone RBI.

Marion loses to Logansport, beats Lafayette-Jeff in NCC Tournament

The Marion Giants concluded the NCC Tournament with a split on Saturday afternoon, falling to Logansport, 4-3, before bouncing back to defeat Lafayette-Jefferson, 4-3.

Against Logansport, the Giants' had baserunners in almost all every inning, but were unable to capitalize on their opportunities. "We just didn't get the key hit at the right time," Marion Head Coach Mark Fagan said.

In their second game, with Lafayette Jefferson, Broc Allgood played catcher for the first time all season, while Riley Russell, who usually plays in the infield, moved to left field. The changes worked and the Giants put an end to their three-game losing streak.

"We went out, we were having fun, and we won the ball game. We got a few hits at the right time for a change," Fagan said.

Mississinewa Indians keep streak alive

On Wednesday evening, Mississinewa's winning streak reached seven games, as the Indians recorded yet another conference victory with a 6-2 triumph over Elwood.

Elwood scored twice in the top of the second inning, but the Indians scored twice in the bottom of the second, and two more times in the third. The Indians plated two more runs in the sixth and allowed zero runs in the final five innings.

"The kids don't have any quit in them," Mississinewa Head Coach Mike Scott said. "They have the confidence that 'we are going to come back and things are going to be okay.'"

Seth Maddox earned the win, allowing just three hits and two runs while striking out two in a complete-game effort. Holden Brown finished with two hits, including a home run, and three RBI, while Colin Yoder recorded two hits, and Kreigh Young added one.

Alex beats Indians

Against the No. 2 ranked team in Class 2A, the Mississinewa Indians played great baseball. They were excellent defensively, not committing a single error. They were patient at the plate, waiting for the right pitch to hit. Most importantly, they kept their composure against one of the top teams in the Central Indiana Conference.

But, a few timely hits by the Tigers, combined with a couple of remarkable defensive plays, proved to be the difference, as Alexandria came away with a 6-2 triumph over the Indians.

"There is nothing to be disappointed about in a game like today," Mississinewa Head Coach Mike Scott

Eastbrook Eastbrook loses to Frankton

The Eastbrook Panthers dropped their sixth straight on Thursday night, as the Frankton Eagles earned a 5-3 victory.

Eastbrook opened the scoring in the first inning, and added two more runs in the third for a 3-1 advantage, but the Eagles took over from there, scoring four unanswered runs. Frankton plated one run in the fourth, two in the fifth, and one in the sixth.

Alli Hyatt finished 3-for-4 with three singles and an RBI, while Ariel Duke recorded two singles. Helaina Walters went 2-for-4; Madi McMillan added a home run and two RBI. On the mound, McMillan gave up three hits and three runs while striking out five in five innings. Hyatt pitched the final two frames, giving up four hits and just one earned run.

Panthers swept

In a doubleheader on Saturday afternoon against one of the top teams in Class 2A, Eastbrook's bats fell silent one too many times, as the Panthers were swept by the Starfires, 3-2 and 5-4.

said. "We competed against a state-ranked team."

The Tigers opened the scoring in the first inning, plating two runs with two outs, but the Indians' Seth Maddox led off the bottom of the first with a double, and Colin Yoder brought him home with an RBI single two batters later.

Alexandria's No. 9 hitter, Kole Stewart, hit a bomb to left field in the second inning, increasing the Tigers' advantage back to two runs.

Mississinewa's best chance to knot the game up came in the bottom of the third. With two outs and the bases loaded, Nathan Henderson crushed a 2-2 pitch

The Starfires took a 1-0 lead in the first inning of the opener, but senior pitcher Madi McMillan and the Eastbrook defense kept them off the board for the next six innings.

The Panthers finally found the equalizer in the fifth. With Helaina Walters and Kalli Fairbanks on first and second with two outs, Kennedy Ross delivered, hitting an RBI single to tie the contest at 1-1.

Neither team scored in the final two frames, sending the contest to extra innings. In the top of the eighth, South Adams grabbed the advantage on an Eastbrook miscue in the field, but in the bottom of the frame, the Panthers scored courtesy runner Logan Jones on a fielders choice.

South Adams put the contest away in the top of the ninth, as Emilie Hammel hit the game-winning RBI single with two outs.

Lee, Duke, and Ross each finished with two hits in the contest for Eastbrook, while McMillan pitched all nine innings, giving up 10 hits and three earned runs while striking out six.

In the nightcap, Eastbrook took a 2-0 lead in the first, but a four-run sixth frame proved to be the difference, as the Starfires pulled ahead and secured the doubleheader sweep.

"In the second game, Alli Hyatt started pitching, and pitched a great game," Coates said. "We had so many people step up and do some really cool things. Unfortunately, once again, we fell a little short, but man, I like how we are playing."

Duke finished 3-for-4 in the second contest, recording an RBI, while Coates and Ross each came away with two hits. Ross plated two runs, while Allison Mullenix drove in a run in her only plate appearance.

Hyatt took the loss, giving up 12 hits and five earned runs while striking out one, while Mullenix pitched the final inning, striking out one.

Madison-Grant Argylls over Blackford

Coming off consecutive conference losses to Alexandria and Oak Hill, the Madison-Grant Argyll bounced back in a big way on Thursday evening, defeating Blackford by a score of 20-3.

Argylls defeat Peru

In the annual Argyll Invitational, the Madison-Grant Argylls split their two games on cording seven hits, and scoring single runs in the second and fourth innings.

The Argylls put the tying run on third base in the bottom of the seventh inning, but were unable to find that crucial hit.

"Nick Evans pitched a great game again," Madison-Grant Head Coach Scott Haley said. "He pitched a strong five innings. The first two guys got on in the sixth [for Oak Hill,] and then Cole Hasty came in and did a great job of not letting them score in the sixth and holding them in the seventh."

For the Golden Eagles, Walker was nearly flawless, allowing just one run while striking out 10 in 6.2 innings of work. Offensively, Nate Alston and Evan Pearce each had two hits for Oak Hill, while Will Haley recorded an RBI.

"[It was a] good road win versus a county rival and CIC foe," Oak Hill Head Coach Shane Edwards said. "Harrison Walker was outstanding on the mound today."

Golden Eagles fall to Elwood

The Golden Eagles came out flat against conference foe Elwood in an 11-2 loss on Thursday evening. Walks were the Golden Eagles' Achilles heel, as six Oak Hill pitchers gave up 11 walks in the contest.

Mississinewa over Eastbrook

Last Tuesday's night contest between the Mississinewa Indians and the Eastbrook Panthers did not feature a lot of offense, as the two teams combined for just eight hits. One run was all that was needed, as the Indians' lone tally in the fourth frame held up in a 1-0 win.

Jenna Berryhill earned the win for the Indians, allowing four hits and no runs while striking out four. Offensively, Riley McKee, Madison Stanley, Kylie Smalley, Amaya David each recorded a hit for Mississinewa.

Though they did not come away with the victory, Eastbrook Head Coach Harold Coates was pleased with how his team performed. "I think that was the best overall game that we have played this season," Coates said, "I was proud of their effort. We made plays to-night defensively. We didn't hurt ourselves in the field, and that's what kept us in the game. Offensively, we hit the ball. We hit some hard balls, they just didn't fall tonight. We just came up a little short."

Kalli Fairbanks went 2-for-3 with two singles, while Ariel Duke and Alli Hyatt each went 1-for-3. Madi McMillan gave up three hits, one run, and four walks while striking out eight.

Lugar each finished with two hits, while six other Argylls each had one.

In the second contest with Connersville, Madison-Grant took a 5-0 lead after the first three innings of play, but a few big hits from the Spartans turned the game in their favor.

Trailing 11-7 in the final inning, the Argylls scored three runs to cut Connersville's lead to one, but they were unable to find the equalizer.

Argylls slug past Elwood

In a combined 23-run outburst on Monday evening, the Madison-Grant Argylls came out on top, defeating the Elwood Panthers by a score of 15-8.

The Argylls set the tone in the first inning, scoring six runs, which included a grand slam from freshman Chelsea Parker. Madison-Grant scored at least one run in each of the following six innings, including three in the second, two in the third, and two in the fifth.

Elwood found its offense late, scoring four runs in the bottom of the sixth, but they never really threatened the Madison-Grant lead.

The Argylls compiled 13 hits in the win. Three came from Chelsea Bowland, while McKenna Lugar, Gracey Fox, Parker, and Ellie Alcala each recorded two. Parker, Lugar, and Alcala combined to drive in 10 runs.

Zoey Barnett picked up the win for Madison-Grant, giving up nine hits, but only two earned runs, while striking out
