Smoking ban snuffed out

Motion fails for lack of a second from county commissioners

by Ed Breen

A two-year effort to revise Marion's smoking laws to prohibit smoking in public places—including bars, taverns and private clubs—failed to get support from the Grant County Commissioners on Monday afternoon.

The proposal appears to be dead.

The change in the county ordinance was proposed by the Grant County Health Board and was sent to the county commissioners more than a year ago. The original proposal was examined by the commissioners, given an airing at a public meeting, and then returned to the health board for revisions after testimony, primarily from bar and tavern owners who objected to what several described as a violation of individual rights.

The issue was cast by many as a collision of individual freedoms versus public health demands.

On a 5-2 vote earlier this year, the health board sent a revised version of the ordinance to the commissioners with a recommendation to adopt it as a public health measure. The proposal was strongly supported by Grant County Health Office Dr. David Moore.

On Monday, Commission President Mike Burton called for a motion to present and vote on the ordinance. He failed to get a motion and used his authority to make the motion himself. He then called for the required second to his motion and failed to get it from either Mark Bardsley or Ron Mowery, the other two commissioners.

Procedures for public ordinances require that a proposal must secure a motion and a second before it can be brought to a vote of the governing body. "So the proposal is dead for lack of a second," Burton said, indicating that that was the end of the road for any effort to ban smoking in public places in Grant County.

Indiana author talks of Grissom biography at MPL

by Sean Douglas

When talking about astronauts, most people know the names of Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin, the first two men to step on the moon, but those two might have never made it to the moon if it had not been for Mitchell, Indiana, native Virgil "Gus" Grissom, who played an integral role in the development of the NASA space program.

On Thursday, at the Marion Public Library, Ray Boomhower, author and senior editor at the Indiana Historical Society Press, spent some time discussing his biography: "Gus Grissom: The Lost Astronaut." Boomhower has written on other notable Hoosiers, including Ernie Pyle, Lew Wallace, Juliet Strauss, and May Wright Sewall.

Boomhower had been fascinated with space since he was young, particularly after visiting Spring Mill

State Park and the Virgil I. Grissom Memorial, which houses the Gemini 3 spacecraft and other historical artifacts. "That [trip] stuck in my memory," Boomhower said. "I've always had a soft spot for Gus. He's a boy from a small town in Indiana, and yet he made a name for himself through his work through the space program."

Years later, that love of space led to Boomhower detailing the life of Grissom, one of America's first astronauts.

Grissom was born on April 3, 1926 in Mitchell, the oldest of four children. After spending his formative years in Mitchell, Grissom joined the army during World War II, but did not see combat, spending time behind a desk.

After the war, Grissom worked at Carpenter Body Work, installing doors on school buses, then, with help from the GI Bill, he enrolled at Purdue University as a mechanical engineer. After graduating in 1950, Grissom rejoined the armed forces, this time as an Air Cadet in the newly formed United States Air Force. He was commissioned as a second lieutenant in March of 1951 and flew 100 missions during the Korean War, winning the Distinguished Flying Cross. After Korea, Grissom was part of the “Mercury Seven,” along with Alan Shepard, Gordon Cooper, Wally Schirra, Deke Slayton, John Glenn, and Scott Carpenter.

During his time at NASA, Grissom was heavily involved in the Gemini program, taking part in Gemini 3, the first crewed mission, on March 23, 1965. Grissom was gearing up for a third mission, the first in the Apollo series, when disaster struck on January 27, 1967. A frayed electrical wire, combined with combustible nylon materials and the pure oxygen cabin atmosphere, caused Apollo 1 to burst into flames. Grissom, together with fellow astronauts Ed White and Roger Chaffee, died in the fire. Grissom was originally blamed for the fire, but an individual investigation by the U.S. Congress determined that faulty equipment, not human error, caused the cabin to burst into flames.

“One of the things I tried to do with the book was repair Gus’s reputation,” Boomhower said. “I wanted to boost it back up, and take a second look at Gus and his career. He made a lot of positive contributions to the space program, particularly with the Gemini program, so I wanted to let people know that they should be proud of what Gus did for America at a critical time in its history.” While Grissom’s death was tragic, it was not in vain. After the accident, NASA spent half a million dollars making renovations to future spacecraft. Two years later, Armstrong became the first man to step on the moon, cementing his place in history. Grissom was buried as a hero at Arlington National Cemetery.

Additional necessary advice from Peter

1 Peter 2:1-3
We have all had the privilege of receiving advice from others. There is always someone that can’t wait to tell you what to do. We sometimes wonder why they are so eager to impart their wisdom on us, but we have all been there.

In last week’s article we began by hearing the words of Peter as he tried to encourage his Jewish brothers and sisters who were experiencing suffering. He realized that it would be easy for them to become bitter. Persecutions, trials, and sufferings will sometimes bring us to disappointment, discouragement, and depression. In order for him to help them, he wanted to present a new concept for life that would help them endure and prevail these issues.

Our best services toward God will neither please Him nor profit us if we are not conscientious in our duties to others. I still believe in the “Golden Rule,” and I still try to practice it whether others do or not. It is the right thing to do. As a Christian, we must show love toward others whether they love us or not. It is easy to love those who are lovable, but how about the unlovable?

Our sin, if not laid aside, will hinder our Spiritual work. Psalm 66:18 tells me “If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me.” That speaks pretty plainly to all of us. We need to always be confessed up and prayed up. I shouldn’t want to hold on to bad feelings and bad thoughts.

the best manual for life we will ever have—it is the only manual we need.

As I close today, let me leave you with these thoughts:
• Our Lord Jesus is very gracious to His people.
• The graciousness of our Redeemer is best discovered by an experimental taste of it. We cannot taste from a distance.
• The best God’s servants have in this life is but a taste of the grace of God.
• The Word of God is the instrument to communicate God’s grace to man.

Marking the Fourth: from hot dogs to Hogin’s box

Many ways, I suppose, to mark Independence Day, the Fourth of July on Thursday this week. Two hundred and forty-three of them since the first in Philadelphia. Most of them are as traditional as turkey on Thanksgiving.

Fireworks, and I have no idea why. Explosives rarely have much to do with joy and tranquility. Make the dogs nervous and some of the guys who are veterans of the real fireworks don’t like them one bit, but they aren’t going to talk about it, are they?

Sparklers in the backyard to barges in the Potomac. Hot dogs, picnics, beer and bratwurst. An open fire plug on city streets to cool the kids who know very little of freedom and independence and what we old white guys like to believe is “the American Way.”

An occasional parade, but few of those anymore since we all do something else on the Fourth. The lakes, concerts and festivals in some city other than our own.

The last really good Fourth of July parade in Marion was in 1976. The Bicentennial. That was 43 years ago now. The last time we all stayed around town. Remember how they opened Hogin’s Box that day?

A hundred years before, David Hogin had given a locked wooden box to the Grant County Clerk and told him to hold onto it for another hundred years. He did. Every 15 or 20 years during that century someone at the newspaper would get curious and write yet another story about what was inside: Gold, old coins, memories of early Marion, some kind of treasure too great to speculate about.

Hogin was born in Lancaster, OH, in 1832. His family came to Marion in 1836 when the village and the boy was but four years old. He was interviewed in 1921 by some of Cora Strawn’s Marion High School history students and his recollections were published as “the memories of the man who has been in Marion the longest.”

Among his recollections was this: The County Treasurer was Reddin Chance. He went about the county collecting taxes and he would take the pay in skins. He would sometimes come back to town with only his head showing above the pile of furs. David Hogin’s father bought these furs off of Chance and sold them to Davy Connor, whose barn was often stacked full with furs from floor to rafters: beaver, fox, deer, raccoon and squirrel.

That Bicentennial day in 1976, they opened Hogin’s Box with pomp and pageantry on the courthouse steps, and what a disappointment to the fortune seekers!

Mainly the box held a stack of newspapers, most of them published in Marion and all containing accounts of Marion’s history and its observance of the Centennial on July 4 of 1876.

Among them was Vol. 1, No. 13 of the Marion Register, a mouthpiece apparently for the Presidential campaign of Rutherford B. Hayes and the Republican Party.

Anyway, after long-winded Fourth of July political reporting—the ticket included Godlove S. Orth for governor and Morris Fankboner for Sheriff—came the most interesting story of the week. Under the headline of “Battle With Indians,” came this:

“Mister Taylor, bearer of dispatches from Little Horn to Fort Ellis, arrived at Bozeman, Montana, July 3, and reported the following: “The battle was fought on the 25th 30 or 40 miles below the Little Horn. Custer attacked the Indian village from one side and Col. Reno was to attack it on the other. General Custer and 15 officers and every man belonging to his five companies were killed.”

And the account goes on from there. On that July Fourth a hundred years later back in Marion, after the disappointment of Hogin’s patrimony, came the dedication of that memorial on the southwest corner of the Courthouse Square to all those young men freshly killed in our time, in Vietnam: Guerrero, the Travis brothers, Paul Black—so many. My god, they’d be ready to retire now, if it weren’t for that madness back then.

Marion Babe Ruth League concludes season

by Sean Douglas

On Wednesday evening at Lincoln Field, the first summer season of the new Marion Babe Ruth League came to a close with a pair of championship games.

In the first game of the evening, the McDonald’s Small Fries, who finished June as the regular season champions, put the finishing touches on an undefeated campaign, defeating McDonald’s SuperSize, 18-8, in the Cal Ripken Coaches Pitch Championship.

In the 12U championship later in the evening, Tino Mitchener’s Marion Firefighters emerged victorious over Mike Conterras and IMG, scoring three late runs in a 4-2 triumph.

Austin Faulkner led the Small Fries’ offense in the No. 2 slot, hitting three inside-the-park home runs while driving in five runs. Nasser Ajamu homered twice, while Raymar Mays and Javion Cole also recorded round trippers. Zayden Guy finished with three hits—a single, a double, and a triple—while Big Bear Inman finished with a single and a triple. Leeland Springer and Maliki Johnson combined for five singles.

For SuperSize, Chris Spears recorded two singles and a double, driving in two, while Bryce Coburn came away with a two-run single late in the contest. Isaac Coleman hit an RBI double, while Kollin Beck singled three times.

SuperSize took an early lead in the top of the first on an RBI fielder’s choice from Brayden Funches, but the Small Fries, who have been a strong-hitting lineup all summer, came roaring back in their half of the frame, scoring four runs on four hits for a 4-1 advantage.

Over the second and third innings, SuperSize regained the lead, scoring once in the second and three times in the third to take a 5-4 lead, but Small Fries answered again with a six-run bottom of the third, rebuilding a lead they would not relinquish. Faulkner, Ajamu, and Mays each hit two-run home runs in the inning.

The Small Fries added a little insurance in the fifth, adding another seven runs to take a comfortable advantage. The Small Fries won both the league and tournament championships with an 18-0 record.

In the late game, Caleb Richardson led the offense for the Firefighters with a pair of hits, including a double. Amar Rogers hit the go-ahead triple in the top of the fifth, while Tre Brown also recorded a three-bagger in the Firefighters’ championship victory. Drew Monday and Issac Mitchener each added singles.

Along with his game-changing triple, Rogers was excellent on the mound for the Firefighters, picking up the win with a solid, four-inning outing. He recorded nine strikeouts, including six in a row at one point, and three walks, while not allowing a single hit. Richardson was solid in relief, pitching the final two innings and striking out four.

For IMG, Dylan Oatess was equally as impressive on the mound, striking out 12 and allowing just two runs and four hits. Offensively, Mario Contreras and JJ Bosquez scored both of IMG’s runs on a pair of Firefighter errors.

IMG took the early lead in the top of the first

New winners for Jr., Sr. Amateurs

by Sean Douglas

On a beautiful Friday afternoon in Grant County, the annual Senior and Junior Amateur Golf Tournaments were held at Walnut Creek Golf Course, and two first-time winners were crowned.

Tony Smith, in his first year playing the Senior Amateur, emerged victorious with a notable score of 70, while Mississinewa High School junior Ty Corey won the Junior Amateur with a score of 81.

Smith, playing alongside and against a tremendous group of golfers, including Pete Delongchamp and Doug Carey, was on his game all afternoon, finishing the day at 2 under par.

“I came out last Saturday and played a practice round—shot 73,” Smith said. “That wasn’t too far off from where I practice at. I grew up on this course, so I know it like the back of my hand. I totally enjoyed it. The guys kept me in the game. I didn’t get into any trouble and I didn’t make any big numbers, so that was the big thing. It was definitely a good day.”

Marion has a well-documented, rich history of golf over the past 90+ years. Now, Smith has etched his name in eternity alongside many of the top golfers in Grant County history.

I started playing around here, they beat me on a regular basis,” Smith said. “It was kind of nice.”

Smith’s triumph in the Senior Amateur earned him a free entry in the 2019 Grant County Amateur Tournament, which takes place during the second and third weekends in July.

“I’m feeling a little more confident,” Smith said. “This is my home course. This is where I grew up playing golf, so I’m looking forward to it.”

Corey, while not entirely pleased with his overall performance, was proud of several areas of his game on Friday. “I had some holes that weren’t my best, but I did have some good things,” Corey said. “I had no three-putts today—that was one of my goals. I had five three-putts the last time I played. So I putted pretty well today. I have some work to do, but I’m happy to get the win.”

Throughout the summer, Corey has taken his training seriously, putting in many long hours working to improve his game. “I [practice] every day,” Corey said. “Every day, I do something golf related. Very rarely do I take a day off. It’s a process, you can’t take days off.”

While he still thinks he has a long way to go, he is proud of the progress he has made throughout the offseason. “I’d rather have these problems in the summer than in the season so I can get these all straightened out,” Corey said. “By the time the season comes around, I’ll be ready. I’m just trying to get better overall, improving in all aspects of my game. I feel like just since the season ended that I’ve improved a little bit.”

The Gallaghers are still Marion golfing royalty

It doesn't seem possible, but this past weekend, as I watched Jeff Gallagher show what incredible golfing talents he still has after a half century on this planet, it just reminded me what a great sports story "the golfing Gallaghers" have been here in the Marion area.

The great thing about golf is, you don't suddenly stop jumping three feet off the basketball court, or suddenly stop hitting a baseball 450 feet, or stop being able to run the 100 in less than 10 and a half seconds. The beauty of golf, even at the professional level, is that, even in your 50s you still look like the stud you were in your 20s and 30s.

Thus it was this past week for Marion's Jeff Gallagher, playing for the fourth year in a row in the U.S. Open Senior golf championship—this year up at the Notre Dame Warren golf course in South Bend.

The simple fact that Jeff has qualified for this event four straight years is story enough.

Since Gallagher is not a regular on the Seniors Tour, he has had to qualify for the tournament each year—in 2016, 2017, 2018 and 2019—by showing up at a national locale, and best more than 70 other golfers in an 18-hole event to make it to the Open Championship.

Yet there he was on Sunday, playing in front of Vijay Singh and Colin Montgomerie, both former Master's champions, and trying to keep his pursuit of a Top 20 finish intact. In his three previous outings he had finished 18th, missed the cut, and then, last year, finished 40th.

On a really tough day, where even par was unheard of, Gallagher was making tough shot after tough shot and had it at even par for the day, two under for the tourney, on the final hole of the 72-hole event. A perfect drive, followed by a great second shot, and Gallagher had a downhill, side-hill putt to shoot 69. He missed. But he made the comeback, and when both Singh and Monty finished behind him, Gallagher had a personal best Senior Open finish of 17th place, out of 156 golfers.

Earlier this season he also won the state of Arizona's Open tourney, so it's been a good year for a Marion Giant golfer who played for the purple and gold well over 30 years ago.

With Jimmy now a mainstay on the Golf Channel; Jackie finishing in the Top 20 in the Ladies Senior Open; and Senior, the patriarch of the group, still one of the best teachers of the sport in the state of Indiana, the Gallaghers won't go quietly into the night.

Time and time again "the golfing Gallaghers" have given us a reason as to why they are still the first family of sports in our area.

Here's to more great days on the links for Senior, and held that lead until the fourth. The Firefighters tied it up in the bottom half of the frame, as Brown scored on an IMG fielding error.

The Firefighters took the lead for good in the fifth. Rogers' two-out triple scored Ah'Lijah Monday, and moments later he gave the Firefighters a two-run cushion after coming home on a wild pitch.

Though they were defeated in the tournament championship, IMG finished as the regular season champions with a 14-3 record.

On the previous day in the 10U championship, Via Credit Union defeated Premier Comfort 18-6, and, in fast-pitch softball, the Thunder came away with a 9-0 shutout victory over the Pink Ladies.

With the conclusion of the season, Mitchener reflected on what has been a tremendous first year at the helm, and made sure to thank the many people who helped bring summer baseball back to Marion.

"I think it's been outstanding," Mitchener said of the revamped Marion Babe Ruth League's first season. "It has exceeded what I thought we could accomplish. First of all, I would like to thank all the businesses that made this happen. We reached out to 80-100 businesses, and without them, none of this would have been possible.

"[I would also like to thank] those who donated their time, especially my wife. Without her, I could not do this. She spends countless hours out here mowing and doing concessions and everything. I just could not do it without her.

"[And lastly, I want to thank] the parents and fans who come out and support these kids [and] get them out here every day."
