Zoning board hears 'sober house' request

lard Park in Marion.

The desires of residential property owners and the needs of an addiction recovery program collided in Marion Tuesday in a hearing before the Board of Zoning Appeals, an appointive board charged with making decisions on land use in the city.

The issue: A request from Hope House, an addiction recovery agency, to rezone a residence at 1221 Sheridan Road in Northwood, a north Marion residential neighborhood, to permit the creation of a "sober living" facility to house about 10 men for times ranging from six months to two years.

Under the current zoning, the 90-year-old subdivision is designated as "R-1," requiring that all housing be "low-density single family residential" dwellings. Housing multiple unrelated people in a dwelling would be a violation of the zoning ordinance. Thus, a "variance" from the ordinance was being sought. After nearly 90 minutes of testimony from speakers on both sides, the board took the issue under advisement and said it will announce its decision at its September 10 meeting in the council chambers of the Marion Municipal Building. Hope House board president Bill

Reece, speaking as a petitioner for the change, said the house is to accommodate six to 10 men "and there would be "absolutely no tolerance for drugs and alcohol." "This is men in recovery, men who are sober. This is definitely not for addicts," Reece said. "This is a sober living facility."

"Our request for a zoning variance should be granted under the Fair Housing Act," he said.

He said that while the City of Marion has no ordinances govern-

Remembering Woodstock, 50 years later

Fifty years ago this week, Ken Bielen and two of his childhood buddies were stuck in a massive traffic jam, in the middle of the night, on a two-lane road in upstate New York. They and 400,000 other people were headed to what became a legendary three-day music festival called Woodstock.

"The site of the festival was about a two-hour drive from our homes in central New Jersey, so we thought it would be easy to get there," said Bielen, who retired in June after working 12 years as director of grants management at Indiana Wesleyan University. "Our idea was to leave on Thursday night, so we could get there before everyone else. Ha, Ha!'

At about 4 am Friday, the three buddies came face to face with gridlock. They pulled off the road, got out their sleeping bags and slept in a field beside their 1962 Corvair. The delay did not cause them to miss any music, though.

"The first act was scheduled to begin performing about noon on Friday, but as we were walking to the site, we could hear the carpen-qualifications needed to do the Lord's work.

What was this call? He called them to evangelize the world. They had the wonderful experience of walking with Jesus for more than three years. Have you ever wondered what that would have been like? The privilege of seeing all the miracles and the profound teaching imparted by the Master provided a great foundation for the task set before them.

Somewhere along the way, things didn't play out like they had thought. The death of Christ at Calvary set them back to the point that they all deserted the cause. It was only through the love of Christ and His assurance to them that this resurrected Savior helped get them back on track. In Acts 1:6-11, He talks to them with great instructions before He ascends back to glory. He wanted them to remember three help them.

The first thing He wanted them to do was testify to what they had seen. What stories they must have had about all their experiences with Jesus

He wanted them to also testify to what they had heard. The teachings of Jesus were filled with love and grace and brought great hope to all who heard. Unlike the rigid law, Jesus embraced the people as One who loved and cared for them.

The third aspect was to what they felt. They would have been overflowing with joy and blessings by the gentle touch of Jesus. He wanted them to realize and understand they had lots of unfinished business.

As we have looked at a few quick thoughts about this story, we must realize the message Jesus shared with His disciples is the same message to us. We all have unfinished business.

No matter your age, God is not done with you yet. He has called us to a life of service to Him, and we all have a story to tell. The story is what we have seen, what we have heard, and what we have felt. It comes down to the bottom line. Will we do what He has called us to do, or will we leave this world with unfinished business?

Ready for the 'Cats second season

hen it comes to college foot-ball, the days when we reach August, so get ready for year number two of Indiana Wesleyan University Wildcat football

Most of us are still shaking are heads when we talk about last year's 7-3 opening season. I can't believe what the Wildcats and Jordan Langs have produced in such a short amount of time. In year one, Jordan Langs and company made us all believe that this will be a fun program to follow.

Now it's year two, and here comes the really tough schedule. Three teams--Marian, St. Francis and Concordia of Michigan--are powerhouses who will be ranked in the nation's top ten in the NAIA's preseason

That means, short of pulling off huge upsets, the Wildcats could possibly be looking at 7-3, at best, but don't tell that to Coach Langs and company.

One great thing about the season this year is that if you want to follow the Wildcats, vou don't have to drive very far. Of the 10 games, eight are either in Marion or a short, one-hour trip to the Butler Bowl, Taylor U, or Ft. Wayne's St. Francis stadium.

Many things have already impressed me about Jordan Langs' performance so far, but if you follow Indiana high school football like I certainly do, the names of the schools he is landing recruits from read like a Who's Who list of big-time programs

He has already recruited against the NCAA Division I schools, and other Indiana football programs and come away with his share of the very fine recruits.

The crowds were great in 2018, but look for sellouts in 2019. I would urge you to go out and pick up a season ticket soon. Home games against Missouri Baptist, Olivet Nazarene, Lawrence Tech, Siena Heights and Marian of Indy make this a fun year. Opening night is September 7 at the Butler Bowl against the Bulldogs. Let's let Indy know the Wildcat nation is loud and proud. We will look for you at Wildcat football in 2019. By the way, somebody pinch me.

Behind a tremendous group of senior leadership at multiple positions, the Panthers finished with a 13-2 record, averaging 3.2 goals per match and allowing just 10 goals all season--four of which came in their final game against

For 2019, though, the Panthers will have a whole different look. Eastbrook graduated 10 seniors, including goalkeeper Jacob Huber, midfielders Zane Shilts, Noah Ross, and Andrew Siegelin, all of whom were captains, and defenders Conner Raikes and Luke Abston.

With the return of leading scorer Collin Burman. who finished with 13 goals last season, and the continued growth of players like Sam Spiegal, Bryan Popoca, and Elijah Shutt, the Eastbrook offense should suffer no setbacks in 2019. Ramzzy Bowser, who grew as a defender last year, also returns, together with Nathan Brainer, Andrew Bruner, and Simon Manwell, who has really taken his game to another level,

"He played some JV for us focused on team bonding, last year, but he has stepped into his own all summer," Hallis said. "He's playing well for us right now. He's a really vocal leader out there for us. He brings everybody together. He's worked hard, and the guys are impressed by

Marion

The Marion Giants' 2018 boys soccer season was one marred by inconsistency.

When the Giants were on their game, they were effective, moving the ball with ease, playing strong defense, and creating quality scoring chances. At other times, they struggled mightily and were unable to establish any kind of rhythm

That inconsistency led to an uneven campaign, as the Giants finished with an 8-7-2 record and were upset by Grant County rival Oak Hill in the first game of the sec-Over the summer, the Gi-

Furthermore, players like Mario Garcia, Joseph Powell, and freshman Alex Powell have impressed Berry throughout the summer workouts, and goalkeeper Malik Smith has made tremendous strides in goal for Marion.

Along with all of these players, the Giants have a few new guys that Berry believes will contribute immediately and consistently during the 2019 season. "We have two newcomers," Berry said. "Freshman Zane Smith kids this summer [has been will start immediately as a great,]" Berry said. "This defensive midfielder, and we had a young man who has transferred from Muncie Burwanting to play, wanting to ris, Drew Bartrum, who is a physical player. He can play forward. "I feel real good about this team," Berry said. "We want to have a good varsity season, but, more importantly, we want to win the sectional. I'm optimistic."

After a tough first season, Reel is proud of how his group has both matured and improved during the course of summer workouts. "I believe we are getting better each day," Reel said. "The players are starting to buy in to what it takes to be a winning team. Many of them worked hard in the offseason and so far have come into this season with a lot of excitement and enthusiasm. My seniors have been some great leaders in the offseason. I believe we will be more successful this season and may surprise some

Unlike many of the teams in Grant County, the Indians did not suffer much roster turnover, graduating just four players. They return their top two goal scorers in Colin Yoder (16) and Holden Brown (11), along with a young defensive group that should take a significant step forward in 2019. Furthermore, players like Thomas Steelman and Noah Drake have grown as senior leaders, helping the younger players keep on the

"They are competitors and hate to lose," Reel said. "I emphasize this in our program, that players should hate losing more than the hard work done in training. I believe that if we work as a team, there should be no reason that Noah, Thomas, Holden Brown, or Colin Yoder won't have double digit goals by the end of the season."

With the graduation of Connor Layman, the Indians will realize one significant void: goalkeeper. However, Reel likes what he has seen from senior Cody Nantz and sophomore Austin Long. Both could see significant time between the pipes this coming season. "Our goalkeepers have been working hard this summer as well,' Reel said. "Cody and Austin both have put in the work in the off season. I feel confident in both guarding our goal."

Along with all the young talent they already possess, the Indians also have a pair of freshman, Evan Yoder and Tyler Cook, who could see the field regularly. "They both had really good seasons in the spring at RJB," Reel said. "I believe they will be successful this year once they get accustomed to the speed of play at the high school level."

Last year, it was all about laying the foundations. This year, Reel and the Indians are ready to take the next step.

"If we can stay healthy. I believe we can set a new record for wins at Mississinewa and make a run in our sectional,' Reel said. "I am excited for the future of Mississinewa

While the Oak Hill Golden Eagles finished under 500 in 2018, Joel Garverick's first year at the helm was a inconsistent play in the earlier stages of the season, the Golden Eagles came together as a unit late in the year. They played some of their best socupset win over Marion--their first in nine years--in the first round of the sectional.

Now heading into year

two of his tenure, Garverick is looking to build on both of his rookie year in order to take Oak Hill boys soccer to new heights. "Our biggest focus over the offseason has been on consistency." Garverick said. "We played well at times, but we also played really poorly at times. We've been trying to reach that consistency every single practice. We've focused on playing hard. Every single drill we go through, whether it's something fun or something more sure that every rep is done with intensity and done with the same amount of focus as

Last year, Garverick was heading into his first season as a head coach. He was focused on building his program the right way, instilling his culture and working to effectively communicate what he wanted from his players. Now, with a full season of confidence level heading into comfortable and more on top of things this year," Garverick said. "I feel like I understand what I'm looking for. tweaks and adjustments.

"We have the potential to accumulate a lot of wins. We have a big group of seniors, so their leadership is going to make or break our team. They are pushing each other the way that they should. They are pushing the other guys. We have a lot of talent, that's for sure."

While the Golden Eagles did lose some talented seniors, including Isaiah Henry and Luke VanBibber, they will have their leading scorer back in 2019. In 15 games last season, Gavin Holz finished with 15 goals, seven more than the next closest player. Heading into his senior season, Garverick expects Holz to once again lead the offense in the coming campaign.

"Gavin had a really nice offseason," Garverick said. "He put in work both on the soccer field and in the weight room. He's in really good shape. Seeing how he's gotten bigger, faster, and stronger, [that's] going to be a scary sight for defenders. We are looking for Gavin to score some goals for us."

Dalian Leach, who finished with eight goals last season, will also be a scoring option for the Golden Eagles, while Thommy Seybold will man the centerback position as the leader of the defense. Sam

Boyer, who made incredible strides as a goalkeeper last season, will also be back, looking to pick up where he left off.

Oak Hill also has several newcomers who will look to make their mark in 2019. Corey Griffin, who just moved into the area, is an incredibly skilled player who is ready to contribute. Weston Seybold, Thommy's younger brother, is a player mature beyond his years, and has stepped up his game throughout the summer.

"He's a smaller guy, but I love what he brings to the table," Garverick said of Seybold. "His mentality is off the charts. He's had an incredible summer, and will be one of the leaders on this team.

He's a natural born leader. I'm looking forward to what Weston can do on and off the field for our team."

With this group and all the advancements they have made, the Golden Eagles have the potential to be a muchimproved squad in 2019. "I expect us to compete in every single game that we are in," Garverick said. "I don't care if we are playing the worst team on our schedule or the best team on our schedule, there is absolutely no reason why we shouldn't be able to compete and have a chance to win every single game on our schedule. We are looking forward to going up against the best of the best and seeing what we are made of."
