United Way of Grant County has received a $150,000 grant to open doors for some of our community's youngest citizens who are living in what social scientists call a childcare desert.

It's a new term for an old problem. A childcare desert is a neighborhood or part of a city where there is no more than one childcare seat for every three children. Statewide, 45 percent of children live in a childcare desert, according to a study by Early Learning Indiana and the Indiana Business Research Center.

Thanks to the grant, funded by Indianapolis-based Lilly Endowment and managed by Early Learning Indiana, an additional rector of United Way; Brenda 150 Grant County children and their families, between the ages of six weeks and 6 years, will have access to high quality childhood education opportunities.

The successful grant, which began as two proposals that were merged into one, was written by Alicia Hazelwood, executive diMcVicker, director of curriculum and assessment for the Eastbrook Community Schools; and Greg Maynard, director of fund development for Carey Services.

The Grant County application was one of 13 selected to receive funding and was one of only four to receive the maximum amount of $150,000. More than 30 proposals initially were received statewide for the $1 million in Lilly Endowment funding.

"We are extremely excited to get the award and to receive not only money but also the support and recognition that what we are doing in Grant County shows great promise," Hazelwood said.

month for Grant County Democrats. Eight days before the filling deadline for the May 5 primary election, there is not a single Democrat on the ballot for a countywide office.

"At this time, I am working with a couple of individuals to get them on the ballot," said Terry Stodghill, county chairman of the Democratic Party. "I won't lie to you, it has been tough."

Even if no Democratic candidates file for the primary election, party leaders still have until the end of June to fill vacancies on the ballot for the November 3 general elec-

In addition to those two offices, January has been a frustrating other county offices on the 2020 ballot include Superior Court 1 judge, county recorder, county surveyor, two county commissioners and three at-large seats on the county council.

> Scrambling for candidates in county elections is nothing new for Grant County Democrats. In the past 25 years, only two Democrats have been elected to county offices.

Oatess Archey made history in 1998 when he became the first African-American ever elected sheriff in any of Indiana's 92 counties. Archey, an all-state athlete at Marion High School and a retired FBI agent, was re-elected to a second term in 2002 with 74 percent of

Habitat to build house in Sweetser

by Alan Miller

Habitat for Humanity of Grant County is taking applications from families in the county who would like to acquire a house in Sweetser that the organization plans to build later this year. The groundbreaking is set for late spring or early summer.

Families must meet three criteria: the ability to pay, a need for housing and a willingness to partner with Habitat for Human-

Applicants also must attend an informational meeting at 10 am, Saturday, February 1, at College Wesleyan Church, 200 E. 38th Street. The meeting will offer information on Habitat's mission, how the selection process works and what it means to be a Habitat homeowner.

(Applicants who attended an informational meeting on January 27 do not need to attend the February 1 meeting.)

Habitat also is seeking volunteers to help build the house or serve on committees. Interested volunteers should email info@ granthabitat.com or call 765-662-1552.

Visit the website, www. granthabitat.com for additional information on the organization.

here are some things in life that never grow old. At the top of the list are the stories of Jesus found in the Gospels. One of those stories gives us great insight into children. Luke 18:15-18 says, "(15) And they brought unto Him also infants, that He would touch them; but when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them. (16) But Jesus called them unto Him, and said, permit little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. (17) Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God like a little child shall in no way enter it."

Why would Jesus draw such attention on a group of little children? There is no doubt they were important to Him, or He would not have given this subject any

As I ponder this passage, I want to ask some questions to try and illuminate what Jesus said. What do we really know about children? In Psalm 127:3 the Scripture tells us that they are a heritage of the Lord. What does that mean? We have the privilege of overseeing what God has created and given us. However, children are only on loan to us. They belong to God and we are His stewards. Contrary to what some people believe, they are not a ward of the state; children don't belong to the government.

Another question that I think of is: What responsi-

You may be thinking at this point: "Are we raising them to be religious fanatics?" I hope not! One thing that we don't need any more of is religious people. There are lots of people who are religious, but lost. We must train our children the way of being ambassadors for Christ. If we don't take the time to train our children in the things of God, remember, the devil has time for them. He will do all he can scarred and battered from the storms of life. Sin takes a toll at times on older individuals. Little children have not been subjected to all the things we have experienced.

I hope this year that we are all more like Jesus and sensitive to the needs of little children. They need lots of instruction, encouragement, and love. I know that I have the capability to do those three things, and I am committed to putting the plan into action. How about vou?

holds lots of me. When we bought our home in August 1994, the stove came with it.

As first-time homeowners, not having to buy a stove seemed a way to save a little bit of money. That was except for the note from the previous owners saying the stove didn't work. Not to worry though, because my husband Larry, dubbed MacGyver by one of our previous neighbors, figured out pretty easily that the stove did work, it just needed the temperature gauge adjusted.

The 39-inch white stove has so much character: the silver General Electric name tag that has a red emblem in the middle, the light that illuminates the entire stove top and the multilevel options for each of the four burners that glows with a different color when a burner is on. The different colors for each button always remind me of the rainbow with Warm being blue, Lo-green, Three-orange, Two-yellow and High appropriately colored red.

While the oven is small, the stove's top surface has an area to hold all my cooking utensils, a spoon holder, as well as plenty of space to make Christmas candy, so—a good trade-off. And, for most of the time, the size of the oven was not a big deal. Only at holiday time did making an entire meal prove to be a bit more difficult. To resolve part of the problem, Larry just grilled the turkey for Thanksgiving and for Christmas we timed the meal so that the ham was cooked partially, then other items were baked, and the ham finished last. A few years ago, the oven stopped working, so it seemed time to look for a new stove. Larry and I went to a local store to see what a new stove might look like and were surprised when talking to a saleswoman that she actually discouraged us from buying a replacement. She told us to try and fix what we had, stating

As silly as it sounds, I am having a hard time letting go of my old canning stove. I think of all the memories that stove has made with my family: all the Christmas holidays when we made all the different cookies and candies; all the chicken Alfredo meals I made for the Oak Hill girls basketball pre-game meals and all the dinners I made for the family.

nothing we could buy would 250 degrees. An hour into compare to what we had.

Again MacGyver came to my rescue, searching the internet for a heating element that he could replace in the oven. That gave us a few more years with our canning

However, recently, I started noticing the oven seemed to be scorching things. A meal I placed on the bottom rack burned half of the meal. Another time Andrea put a pizza in the oven and the crust turned too brown.

I thought I just needed to move the bottom rack a little higher in the oven, a simple fix.

Then I came home from work one day to find Larry telling me that the oven was not working correctly. He had put in a stew I had made the night before that needed to cook for four hours at

A SLICE OF LIFE Linda Wilk

Even as I mourn over my stove, I realize there will be pluses to a new stove: it will allow me to cook an entire Thanksgiving or Christmas meal at the same time, for one. And, since change is part of life, I guess I will learn how to create new memories with a new stove.

Ironically, it appears that the stove waited to conk out until after our children left home. Maybe that old canning stove decided it was time to start some new traditions with just Larry stuff about this news business usually isn't very interesting and I was going to leave it alone. even after we lost a legend in Jim Lehrer last week. He, a steady hand in news at public television for so many years, died at 85.

I might have said something bland about his decency and then moved on to something else, but one of the government goons got in the way over the weekend and that changed

If ever there was a journalist—and he worked in both print and on air—a man of more integrity than Jim Lehrer, I do not know of him. And if ever there was a Secretary of State of the United States further down in the gutter than Mike Pompeo, I do not know of him.

These two, Lehrer and Pompeo, converged in mind sometime Saturday after I reread the journalism commandments Jim Lehrer bequeathed to us and then read of Mr. Pompeo's profanity-laced tantrum unleashed on a lady who, by all accounts, is as decent a person as there is in the Washington press corps, Mary Louise Kelly, a reporter for National Public Radio and an anchor person at the daily "All Things Considered.

We'll not dwell on the details here, but Kelly was interviewing the Secretary of State and had the temerity to ask about Ukraine, a place the Secretary apparently does not like very much at the moment.

That put an end to the interview, but Kellev was office somewhere inside the lasted. He asked, 'Do you Ukraine?' He used the fword in that sentence, and many others."

"Then he asked he if I could find Ukraine on a map," and Kelly, whose reporting has taken her around the world, said, "Yes," she did. That's about the time Pompeo launched another tirade about the media being—his word—

a top state in the country for our infrastructure, fiscal responsibility and strong economy. Unfortunately, we do not rank as well when it comes to health care costs, with Hoosiers spending more annually on medical expenses than the average American and smoking rates continuing to rise. This session, I join House lawmakers working to drive down healthcare costs by stopping surprise, out-of-network billing and reducing youth While 41% of Americans are worried about rent or mortgages, 67% are increasingly worried about being able to afford surprise medical bills, according to the Kaiser Family Foundation. Some Hoosier patients are visiting facilities they know are innetwork, but later receive a bill that includes the cost of an out-of-network provider and is much higher than they anticipated. Referred to as surprise, out-of-network requiring patients to be billed at in-network rates if they visit an in-network hospital or facility. As this bill goes through the legislative process, lawmakers are continuously working with providers, insurance companies and health care industry professionals to fix this issue and protect patients from surprise medical bills.

Another piece of legislation would align Indiana with federal law by raising the age to purchase tobacco products from 18 to 21, including ecigarettes and vaping products. According to the Indiana State Department of Health, around 3,100 Indiana youth become new daily smokers each year. It is estimated that approximately 151,000 Hoosiers currently under the age of 18 will ultimately die prematurely from smoking, unless smoking rates are reduced.

Under this bill, penalties for retailers would also be stiffened for selling these products to those under 21. This legislation is important for young adults throughout our state; however, it could also prove especially helpful for our community. While the state has about a 22% rate of adult smokers, Grant County has approximately 31%. This bill could go a long way in Coming off of their muchneeded NCC triumph over Anderson, the Marion Giants could not keep their momentum going in Saturday's tilt with Lafayette Jefferson, as they were defeated by a score of 86-73. With the loss, Marion fell to 6-8 overall and 3-2 in the conference.

The Bronchos took a 22-17 lead after the first quarter, before extending their lead to 50-28 after a 28-11 run closed out the opening half.

"I thought we definitely learned a lot tonight as far as detail," Marion Head Coach James Blackmon said. "In the first quarter, we were pretty solid on defense, but I thought in the second quarter when the shots didn't go down, and when you have a team like Lafayette who is capable of four or five guys really scoring well. I thought [the Bronchos] played their best quarter. When they went on a 28-11 run, that kind of knocked the wind out of us."

The Giants played much better basketball in the second half, closing the Jeff lead to nine points with 1:37 to go, but they would not get any closer.

"I give credit to our guys in the second half," Blackmon said. "I thought we chipped away. We made defensive stops. And guys kept playing. We made some improvements, and that's all I can ask for. An 11-4 run for Mississinewa to start the frame put them firmly in control, while their defense began to put the clamps on Wabash's offense, forcing four turnovers in the frame and scoring a plethora of buckets in transition.

"We were a little rusty to start the game," Reed said. "Defensively, especially. We got loose, we got out, and we weren't rebounding very well. But then in the second quarter, they locked up [and] they really bought back into what we were doing. When their defense is that good, it just goes right into our offense, and that's how we can score points quickly."

In what has become the theme for the Eastbrook Panthers' 2019-2020 campaign, their offense struggled to score, and that. combined with a strong performance from Adam Central's Carly Holley, led to ter, the Tigers outscored the Eastbrook's tenth defeat—a Panthers 9-4 in the second 39-28 loss to the Flying Jets frame to take a 15-8 lead last Tuesday night.

Eastbrook struggled to get shots up in the opening Bluffton advantage to five at two quarters, and when they did, they failed to knock but some clutch free throw them down as the Flying Jets took an 18-14 lead.

"We got shots, really good and secure the victory." shots [in the first half,]" Eastbrook Head Coach Jeff more shot than us," Liddick Liddick said. "But only hit said. "The difference was 29 percent of them. In the they were 15-of-17 from second half, it was kind of the free-throw line and we the same deal. F. Miscellaneous Provisions

- 1. Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check or acceptable bidder's bond made payable to the Owner, in a sum of not less than five percent (5%) of the total amount of the highest aggregate proposal, which check or bond will be held by the Owner as evidence that the bidder will, if awarded the contract, enter into the same with the Owner upon notification from him to do so within ten (10) days of said notification. Should a successful bidder withdraw his bid, or fail to execute a satisfactory Contract, the Owner may then declare the bid deposit of bond or check forfeited as liquidated damages but not as a penalty.
- 2. For contracts over $200,000, approved performance and payment bonds guaranteeing faithful and proper performance of the work and materials, to be executed by an acceptable surety company, will be required of the Contractor at the time he executes his contract. The bond will be in the amount of 100% of the Contract Price and must be in full force and effect throughout the term of the Construction Contract plus a period of twelve (12) months from the date of substantial completion
- 3. The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal, or all proposals, or to accept any proposal or proposals, or to make such combination of proposals as may seem desirable, and to waive any and all informalities in bidding. Any proposal may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of proposals or authorized postponement thereof. Any proposal received after the time and date specified shall not be considered. The Owner reserves the right to accept or reject any bid or waive any informality or errors in bidding for a period of 90 days after bid date.
- 4. A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted. Award will be made to the low, responsive, responsible bidder.
- 5. All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over construction of the project shall apply to the project throughout.
- 6. Proposals shall be properly and completely executed on proposal forms included in the Project Manual. Proposals shall include all information requested by State Board of Accounts Form 96 (Revised 2013) included within the Project Manual. Under Section III of Form 96, the Bidder shall submit a financial statement. The Owner may make such investigations as deemed necessary to determine the ability of the Bidder to perform the work and the Bidder shall furnish to the Owner all such information and data for this purpose as the Owner may request. The Owner reserves the right to reject any bid if the evidence submitted by, or investigation of, such Bidder fails to satisfy the Owner that such Bidder is properly qualified to carry out the obligations of the Agreement and to complete the work contemplated therein.
- 7. Each Bidder is responsible for inspecting the Project site(s) and for reading and being thoroughly familiar with the Contract Documents and Specifications. The failure or omission of any Bidder to do any of the foregoing shall in no way relieve any Bidder from any obligation with respect to its Bid. TNH 1/22, 1/29

"I think our defense was the difference in the game tonight," Oak Hill Head Coach Kevin Renbarger said. "Alexandria is a very solid offensive team and run their stuff very well. Our kids did a good job of locking in on their preparation and forcing Alexandria to take over half of their shots from the three point line. for himself. That confidence has led him to step out into a more impactful role on this team.

The Tigers pushed back, cutting the lead to four, 22-18, at the halftime break, but the Golden Eagles never lost the lead. Neither team shot well in the third quarter as the two teams combined to score just 15 points, but a 19-point fourth quarter by the Golden Eagles helped them secure their eighth victory of the season. "It was very good growth out of our team to respond to runs the caliber of Alexandria," Renbarger said. "That team is the Madison County champion, and they did it by going through Anderson and Pendleton Heights. We knew they were going to make a run, as they are very good at executing their offense. I thought our team did a great job of getting stops when we needed them."

a seat on the county council in 2010. Four years earlier, Brock lost a race for the same seat by one vote, and in 2014 he was defeated by almost 700 votes when he sought a second term.

Terry Stodghill began dabbling in politics in 2005 after he retired as a union ironworker. "The first thing I worked on was the Obama primary election, and then several years later I worked in the Marion office for Hillary Clinton," he said.

Stodghill was elected chairman of the Grant County Democratic Party in March of 2017, and Patricia Gibson was appointed vice chairman of the party in June of 2018. Gibson worked 10 years at the Chronicle-Tribune as a reporter and editor and, for the past seven years, she has been director of communications for the Marion Community Schools.

In the 2018 county election, Stodghill and Gibson chose to lead by example by running for seats on the Grant County Council. Neither was successful, with Gibson receiving 40 percent of the vote and Stodghill receiving 30 percent.

Coming off the 2019 Marion municipal elections, when Stodghill and Gibson were able to fill the entire Democratic ballot, the party had higher hopes for this year's election cycle. To date, that has not happened.

"Even if some of our candidates didn't get all of the way there in the city elections, I think we definitely changed the conversation," Gibson said. "Our candidates brought up some issues that hadn't been in the public eye during the last 20 years that I have lived in Marion."

Two Democrats, one of them a first-time candidate, were elected to the Marion City Council in 2019. Another Democrat, Kathleen Kiley, was reelected to her eighth four-year term as city clerk.

"I've been trying to figure out for the last three county elections, why we can't get Democrats elected in the county," Stodghill said. "All of the smaller communities around Marion vote Republican, and the Democrats know that, so why would they want to put in all that time and effort when they know what the end result is going to be."

In a sense, Gibson said, county government is a different animal because several offices on the ballot are full-time jobs, which would rule out potential candidates who already have jobs. Despite obstacles, Gibson remains optimistic about the future of the Grant County Democratic Party.

"In the city elections especially, I think we laid some good building blocks," she said. "I am going to keep trying to engage people who haven't been previously involved in the political and civic life of their community."

Stodghill said running for a seat on the county council two years ago was an eyeopener.

"I am a workhorse. I talked to people all the way from the north side of the county, where I live in Cook Estates, to Rigdon, on the south side of the county," he said. "Seventy-five percent of the people had no idea who their county council members or county commissioners were. Some people were not even aware we had a county council.

"The only conclusion I have is that there is too much politics in local government. I think Marion Mayor Jess Alumbaugh said it best when he said, 'We need to get rid of the R's and D's on the ballot.' But that is just the way it is," Stodghill said.

Stodghill said he is not ready to give up, however. "At this point in time, I plan to remain as county chairman. We will see what happens by the end of the year."

Darren Reese, the county Republican chairman since 2017, would appear to be the biggest beneficiary of the Democratic Party struggles, but he is concerned about the election process.

"People might expect me to be of the mindset, and some previous county chairmen have been, that the people have spoken, and this is just the way it is going to be," Reese said. "But I believe a conversation across the county among individuals of both parties would be attractive, so we could talk about ideas. I think that would make the Republican Party stronger,

Come out and see the real deal at IWU: Kyle Mangus

Wesleyan University basketball over the past quarter of a century, but what I have witnessed over the past three months is beginning to shock the system.

Since November 3, IWU has played 15 games. They have won 13 and lost but 2—both on the road, and both four- to five-hour road trips. Amazingly, during this 13-2 run, the 'Cats have played only four home games—the remaining 11 were on the road.

Want to compare that schedule with some school down in Bloomington called Indiana University?

The Hoosiers have played 20 total games over that stretch, with 16 at home and only four away from Bloomington. I guess they're saving on travel.

So, you see, the Wildcats have played an absurd road schedule, and yet they're 13-2 and ranked No. 2 in the national polls released for NAIA Division-2 teams. They are running away with the Crossroads League and have the second-leading scorer in the nation. That's number two among all of the players in NCAA D-1, D-2, D-3, junior college, NAIA D-1 and NAIA-D2.

His name is Kyle Mangus and he's as good of a guard as you will find anywhere. The Wildcats have the second-leading scorer among all of the players in NCAA D-1, D-2, D-3, junior college, NAIA D-1 and NAIA-D2.

The junior from Warsaw, IN was just named the Cross-roads player of the week for leading the Wildcats to two huge wins—over Grace last Tuesday and Bethel last Saturday—both on the road, of course.

In those two games, Mangus averaged 34 points per game, plus pulled down 12 rebounds, had 8 steals, and 6 assists while shooting 58% from the floor: numbers that some kid named Bird put up 40 years ago. This season, the 6-4 guard has led IWU to nine wins against teams ranked in the NAIA's top 25. He would have to be considered the nation's runaway choice for NAIA player of the year.

It gets even better: You have the chance to see this kid play at IWU eight times from now through the first of March. That's right, IWU is finally coming home.

So plan a trip soon to the Luckey Arena and watch college basketball the way it should be played—not with four or five 18- and 19-year old kids trying to make it to the NBA, but with good kids who want, first, an education and then a chance to win Indiana Wesleyan University its fourth national championship in the past seven years.

Take it from me, JB: you won't be disappointed.
