

MHS JROTC cadets face field day challenge

On Thursday, Oct. 15, the Marion High School JROTC Giant Battalion faced physical and mental challenges at Marion's Mat-ter Park.

Nearly 70 cadets partici-pated in field day events hosted by representatives from the Marion Police De-partment, Ball State Univer-sity ROTC, Indiana Wesleyan University, Pur-due Fort Wayne University, Additionally, recruiters from the U.S. Army, Indiana National Guard, Air Force and Navy hosted a series of competitive events for JROTC cadets to complete.

The all-day event was certainly a challenge for all of the cadets.

"We deliberately part-nered with other service-or-iented organizations so the cadets could see and get to know individuals who have dedicated their lives to the service of others," said re-tired Lt. Col. David Farlow, the Marion JROTC senior Army instructor. "I want the cadets to understand that giving back to their commu-nity is important, and the organizations participating with us are dedicated to serving others."

However, the JROTC cadets also enjoyed the day's festivities as well.

"Field day is always a lot of fun," said Cadet Kylee O'Neil, an MHS senior. "It will be great to see our new cadets to have the opportu-nity to participate and face the fun and challenges."
