Take advantage of the vaccine giving each of us a special gift this Christmas. Some have already received it and others will receive it in the coming months.

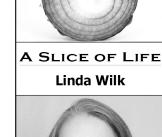

While all who ask will receive eternal life through belief in the birth and death of Jesus, this gift is a more tangible gift that I write

And please know that I understand without a personal relationship with Jesus, having the tangible gift means nothing in the big picture.

The tangible gift I speak of is the Coronavirus vaccine. I truly believe this year of 2020 God has been in complete control. He strategically slowed us down a few short weeks before Easter, pulling us closer to Him and our immediate families.

As I write my take on the past several months of life during this pandemic, I grieve with each who have lost a loved one to the corona virus. It is not my place to question why God chose to let some be inflicted with the virus and die, while others be infected and live.

I can only pray that those who died had a personal relationship with God and are celebrating in Heaven now. As for those who survived the virus, my belief is God is not done with those people yet.

For some like David Henry, I believe God knows just how powerful his testimony is and will be to so many and how his message will potentially bring more to his Kingdom. For others, who may have been on the fence about the power of prayer or who God really is, possibly and my guess is probably, God is intending that their illness and recovery has changed their think-

This past year has slowed us down. It has forced us to really focus on what is most important in our lives or at least it has for me.

It has given me a daily walk with God, as I find myself having random conversations with God. I have also spent more time praying for God's will as I learn of friends and church family members touched by the virus.

I have become bolder about my Faith and letting others know the power of prayer. I have found myself not stressing as much about the day to day logistics. I am not saying I have completely eliminated stress from my life, just that the number of days stress has ruled has reduced.

Again, as this year has been a year of slowing down. It has also been year of stretching the medical community like it has never been stretched. Among my prayers, have been frequent prayers for the medical community. The heroes that live among us and must stay diligent. Yet, as I eluded to in the beginning of this column, each one of us over the next several months will be given the gift of the vac-

It is the vaccine that we both the first dose and second dose. It is our turn as a member of society, to step up and get the vaccine.

There has been controversy and talk about will the vaccine cause more problems than taking the chance of not getting vaccinated.

We must realize it is not just about us as individuals. Just like we have been asked to wear a mask to protect others more than ourselves. We are now being asked to get a vaccine that will protect us, however, just as much to protect others.

In a recent television interview with Dr. Fauci, he was asked if we can eliminate the Corona Virus. His reply was just like polio and smallpox have been eliminated, if a majority of the world population gets vaccinated, yes it can be eliminated.

So, in a year with so many precedents being set, let us set the precedent that we will each take the vaccine when it is offered to us. Let us do it for ourselves, vet more importantly, let us do it for mankind, so that we can end this horrific virus that has taken us to our knees.

Ordinance

road tractors, semi-trailers, buses, or inoperable automobiles, vans, panel and pick-up trucks, pull-trailers, motorcycles, recreation vehicles, campers, and boats are not permitted to be parked in residential dis-

In the original draft of the new ordinance, Committee Chairman Jerry Foustnight made it clear he did not want any vehicles parked on any dirt surfaces, stating that people would abuse the ordinance and continue parking their vehicles in illegal places.

"The purpose of this thing is to get people to park on approved parking spots," Foustnight said. "If we allow them to park in the backyard, in dirt, how do we determine what the backyard is? Second, if you allow them to park in the dirt in the backyard, then what is the difference in parking on the dirt in the front yard? I have a concern that if we try to go in and start allowing dirt in the back and all this, I think we are defeating the purpose of the ordinance.

"It's not to harass anybody. What we are trying to do is clean up the city of Marion."

However, committee member Robin Foust, disagreed, claiming that there are some neighborhoods in Marion where driveways are scarce and parking on the street is not an option. For example, in her neighborhood on 9th Street, many residents park in their backyards because it is not safe to park out front due to heavy vehicle traffic in the area. While she agreed with the ordinance, Foust argued that dirt should be designated as an approved parking surface for those who are unable to park elsewhere.

"If we were in a different time and economics were different, I would be for getting individuals to designate and upgrade to a parking spot," Foust said. "I don't believe we are there at this time. I don't want to give a financial hardship for parking. I just could not agree to that. Certainly, I think it's important that we define and enforce some type of parking stipulation. But to say they can't park on the dirt...I just could not agree with that."

After much debate, the committee agreed to make four exceptions: operable vehicles, vans, panel or pick-up trucks, and motorcycles would be allowed to be parked in the backyard if there is no other approved street parking on an approved concrete, gravel, or asphalt service. Vehicles must be parked 300 feet or more from a residence, and under no circumstances are they allowed to be parked in the front yard.

According to the ordinance, the fine for an illegally parked vehicle is $50 dollars, and the fine is to be paid within 20 days. Additionally, the vehicle is to be removed within 72 hours.

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
