First Regal Home completed,one slot remains

After months of design, engineering, and construc-tion work, the first Regal Home is complete in Mar-ion. This newly constructed modular home is on a corner lot in southeast Marion. Its owner, Tasha, is a lifelong resident of Grant County who has always dreamed of becoming a homeowner.

Tasha nicknamed her new home Big Red.

“This red house with its pitched roof, new garage, and new appliances... is the best thing ever,” she said.

Tasha is the first home-owner of the Regal Homes program, a partnership be-tween the City of Marion, Affordable Housing and Community Development Corporation (AHCDC), and the Indiana Housing and Community Development Authority’s (IHCDA). Regal Homes is a continuation of the Blight Elimination Program, a 2015 collaborative project to demolish 75 blighted properties through-out the City of Marion. Regal Homes now provides an opportunity to transform these properties into new homes and beautify the sur-rounding neighborhoods. The Regal Homes program offers prospective home-owners a free lot and a cus-tom modular home of their choosing.

When Tasha learned of the Regal Homes program, she jumped at the opportu-nity to both become a first-time homeowner and design her dream home. Going modular gives homebuyers like Tasha the freedom to customize floorplans, color schemes, shape, size, etc. and offers a more affordable as well as smarter and faster alternative to traditional, stick-built construction. Here are just a few of the benefits of modular homes: cost-efficient, fast construc-tion, environmentally friendly, and customizable floor plans to meet the pre-ferred housing size, shape, and style of each family or individual.

The Regal Homes pro-gram is designed to serve a total of three aspiring home-owners. With the first Regal Home complete and the sec-ond home under construc-tion, we only have one slot left for our third home-owner. It is first-come, first-serve, so apply as soon as possible.

“We are excited to see a new homeowner in Mar-ion,” Marion Mayor Jess Alumbaugh said. “A vacant lot that was once an eyesore to the neighborhood is now filled with a brand new, beautiful red house. I hope to see many more residents take advantage of this opportunity with Regal Homes and help beautify our neigh-borhoods.”

With the cost of home construction soaring around the country, Regal Homes offers an affordable way to purchase a brand-new home. Regal Homes starts out around $135,000 for a two-bedroom, two-bath home (with garage), plus we are offering incredible financial incentives to help homebuy-ers get started: $7,000 in downpayment assistance and a free lot. Homebuyers can choose from over 70 available lots across Marion.

If you have a dream of new construction and home-ownership as well as a vi-sion to beautify the community, you may be the perfect third Regal Home-owner. To become an owner of a Regal Home, visit: www.regalhomesmarion.com
