sculpture, as voted on by those in attendance. The Golden Pail Award is given to the team that shows the best spirit, while the Schram Family Award is selected by family members of Andy Schram, who the event was created in memory of, and his wife, Ellen.

Finally, the Raising Awareness award goes to the team whose sculpture best depicts CASA's advocacy work and best relates to what CASA does for the community of Grant County. That award is voted on by CASA of Grant County's staff, volunteers, and board members.

After a year of uncertainty, Hendricks and her staff are thrilled to hold the Sand Sculpture Artfest live once again, not only to bring awareness to the work that CASA of Grant County does, but also provide a way for the Grant County, and surrounding communities, to come together for a noble cause.

"All of us feel that weight of the restrictions being lifted," Hendricks said. "[It's great] to know that we get to celebrate the work that we do and we get to highlight the importance of CASA within Grant County in a fun and unique way. We are really excited to offer that event for the community again for everyone to come out and celebrate with us."

Additionally, CASA will open up the sandbox for teams who are unable to make the July 10 event. Last year, since they did not hold the event live, CASA allowed those who wanted to participate build sculptures on individual days over a two-week period when they were available. Pictures of the sculptures were taken and then people were able to vote on the sculptures via social media.

Looking to keep some of the same aspects from last year, Hendricks stated that the sandbox will be open a week prior to the event for those looking to build a sculpture and who are unable to make it to the Splash House on July 10.

For those looking to participate, call the CASA of Grant County office at 765-664-1891 or by sending an email to Hendricks at casa@grantcounty.net.

"Liv had a great night," Goble said. "She ran a lot of really good times tonight—broke our school record in the 800 by about a second. It's been coming."

In the 100 Meter Hurdles, Emma Neargardner left no doubt, dominating both the preliminaries and the final to finish as the sectional champion. Neargardner finished the race in 16.06.

"Emma had a nice race. She was real close to getting below that 16-second mark," Goble said. "She has put in a lot of work this year."

After a strong week of practice, Kristin Goff's hard work paid off in the discus. The soph-

Along with its 4 x 400 relay team advancing, Eastbrook's 4 x 100 relay team of Camden and Emmerson Chellis, Allyson Hiles, and Chloe McDaniel made it out of the sectional as well, placing third with a time of 53.01.

Mississinewa's Kaiyah Jones finished second in the 100 Meter (13.15) and third in the 400 Meter (1:03.95), while Marion's Jackie Williams rounded out Grant County's regional qualifiers with a third-place finish in the 200 Meter (28.14).
